Thalhimer's Announces Plans For Store in Pembroke East

By the fall of 1969 Virginia Beach will have one of the 10 largest shopping complexes in the United States and the largest in Virginia.

Pembroke East, where construction will begin in the spring of 1968 will be built adjacent to Pembroke Mall Shopping Center, nearly doubling the number of stores and service establishments already there.

Only one store has been announced so far. At a press conference Tuesday afternoon at Bow Creek Country Club, information was released that Thalhimer's will build a two-story department store in the new Pembroke East.

The initial phase calls for 120,000 square feet on two floors, with plans to add two additional floors and double the floor space, according to William B. Thalhimer, Jr., president of the Richmond-based operation.

Pembroke East will also be an enclosed, climate-controlled mall type shopping center, employing many of the same features of Pembroke Mall, but with the latest equipment and features available.

Thalhimer's first Virginia Beach store will be built across Constitution Ave. from Miller & Rhoads in Pembroke Mall. In Richmond the home operations of both stores are across the street from each other in the downtown section.

Representatives of Thalhimer's who attended the press conference Tuesday were, beside the president of the company, Charles Thalhimer, senior vice-president, Daniel Schiller, vice-president and treasurer; Newton Hamblet, vice-president of operations; and Walter Fisher, vice-president and assistant treasurer.

The owners and developers of Pembroke Mall - Fred Neapolitano, Horace Cistola and Emilio Oliverio.

The architect for the new center is Harry A. Dudley, Jr., AIA of the architectural firm of Dudley, Morrisette, Cedarquist and Assoc. of Norfolk.

Leasing agents are Phil Hamovitz, Jr., CMS of Alsage Realty of Virginia Beach and Petersburg and Harry Shook of S. L. Nussbaum and Co., Inc. of Norfolk.

The centers, which will create a giant shopping and service complex, are designed to serve the retail needs of all of Tidewater, according to Neapolitano.

The two centers are generally considered to lie at the "crossroads" of Virginia Beach, because of their accessibility to the new Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway, Virginia Beach Blvd. and Independence Blvd.

Besides Thalhimer's there will be at least one other major department store in Pembroke East, although it is not known at this time what department store it will be. In addition there will be 48 other stores of all types in Pembroke East.

When the new center is finished the entire complex will have 112 stores, including four department stores covering 83 acres with seven thousand parking places.

Pembroke East will also have a 1,000-seat movie theatre, but it is not definite what company will build the theatre.

Thalhimer's is the only definite store for the new center, according to the leasing agents, although negotiations are in full swing for the entire center.

Pembroke East will be built at a cost of $13 million. Pembroke Mall cost $15 million. Pembroke East will cover 470,000 square feet, while Pembroke Mall covers 586,000.

The projected annual sales for the two centers total $55 million, $25 million of that amount in the new center. The two centers will employ a total work force of 2,240, compared to 1,000 in the new center.

The approximate annual payroll of Pembroke East will be $6 million, and the approximate annual payroll at Pembroke Mall is $7 million.

City officials, including members of City Council, the Mayor and the City Manager attended the press conference and welcomed the representative of Thalhimer's to Virginia Beach.

Canal Pros, Cons Occupy Most of Public Hearing

The City pointed out the urgent need for a drainage canal system for Virginia Beach at the public hearing held last week at the Dome by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The canal system is necessary to relieve flooding after heavy rains in order to continue urbanization of the City, officials told the Engineers.

However, R. J. B. Page of North Carolina's Dept. of Water Resources expressed the fear that "uncontrolled waterways" in Virginia could set back work under in Currituck Sound.

He said North Carolina is striving to hold salinity at an optimum level in Currituck Sound.

Sound and warned that the level would be upset by open channels between Lynnhaven River and North Landing River and between Rudee Inlet and Back Bay.

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett said that the City is just as interested in Currituck Sound as the people of North Carolina are. He added that the City's proposal is only tentative.

Citizens speaking at the hearing told the Corps of Engineers they would like to see several other facets of the canal system investigated, such as the cost of the system, resulting tidal action in tributaries, inlets and coves around Broad Bay, and the shoaling problems around the Wolfsmare section on the Eastern Branch of Lynnhaven Inlet.

Other suggestions included that the canals would disrupt shellfish and clams in the Lynnhaven River. On the Western Branch, the question of the fate of the sandbar south of Lesner Bridge in the Inlet, the possibility that bridges over the canals would be too low for sail boats and that connecting Linkhorn Bay with Lake Rudee and Broad Bay might drain Linkhorn Bay and flood Birdneck Point.

IT WAS STANDING ROOM ONLY WHEN THE ARMY CORPS OF ENGINEERS HELD THEIR PUBLIC HEARING AT THE DOME.

PAHS Gets Navy Campaign JROTC Program

Princess Anne High School is one of 26 high schools nationwide chosen to participate in the new Naval Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

The year-old program will be in the curriculum of 42 high schools in the United States next fall.

The Navy provides the uniforms, texts, rifles and instructors for the required courses.

The boys chosen will drill once a week and attend classes the other four days. In addition there will be competitive drills and other events.

The three-year program will begin in the sophomore year, and is similar to Army-sponsored programs which have been in effect in many high schools in Virginia for as long as 50 years.

The students who then go on to Naval ROTC in college receive credit for their high school work. The program is considered a regular part of the high school curriculum and not an added part of it.

J. Warren Littleton, principal of Princess Anne High School, said, "We consider it an honor that our school was chosen."

Schools were selected on their academic standards, as well as their ability to support the program, according to a Navy spokesman.

Princess Anne was the only high school that applied for the program this year in Virginia Beach, according to E. E. Brickell, director of secondary administration, but he says he is hopeful other schools here will be included later.

Building Still Not Normal

Building permits issued in Virginia Beach in March are far below the value of March 1966.

Last year in March 385 permits were issued for a total value of $7,399,918. This year only 282 permits were issued and the total value was $4,628,522.

Apartments figured greatly in the total last year and no large development is reflected this year. There were permits issued for 242 apartment units valued at $2,500,000 in March 1966.

Residential construction is still down, following the downward trend which began in April 1966. This past March, 120 permits were issued for homes valued at $2,235,000 while last March 199 permits were issued for homes valued at $3,636,550.

Building officials in Virginia Beach say however that matters have been getting better in the past couple of months and that an upward trend is already definitely established. They say building here will soon be back to normal.

Quickens

The pace of the Democratic primary campaign on the part of the Administration candidates is picking up.

L. Charles Burlage, running for the House of Delegates, promised that he, Kenneth Whitehurst and William Kellam, if elected to the General Assembly, would support legislation to do away with the poll tax in Virginia entirely.

Owen Pickett, candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney, discussed education in Virginia Beach.

He then said his associates on the Administration ticket were interested in seeing all Virginia Beach citizens who have not acquired a high school diploma and are desirous of obtaining one, have some place to attend night classes aimed in that direction.

Incumbent State Senator William P. Kellam, who was a co-patron of a bill in the State Senate in 1966 to raise benefits of the Workmen's Compensation Act, said he would work toward even higher benefits, if elected.

Doctor's offices, motel units and apartments top City Council's zoning deliberations Monday, April 10, at its regular meeting at 2 p.m. The City Planning Commission has already acted on all zoning matters that came before council. If Council approves, a doctor's office building will be constructed on Virginia Beach Boulevard and Seventh St. in Bayside Borough.

If another application is approved two residences on the corner of Wildwood Drive and First Colonial Road will be converted to doctors' offices.

Surfing Hearing To Be April 12

There will be a public meeting on surfing at 8 p.m. April 12 at Virginia Beach Junior High School. Anyone interested in surfing is invited.

City Council Active

Another use permit application would call for 24 apartment units to be built on 16th St. near Parks Ave.

The 110-unit Holiday Inn Motel, to be built on the corner of 36th St. and Atlantic Ave., moves another step closer to reality with the matter coming up for the issuance of a use permit.

City Council is also expected to set a date for public hearings on the record $27 million budget presented by City Manager W. Russell Hatchett at Council's last meeting. The 1967-1968 budget goes into effect on July 1.

Summer Is Big Season for Second

By Joseph Lowenthal, Jr.

Like so many officers of the Virginia Beach Police Dept., Capt. R. C. Davis wears more than one hat. He is commanding officer of the Second Precinct, but also commands the Civil Disturbance Unit, (riot squad) which will be discussed at a later date.

Second Precinct does not cover as much area as First Precinct, but especially during the summer has far more people to contend with. The area extends from the Atlantic Ocean westward to just beyond Great Neck Road and from Dam Neck Naval Installation to the Lesner Bridge.

Capt. Davis is assisted by three lieutenants, C. H. Payne, W. J. Moore and J. W. Whitehurst. In addition three sergeants are assigned to First Precinct. They are R. Nobles, H. C. Lussan and W. F. Currie. There are also 34 patrolmen covering the area in 12 patrol cars.

Like First Precinct, the regular patrolmen answer all calls first and take care of the initial investigation. Then they turn over their findings and the investigation to the division which will be directly involved.

The big difference in the two precincts comes in the summer season. At that time Capt. Davis is also responsible for the 37 summer policemen who are brought in to help regular officers. The summer policemen are usually law students added to the force with regular police powers.

Including the 36 Shore Patrolmen who operate from the same office and assist the police, 106 people are working from one small area above the Fire Department on Arctic Ave. The quarters are extremely cramped, but reportedly the City is looking into the possibility of moving the police precinct to larger quarters soon.

"During the summer we stay quite busy," said Capt. Davis.

"We answer all kinds of calls in the course of a day. There are just so many people here then."

In July of last year, Second Precinct men arrested 1,200 violators, and that does not include the large number of juveniles picked up and turned over to juvenile authorities.

Second Precinct also operates jeep patrols on the beach during the summer.

In the winter months domestic problems and provokers are Second Precinct's biggest problems.

"In the summer, it's the tourists that provide the biggest problem," said Capt. Davis. "But I don't mean the tourist who comes here to spend some time and some money to have a good time. I mean the tourist who comes here with one shirt and one dollar and doesn't plan to change either."

Basically, Capt. Davis' men

of Second Precinct patrol the area as much as possible in order to prevent any kind of crime or disturbance before it happens. And that is quite a job.

NEXT WEEK: The K-9 Corps

Fashion Event

Mid-City Women's Democratic Club will stage the fashion event with fashions from Rose Hall and Alexander-Beegle heading the show. Show time is 8 p.m. An added attraction will be door prizes and a drawing.

Name Names GGA Asked By Admins. Team

The Administration candidates for public office, subject to the July Democratic primary, have sent a registered letter to the Good Government Assn. asking that "names be named"

In a letter which asked for the setting of a firm policy concerning candidates in schools, GGA spokesmen also implied that pressure had been put on school personnel to vote in a certain way or else face consequences. Those consequences allegedly included the loss of jobs.

GGA representatives recently criticized candidates for visiting in the schools at lunch hour and talking with school personnel, but did not name any specific candidates.

School Board Chairman J. W. Buffington immediately labeled the charges "ridiculous."

The letter signed by all the Administration candidates asked representatives of GGA to name persons who were threatened with the loss of jobs and asked that the name of the person or persons doing the threatening also be revealed.

GGA is a watchdog group set up last summer with the reported purpose of maintaining good government on every level.

Planners Expect Short Day

The regular meeting of the City Planning Commission Tuesday, April 11, has a somewhat shorter docket than usual, but still has 11 important applications for zoning changes to consider.

One will be heard that would change zoning to build 38 motel efficiency apartments. Another would allow for the construction of 97 additional motel units.

The Hado Development Corp. is seeking a use permit to build the 38 units on the northeast corner of 29th St. and Pacific Ave.

The Elliff Corp. is seeking a zoning change to allow the 97 units to be built on the northeast corner of Atlantic Ave. and Third St.

With Planning Commission approval and the approval of City Council a new open air movie theatre could also be built in Virginia Beach near Chinese Corner. Through his attorney Ernest Price is applying for the use permit to build the theatre on Helms Lane at Virginia Beach Blvd.

The Virginia Electric and Power Co. is applying for a use permit to build a substation at Providence Road at its intersection with the new interstate 64.

Mob Scene Startles Police

What does a police officer do when he sees a car drive by jam packed with teenagers? He stopped the car and had them all get out so he could count them. The total was 18—six in the front and 12 in back. He told them he just couldn't believe it.

On top of that the driver had to open the trunk to get her purse so she could show him her driver's licence. There wasn't room for it in the car.

He allowed them to drive on with a warning after he found out they were returning from a rehearsal of their class play, "Bye, Bye Birdie," which opens tomorrow night at 8 p.m. at Bayside High School.

Transportation wasn't the only problem the crew had. There was also the matter of fees. They needed them for the play but couldn't find any until the last minute.

There was also the problem of telephones—40 of them. C & P lent them some, and they are using toy ones to fill in.

Chorus Shivers In Dark

The Virginia Beach Civic Chorus production of Oklahoma is being rehearsed in an old converted barracks at Camp Pendleton.

The National Guard allowed the group to use the building, but heat and lights were entirely up to the Civic Chorus.

Both were provided, and the rehearsals go on.

The production of OKLAHOMA will be staged April 21, 22, 28 and 29. The show is under the direction of Charles Oliver.

Spritely Minstrel Opens

The 12th annual Princess Anne Ruritan Minstrel opened Thursday night to a disappointingly small crowd, but attendance for the Friday and Saturday night performances were much better.

The last performance of this year's production will be this Saturday night at 8 p.m. at Princess Anne High School.

The show, entitled MINSTREL DAYS is a spirited performance, dotted with the usual exuberance and bedeviling of the end men using interlucator, Homer Cunningham as a foil.

The 40-member all-male chorus provides fine background accompaniment, as well as some toe-tappers of its own.

The entire production, under the direction of Mrs. Pat Roter is quite worth seeing, and lives up to the good reputation of minstrel shows of the past.

City Woos Canadians

The City is wooing Canadians -- at least April 19-26 when "Canadian Holiday by the Sea" will be promoted.

The timing ties in with Norfolk's Azalea Festival and Historic Garden Week in Virginia.

Canadian flags will be flown, Canadians will receive free Canadian newspapers and Canadian currency will be accepted at most accommodations at even exchange on direct advance reservation.

The Holiday, sponsored by the Virginia Beach Innkeepers and the Chamber of Commerce, will have a full schedule of events. There will be a carpet golf tourney at Hilltop on the 19th; nature hike through Seashore State Park on the 20th; golf tournament at Bow Creek Country Club, then a square dance at the Civic Center on the 21st.

Turn Down the Heat!

They sound great when the heat's down.

A quintet of "Elizabethan musician" plays in the balcony during each performance of "Twelfth Night." Virginia Beach Little Theatre's current production. Unfortunately the balcony is hot.

And the tone of the recorders is affected by heat. The pitch rises with the temperature.

A recorder, in case you don't know, is a woodwind instrument with a whistle-type mouthpiece. Sizes vary from eight inches to about seven feet. They have a range of two and a half octaves.

"The large ones look like a bassoon," said Charles Hardin, Old Dominion music instructor who founded the Virginia Beach Recorder Society.

"It is a musical instrument, not a toy," Hardin said. "Bach, Handel and other composers wrote pieces especially for recorders."

The name, recorder, in the Elizabethan era meant bird singing. The instrument was played to teach birds to sing.

"It's a good instrument for amateurs," Hardin said. "It sounds nice when you begin, and you can go as far as you want," pointing out that there are professional recorder players.

"It can't be played in a large audience because it can't be heard. It's more suitable for chamber music."

There are about 17 members in the Recorder Society, and they will play at the Fine Arts Festival in Newport News this spring. Hardin said they present two or three concerts a year. The Society is hoping to bring a teacher from England next November.

Two of the numbers for the play have been taped. The quintet will provide authentic Elizabethan music live before each act, however.

A Review "Twelfth Night" Worth Viewing

Virginia Beach Little Theatre's first attempt at Shakespeare would have been excellent -- if the lines had been delivered slowly enough to be understood.

A pretty and perky Maria, lady-in-waiting to Olivia, is portrayed by Joanne Larson, another actress making her VBLT debut. Unfortunately, she was often guilty of delivering her lines too quickly. She is the instigator of the plot.

John Carey as Sebastian, Olivia's brother, is competent in his brief but important role. Another newcomer, he served a term as managing director of the Front Street Youth Theatre in Memphis, Tenn.

George Mentz is an amusing Count Orsino, also in love with Olivia. Ian Goodwin as Antonio, a friend of Sebastian, would have been better if he had been more certain of his lines.

Andy Roberts made his debut in the minor comedy part of Fabian. With his show business experience he was assured in the role.

Other cast members include Linda Green, a pretty but expressionless maid servant; Charles Fuller as sea captain and priest; Keith Carlisle Britton as Curio and second officer; and James English as Valentine and first officer.

The play, with curtain time at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday, is well worth seeing, especially for teenagers as an introduction to Shakespeare.

Girl Scout leaders and girls are involved in Operation Hand Clasp in Aragona.

Operation Hand Clasp is a service project in which the girls collect used textbooks to be sent overseas for other children to use. Mrs. Charles Morris, neighborhood chairman, is collecting these books to present to the Navy.

Another newcomer who deserves praise is Trevor De Luca whose excellent singing voice added greatly to the role of the fool, Feste. His comic timing was excellent. He comes from New York where, with his brother and sisters, he appeared as one of the Four De Lucas.

Norrie Martin is worthy of praise as the drunken Sir Toby Belch who enters into a scene to make Malvolio believe Olivia is in love with him.

The audience laughed the first time Sir Andrew Aguecheek, played by Harold Tice, appeared on stage in yellow stockings.

TV Solves Problems in Classroom

One industrial arts classroom at First Colonial High School has something that no other regular classroom in Virginia Beach has -- closed circuit television.

"It's really a boon to teaching," claims Douglas Tillberg, industrial arts teacher.

"It is a teaching aid; it does not replace the teachers," Tillberg emphasized.

Tillberg said it would be of use in almost any classroom, particularly in subjects requiring demonstrations. With the television equipment the whole class can view a demonstration at one time -- especially ones involving small objects. They can be magnified many times on the screen.

The television set is mounted on the wall near the ceiling in view of all students. A transistorized, portable camera and a tape recorder complete the setup.

As an example, Tillberg said that the camera could be focused on a microscope. Thus a class could see at one time what they would otherwise have to take turns observing.

He also said that the television creates greater interest in the students. "Some of the kids that would otherwise sleep in the back seats at least absorb something from the TV. Kids are television oriented these days."

The equipment was lent to Tillberg by a friend, L. Harvey Spilman of Multi Media Engineering Inc., Rockville, Md., for an indefinite time.

"It would cost about $15,000 to equip a school the size of First Colonial, Tillberg estimated. "Two or three cameras and two tape recorders should do it."

Tillberg pointed out that special lectures could be taped then replayed later. Or educational TV programs scheduled at inconvenient times could be taped for future use. Students absent from an important class could make up the class from the tape.

It is also time saving, Tillberg said he uses the equipment for demonstrations of welding or band-saw work which he ordinarily could show only four or five students at a time because of the danger involved.

Operation of the equipment is not difficult, Tillberg's students have been trained to operate it while he is giving a demonstration. "The controls are simple," he said. "The only trouble might be in threading the tape. But unless a person is completely non-mechanically inclined, he should have no trouble."

The average person needs about six pints of liquid each day, and considerably more in hot weather.

THE TELEVISION SCREEN CAN BE SEEN AT THE BACK OF THE ROOM. AT THE RIGHT OF THE DESK IS THE TRANSISTORIZED CAMERA. TILLBERG IS TEACHING AN INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLASS.

Did You Know...?

Would you believe 17,100,638 people have the chance to read about Virginia Beach?

They do. That's the total circulation of the 36 newspapers in which the city runs advertisements. And that's not considering that probably at least two persons read each copy.

The advertisements are part of the advertising schedule which began March 11 and 12 for the current Beach season. Other advertisements are run in magazines. There are billboards on main highways including Interstate 95, posters in travel agencies, bus stations, airports, etc., plus some free spots on television.

Laura Lambe Advertising, Inc., was awarded the account for advertising by the City. The Virginia Beach Advertising Board was set up and appointed by the City for the promotion of Virginia Beach. Mrs. Lambe works with the Advertising Board's executive committee and the Chamber of Commerce on the advertising program.

Last year a total of 49,010 requests for literature were received in response to newspaper advertising. Ninety-five percent of these sent in the folder request coupon included in the advertisements, Mrs. Lambe said.

Promotional literature which gets widespread distribution through answering inquiries, folder racks, travel agents, transportation agencies and major travel shows, will run over a half million pieces this year," she said.

Literature includes an accommodations booklet, special events folder, plus folders for golf, fishing and hunting.

The literature is distributed and processed by the Chamber of Commerce, which handles all the inquiries from the City's advertising program, handles rack distribution and finances and staffs travel shows in which the resort city participates.

Enhancing the impact of Virginia Beach as a vacation choice is exposure through publicity and special promotion--resort releases and photographs sent by the agency to 50 or more resort editors throughout the season.

Our New Proposed Budget

The new City of Virginia Beach budget as presented by City Manager W. Russell Hatchett is both extremely ambitious and extremely fair.

The tremendous amount of work that has gone into the preparation of the new budget is obvious. Of course, no department will ever get as much as it would really like. But this budget sets a new record high, and trimming had to be done somewhere.

Possibly Council will see fit to cut a little more, although general reaction from Council members is quite favorable.

No one likes a tax hike of any kind. We do not like the proposed utility tax hike, but we understand and accept the reasons why it is necessary. After all, our neighboring cities already have the tax rate proposed here.

We are especially pleased to see Virginia Beach School personnel receive a substantial raise. They deserve it.

It is an excellent budget, marking the continued progressiveness of our city government.

Cancer Control Month

The American Cancer Society has issued a call for volunteers for its annual crusade during Cancer Control Month in April. This is a call we hope everyone in Virginia Beach will heed and answer.

A great many people have responded in the past, and a great deal of those are alive today and grateful they responded. In 30 years the number of American Cancer volunteers has grown from fewer than 15,000 to 150 times that many. More are still needed.

Thirty years ago fewer than one out of five cancer victims was being saved. Today it is one out of three. As we go on acquiring knowledge, it can be one out of two and then hopefully, every one. More vigilance is needed and more help from the public is mandatory.

When the American Cancer Society began its fine work 30 years ago, no one could have known how much knowledge could be gained in a short time and how much promise there would be of complete conquest of the dread malady. But here are now a million and a half people living among us, cured of cancer.

Nothing says it any better than the old byword of the Society.... "Fight cancer with a checkup and a check". Obviously only those two will bring about the early diagnosis and eventual cure of deadly cancer.

Much of what happens in the future depends on all of us. We must not ignore the danger signs of cancer and we must never ignore the plea for help.

We urge the residents of Virginia Beach, to join the Cancer Crusade now going on in our city. Joining in could save any one of us from cancer in the future.

PAHS and NJROTC

We congratulate Princess Anne High School upon being selected to participate next fall in the Naval Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps program.

Princess Anne, one of 26 chosen in the United States and the only one in Virginia, was picked for its high academic standards.

The program is a good one, designed to train those interested in the military and to instill superior school spirit.

The choice of Princess Anne High School as an early participant in the program should be recognized as a major educational achievement for a Virginia Beach school.

The Travel Bonus Plan

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel Commission has come up with a great idea that should serve not only to generate more traffic across the beautiful engineering feat, but also should bring new tourists to Virginia Beach.

Basically the plan is a bonus to those who use the bridge-tunnel. Each motorist heading in either direction will be given a book of coupons offering at least a 10 percent discount at participating restaurants, motels, hotels, service stations, travel attractions, and gift shops. They will be able to save far more than the toll they paid in discounts on the rest of their trip.

This should bring additional business to the bridge-tunnel. And it should also bring additional business to Virginia Beach, because our city is a natural stopover point on a trip south.

Several well-known Virginia Beach establishments have joined in the program and expect to enjoy visits from larger families who have not stopped here before, but with discount, will find it possible.

The bridge-tunnel has not reached its hopes in traffic and in revenue. The new plan should help considerably. If nothing else, the discounts will help ease the pain of the high toll on the facility. But even the high toll is only slightly higher than it was in 1932.

The directors of the commission have taken a giant step forward with the new plan. It will definitely help our city and everyone can benefit.

WHERE SPRING CLEANING BEGINS

Letters to the editor

Litter Arrests

Dear Editor:
When I received my new 1967 Virginia license between the two plates was an article from the Virginia Department of Highways stating that "Litter costs $500,000 yearly". That to me sounds like a large sum of money, and what has the Virginia Beach Police Department done to stop this.
As far as I can see they have not arrested one single culprit, and yet the Virginia Garden Clubs have gone to the expense of putting signs on the roads saying "Unlawful to throw trash on the highways fines up to $25.00".
As long as the Police Department does not enforce this, or take any steps to stop the throwing of litter on the roads this condition will continue. If the Police Department did not do anything about speeding and never arrested anyone for breaking the speed laws Virginia Beach highways would be absolutely unsafe for anyone to drive on.

Only by enforcement of the law can one stop a habit that is so easily cultivated. If the city with its $7,000,000 bond issue would spend some of its money by having a special department for the sole purpose of arresting the litterbug and really prosecuting offenders it might stop the throwing of cans bottles etc. on the highways.

To date nothing has been accomplished and the cluttering of the highways still continues with no abatement in sight.

Sincerely,
J. Malcolm Firth

Ed, Note: Several arrests have been made, but there are those who do not believe the small fines imposed are enough punishment.

March of Dimes

Dear Editor:
I am writing to you concerning local drives in our city for March of Dimes and others.

What is the reason in waiting months before depositing checks given as donations? For two months I have had an outstanding check for March of Dimes when my bank balance is received. A check dated January 28th has not been deposited at this date. This is not the first time this has happened.

How can a drive publish the amount of money collected, when the money has not even been deposited. If this happens with checks, what do you suppose happens to cash donated?

Sincerely,
(Mrs.) Garland C. Price, Jr.

We're at the Halfway Mark

No political campaigns ever start actively until six months before the election, even though some of the candidates and potential candidates may start quiet campaigning months, even years, before.

Two years ago when we first came back to Virginia Beach, we were reintroduced to a former acquaintance, Ivan Mapp, Commissioner of Revenue.

In the course of the conversation that followed, we asked Mapp when he came up for election again. His answer was a winning one. He said, "I come up for election again in 1967, and I'm soliciting your vote right now." Spoken like a good, true politician.

Be that as it may, the active campaign, which began with announcement of candidacy in January is about at the half-way mark.

Political Potpourri

What has been accomplished in the campaign so far by either or both sides is debatable. For the most part, the issues have lacked attention, but his is understandable. There are not necessarily enough issues to last for six months.

There was a lull in the campaign for about a week while thoughts turned to more serious things like the celebration of Easter and the rolling of hard-boiled eggs on the boardwalk the day after the Easter parade.

Administration candidates for Virginia General Assembly seats, Burlage, Whitcomb and Kellam, have offered several good concrete suggestions of programs they would introduce and support in the House of Delegates and the State Senate, if elected. Among these proposals would be a tax exemption of a part of military retirement pay, an increase in the Workmen's Compensation benefits, and a bill to guarantee ownership of beach properties.

The Uniteds have come forward with a few things in the way of concrete proposals, but have busied themselves in personalities quite often.

Only one man on the United ticket has really had much to say at all of import. He is Jack Etheridge, running for re-election to the City Treasurer's post. And most of what he has had to say has dealt with the past and not the future.

His opponent, newcomer Howard Merrill, on the other hand, has suggested a tax break for the purchase of business license in Virginia Beach and methods of operating the Treasurer's office more efficiently.

The Admins have not been entirely quiescent in the personality campaign, but most of the charges they have leveled have followed a provocation from the other side.

The independents are relatively quiet. Bill Phillips goes on with his "sit-in" in his old office at City Hall Annex, although he reportedly has no job there. Little is heard about him, since many feel he sits there for all the publicity he can get out of it. He gets little. John Marr has opened a small campaign headquarters, but claims to be too busy to campaign. And Mr. Harrington held a "swingin'" guitar rally for a thousand people. But only about 70 curious onlookers showed up. He said he was disappointed, and that more would come next time.

And so the season for the morning coffees gets into high gear. The candidates are all gaining a little weight from eating all the pastries that go with the coffee and conversation.

But all are making appearances and points now, prior to the final blasts that are sure to come in May and June before the end of the campaign.

Besides the coffees, civic leagues which are all supposed to be non-partisan, are all getting into the act. They are inviting candidates to address their members and make themselves available for a question and answer period. The candidates, always on the alert to speak to as many people as possible, are responding, with a great eagerness.

Be prepared, however. Remember that we are only halfway through the active campaign. July 11 is still three months away. There is still a lot of time left to talk issues, we hope they all do.

A weekly column is not always easy to write. Coming up with a subject can often be difficult, even frustrating. This was shaping up to be one of those weeks, when a reader not only supplied an idea, but also a large part of the column.

Mr. L. J. Luckey wrote to say that there is a short of stretch of road that spans the distance between Providence Road and Princess Anne Road, known as Kempville Road. He admits it is only a small piece of road about a half-mile long, but notes that it is heavily traveled.

"This road has been under various stages of construction by the laying of pipes, digging of drainage ditches, etc., for as long as I can remember," says Luckey. "I am convinced that a special commission or board has been appointed to maintain the inefficiency of this piece of highway."

Then Mr. Luckey provided what he says could very well be the word-for-word minutes of that commission. I have taken the liberty to add to it slightly.

"The regular meeting of the Virginia Beach Special Roadway Blocking Commission will now come to order," boomed the chairman, a rather large fellow with a gleeful glint in his eye and a sadistic smile curling at his lips.

The usual opening ceremonies including a clandestine pledge of allegiance to the flag were followed by the reading of the minutes and reports from the various committees.

The Rush-Hour Traffic Blocking Committee reported that 4,234 man hours had been lost by motorists held up at poor traffic signals and by inefficient operation. Those in attendance applauded.

The Dig It Up and Forget It Committee reported it had disrupted traffic on all primary and secondary roads in Virginia Beach at least once during the month of March. Those assembled applauded again with enthusiasm.

The Drive Bulldozers and Cranes Very Slowly Committee reported that during each work day its members had forced strings of automobiles a mile long to follow its slow moving equipment which was taking joyrides on Great Neck Road, Virginia Beach Boulevard and Kempville Road. Those in attendance applauded and whistled their approval.

Then the chairman's face lost its smile. He turned to one elfin-like character in the front row. His name was George. The chairman said, "George, you were in charge of all traffic blocking traffic on Kempville Road last month. It was reported to me that between 5 and 9 p.m. on the 14th, traffic was allowed to move smoothly in both directions. EXPLAIN!"

The rest of the commission moved restlessly in their seats and grumbled their dissatisfaction.

George, in a cold sweat, finally spoke. "Well, you see, Chief, the heavy earthmoving equipment was on its way there and should have been in place by 4:30. Then traffic would only have been able to move slowly in one direction."

"So," said the chairman his scowl getting deeper in his impatience.

"Well, sir, the lead truck broke down and spoiled everything but what a dandy tieup we had on Virginia Beach Blvd. for about four hours," he said hopefully.

"Virginia Beach Blvd. was not your responsibility that was Ralph's job, and he didn't need any help from you, the Chairman boomed. "You have failed and I cannot accept excuses.

"But sir, protested George, I did put up a detour sign in the middle of Kempville Road that night and even stood out in the middle of it flagging traffic down till one car almost hit me. Then I quit."

The members boomed in unison, as the Chairman screamed, "Deserted your post under fire? That won't look good on your record, George. Next month you better do better, or else, back to the highway department."

That bit of embarrassment over, the chairman turned to Henry, a mild-looking man, and said, "Hank, you and Charlie were supposed to lay the big sewer pipes last month and block Kempville Road nearly all day every day. What happened?"

Henry answered quickly. "We dug the ditch all right, but we found that somebody else had already put the pipe in the month before. We heard it, though, and plugged it up good and tight, so the crew can dig it up next month and unplug it."

"Excellent," said the chairman. "Now let's keep up the good work, and no more goofs."

Then they adjourned the meeting with one chorus of "There's a Long, Long Trail A-winding".

Sounds possible, Mr. Luckey, although Russell Hatchett denies any knowledge of the special commission. Have you tried the CIA?

Ft. Story Commander Retires

A review of troops at Ft. Story last Thursday marked the retirement of Col. John R. Williams, Ft. Story commanding officer.

Retirement ceremonies were held earlier in the week at Ft. Eustis at which time Col. Williams was presented the Legion of Merit for "an imaginative, firm and positive approach to his far reaching command responsibilities" since his assumption of command at Ft. Story in 1965.

Col. Thomas D. Emery has been assigned as new commanding officer of Fort Story.

Col. Emery was secretary of the Army Transportation School at Fort Eustis before being assigned to the command of Fort Story. In the Army for almost 25 years, he served in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater during World War II and later with the German occupation forces.

Col. Emery was planning officer with the Military Traffic Management Agency in Washington, D. C., with the Navy in water operations at Oakland, Calif., and operations officer for a Nike battalion in Berkeley, Calif., at other times during his Army career.

An opportunity to meet the players and coaches of the Norfolk Neptunes will be afforded Virginia Beach residents Saturday, April 8. An opportunity for a spaghetti supper will be afforded at the same time.

The Neptunes will be at the Chesapeake Beach Volunteer Fire Dept. and Rescue Squad building on Pleasure House Road to inspect the new ambulance recently acquired by the volunteers. The ambulance will be the one on duty at all Neptunes' home games, but is one piece of equipment that they hope is not needed.

The Auxiliary is cooking a spaghetti supper, which will be open to the public at $1.25 a plate. The affair is a fund-raising event of the Chesapeake Beach Volunteer Fire Dept.

THIS AMBULANCE IS THE NEWEST ACQUISITION OF THE CHESAPEAKE BEACH VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT AND RESCUE SQUAD. IT WILL BE THE ONE ON DUTY AT ALL NEPTUNES' HOME GAMES AT FOREMAN FIELD IN NORFOLK.

JEROME HOSTETLER AND THOMAS FOLLERY STAND IN FRONT OF THEIR NEW DRIVING SCHOOL OFFICE AND BESIDE THEIR NEW DUAL CONTROL DRIVER TRAINING CAR.

Don't Drive to New School

There is a new school in Virginia Beach, which includes classroom instruction and field instruction.

It is the Virginia Beach Driving School, owned and operated by Jerome Hostetler and Thomas Follery.

Hostetler is a retired U.S. Army colonel, who once commanded Fort Story. Follery is a retired law enforcement officer with 25 years' experience.

Hostetler will handle the classroom part of the ten-session driving course, and Follery will handle the in-car duties.

The two men have set up their school on Laskin Road near Hilltop and have purchased a new car with the latest Government approved dual control.

The dual control actually only consists of a brake pedal for the instructor.

Hostetler said, "I don't think the student can learn as fast when there is also a second steering wheel in the car. It's psychological. The student knows he is protected too much by the instructor."

Follery said he doesn't mind being in the car with a student driver and isn't even nervous.

"I've been doing it for so many years," he said, "that I am ready for anything."

United Candidates Plan Better Va. Beach

Dual themes - It's time for a change in Virginia Beach and Plan for a Better Virginia Beach - will be stressed by the United Candidates between now and the primary election on July 11, according to Edward T. (Ned) Caton III, United Candidate for Senate of Virginia, 3rd Senatorial District.

Caton, speaking for all six United Candidates, emphasized that he and his running mates will adhere strictly to a Fair Campaign Practices Code which all signed at the start of the race.

This code pledged the United Candidates to observe the basic principles of decency, honesty and fair play and condemned use of personal vilification, use of campaign material which distorts or otherwise falsifies the facts and condemned any practice which tends to corrupt our American system of free election. The Code also opposed active campaigning by city employees.

Caton pointed out that this fair practice code has not been signed by the boss controlled ticket variously called the "Organization" or "Adm-ins" slate.

"However, Caton continued, 'the failure of our opponents to agree to these fair campaign rules, will not deter the United Candidates in their vigorous efforts to bring the facts to the people of Virginia Beach. We want the will of the people to be expressed freely in the Democratic Primary'."

"You United Candidates", Caton added, "are men of honesty, integrity and personal independence. They feel strongly that, after 36 years of family rule in our city, it is time that the government of Virginia Beach be given back to the citizenry. We are united in a campaign to bring this about."

Management Study Urged By Middleton

A professional study of the Government of Virginia Beach to determine any inefficiencies and to recommend necessary corrective measures has been proposed by B. R. Middleton, United Candidate for the House of Delegates. Middleton is vice president of an Electrical Contracting company.

"As a business man", Middleton said, "I know it is absolutely necessary to make a dollar go as far as possible and the same applies to the government of the City in which I live. Virginia Beach must get the most out of each and every one of its tax dollars. That is the reason why I suggest this professional management study."

"The City of Virginia Beach, with a budget of more than $28 million, is a big business and it must be run as a big business."

Gawrys Says Schools Are Shortchanged

The children of Virginia Beach are the City's greatest asset, said Joseph A. Gawrys, United Candidate for the House of Delegates, but under the present administration they are being short changed.

"The present political leadership in our City", Gawrys stated, "are not providing our children with the Quality education they deserve."

"As the father of five children", Gawrys remarked, "I see much room for improvement. First, our schools must be taken out of the present political spoils system which stifles improvement. Secondly, a drive must be made to obtain all available Federal impact funds. Every dollar obtained from that source is matched by the state, so actually we get two dollars for every dollar received."

My fellow United Candidates and I", Gawrys continued, "are fully cognizant of the pressing need for improvement in our schools."

Evans Wants Full Time Assistants

Andre Evans, United Candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney of the City of Virginia Beach, wants full time assistants to fight the growing incidence of crime in the City. Evans said that his plan would put a stop to such occurrences as happened recently when a convicted felon walked out free because a part time assistant of the incumbent failed to appear in court.

"Justice is a full time job in our City", Evans said, "and, if the crime rate here is to be reduced, the Commonwealth's Attorney needs a full time staff. Also, we need more police officers and better pay and working conditions for them."

"I spend most of my time in the courts", Evans continued, "and as a trial lawyer with years of experience I know that, if elected, I will need assistants who have nothing else to do but prepare their cases properly and be in court on time to represent the people of Virginia Beach in criminal prosecutions."

Evans has just returned from Washington where he was invited by U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark to attend the National Conference on Crime Control.

Absalom Sees Need For Civil Service

The great need for a civil service system for Virginia Beach City employees has been highlighted by Richard R. Absalom, United Candidate for Clerk of Circuit Court of Virginia Beach. "The dignity of all City employees must be protected," Absalom said, "It is the Democratic way of life."

"As things stand now in our City", Absalom went on, "at election time the City employees are ordered to work for the dominant Organization and they must do so if they want to hold their jobs. This isn't right, of course, and conditions must be changed."

"Under the civil service system, proposed by myself and the other United Candidates, City employees would have job protection as long as they did their work properly. The political spoils system would be abolished", Absalom said.

"When I am elected Clerk of Circuit Court", Absalom continued, "I would like to have all my employees under civil service. It would be the most efficient way to operate for the good of all. Also, I feel strongly that the Clerk of Circuit Court should not function as Clerk of the City Council. Either position is enough for one man"

Plaza Produces Two Champion Teams

Courtesy motorboat examiners of Flotilla 57 U. S. C. G. Auxiliary, Virginia Beach, will be on hand at Beach Bay Marina, 550 Laskin Road, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to examine boats prior to issuance of the 1967 courtesy motorboat examination decal.

The courtesy motorboat examination decal is only issued to boat owners that outfit their craft with additional safety requirements over and above that which is legally required. When the 1967 courtesy motorboat examination decal is displayed on a boat it is less likely to be stopped by Coast Guard personnel patrolling the waters this summer, and it also proclaims to other boaters your belief in and the need for additional safety equipment on water born craft.

Through the courtesy of Beach Bay Marina boats will be displayed demonstrating legal requirements -- courtesy motorboat examiners safety requirements, and auxiliary facility requirements. Courtesy motorboat examiners will also be available to discuss with boatmen the new ventilation regulations which are effective June 1, 1967.

Restrictions have eased and some manufactured boats on trailers may be inspected and may be awarded the courtesy motorboat examination decal. Therefore, trailed boats will be inspected as well as those boats that come by water.

Pilots Receive Awards

Three Oceana-based Navy pilots have recently been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for action in Vietnam.

They are Cmdr., A.R. Burt, commanding officer of Fighter Squadron 32 (VF-32); Lt. William G. Goff Jr., Fighter Squadron 32; and Lt. (jg.) Gerald C. Rohrsen, Fighter Squadron 84 (VF-84).

Recipients of other awards were Lt. P.G. Gillette, who received a silver star in lieu of his 11th air medal; Lt. D.E. Becker, who received a gold star in lieu of his 9th air medal; and Lt. (jg.) R.A. Marsden, who received a gold star in lieu of his 10th air medal.

Four Named To Honorary

Four Virginia Beach students are among the 81 students and one faculty member at the University of Virginia who will be initiated into Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, April 13.

They are: John Sills III, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sills II of 219 86th St.; Stephen Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Mitchell of 2337 Hood Dr.; Christopher Sheap, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sheap of 4148 Country Club Cr.; Samuel Pinus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Pinus of 2600 Baltic Ave.

When buying a Diamond...

WHAT IS MEANT BY "CLARITY"? In diamond grading CLARITY refers to the presence or absence of flaws and inclusions. A diamond can be termed "flawless" only when no flaws are visible to a trained eye under 10-times magnification.

There is a "common sense" way to select your diamond--rely on the facts. Let us show you the overall picture of diamond value and quality. Take advantage of our gemological knowledge and experience. You'll find this is the wise way to select the diamond you'll be proud to give or own.

Cutting Shorts Her Career

In the Swim 30 Years, Beach Seamstress Retires

Mrs. Walton G. Holland has cut out all that cutting out she's been up to for the past 30 years.

She's finally decided to let her Beach Patrol boys take their business elsewhere, and while the boys will probably not stop sprinting up the steps to her sewing corner, they'll be doing the sprinting in ready-mades, rather than the custom-mades to which they've become accustomed.

The still spry and lively grandmother, who's eye for fit has made her one of the Beach's most sought-after summertime seamstresses, has closed up shop after years dedicated to dressing the Beach Patrol boys in swim trunks that qualify them one of the best-dressed groups on the East Coast.

So well-dressed and outfitted were they that a well-known swimwear manufacturer not only copied her stitch by stitch she said, but had its line placed in a Beach menswear shop window. But not for long.

"I had them take them right out," she said.

Her corner on the swimwear market here began way back in '33, when a handful of young men, as a fund-raiser decided to stage a water carnival. Mrs. Holland, then heading up a thriving dressmaking business here, agreed to make the swimming trunks for the carnival.

"I never had so much fun in my life. The carnival itself, while it was a success, was as funny as it could be.

"The boys were so handsome ... all brown as berries. There were about 35 or 40 of them, but with all the diving and swimming, all the buttons kept popping off. How we laughed! There were no zippers in those days.

"After the carnival, I continued making them ... even for whole families. I had five or six women working for me. The swim trunks became so popular that I gave up almost all my other sewing.

"I finally gave up my little dressmaking shop and came home ... deciding to do nothing but make the shorts.

"From about 1945 on, I did all the trunks for the patrol boys. Quite a few girls wanted them, so I made them, with tops, for a few of them, too.

"The secret to the shorts was in the fitting. Even though I had others sewing for me, I did all the cutting and all the fitting.

"There are all kinds of figures, you know. Almost no two were ever cut from the same pattern."

Eventually, the hotels and swimming pools got into the act. From Ocean View to Nags Head, the trunks bearing "Styled by Lyndelle" became collectors' items ... the familiar identifying initials of the Patrol or a club pool status symbols.

Indeed, they kept her in business, but it is doubtful they ever really kept her in funds.

As the cost of labor and equipment rose, so did her prices, except for the patrol boys.

"If they went up at all, it wasn't more than 75 cents.

"Often these boys couldn't have the price of a square meal, much less enough money for an extra suit or two.

Upkeep and even replacement of her sewing machines, she said, was due in large part to the sand that found its way into the moving parts of the machine ... sand that the Hollands swept out of their house by the ton during the season.

The house, built by her husband, was designed to accommodate the boys, who often, of necessity, could not come for fittings until very late at night. They simply entered through the front door and went directly up the wide, uncarpeted stairs to the second floor sewing center ... an interesting hodgepodge of sewing machines, paper patterns, boxes of thread and a chest of drawers converted into a filing cabinet to store cards containing complete measurements of all the boys for whom she has tailored the shorts.

The cards indicate the number of completed shorts to be around 10,000.

The list now contains many second generation beach boys, but it's being put aside in order to free her for more time with the offspring of second generation Hollands.

IT'S THE LAST PAIR SHE'LL MAKE.

They Want to Be Crowned

Mrs Virginia

Some seven young women will move into the Cavalier Hotel today each one hoping to move out tomorrow as Mrs. Virginia, 1967.

The annual Mrs. Virginia competition will bring in the regional winners who will set up shop in the hotel displaying their handwork, and set up appointments with a panel of judges who will evaluate each contestant for her poise and personality, as well as her homemaking ability.

The winner will represent Virginia in the national Mrs. America contest scheduled for May 4 to 14 at San Diego, Calif.

The Mrs. America contest is unique in that contestants will be judged on such things as salad arranging, table setting and flower arranging, sewing or handwork, creative expression, good grooming, personal interviews, poise and personality.

The public will have the opportunity to view the contestants' table displays in the hotel ballroom from 2 to 5 p.m. Friday, April 7.

The finals will be held in the ballroom at 7:45 Friday evening, with the coronation of Mrs. Virginia set for 9:30 p.m.

The contest is sponsored here by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce through its Special Events Committee.

Virginia Pageants, Inc., of Richmond, is producer and director of the Mrs. America contests in Virginia.

Paper Party Planned For Delegates

Peace Through Education, Convention Theme

Bayside Junior Women's Club will be hostesses to 10:30 p.m. pre-convention get-together with the State Juniors here for the Virginia Federation of Women's Club convention April 11, 12, and 13 in the Golden Triangle.

The social will be held in the home of Mrs. Robert B. Kendall, Witchduck Point.

The women have chosen a paper theme for their party, with invitations, and decorations carrying out this theme. Club members will be wearing paper dresses.

The 60th annual convention will get underway Tuesday morning, April 11.

This VFWC convention marks the high point of Federation activities for the year. Delegates from the more than 400 clubs in the state will assess progress made the first year of this administration and make plans for completion of goals.

The Convention theme: "Women's Role in the Search for Peace Through Education," has been selected by Mrs. E. Parker Brown of Richmond, VFWC president, who will be presiding; the Tidewater District will serve as official hostess, Mrs. E. G. Middleton Jr., of Norfolk is chairman of arrangements, with Mrs. Phillip L. Russo of Virginia Beach serving as her vice-chairman. Mrs. Walter L. Hopkins and Mrs. Robert E. Summers, both of Norfolk, are co-chairmen of Junior Club arrangements.

The Hon. Ann H. Kilgore, Mayor of Hampton, herself a clubwoman, will greet delegates at the opening session April 11.

Mrs. Otis B. Gregg of Portsmouth, Tidewater President, will extend the welcome to her District. At this time reports of state officers will be heard and district presidents will have a panel discussion of their activities. Evensong at Old Saint Paul's Church; the Alice Kyle Banquet honoring past presidents of the Federation with Mrs. Kermit V. Haugen of Minneapolis, Minn., Third Vice President of General Federation of Women's Clubs, as speaker; a Fine Arts Festival and District parties complete the day.

The Junior Breakfast begins a full schedule for Wednesday. Following the general business session will be a luncheon using the theme: "Education Through Mass Media", at which Mrs. Margaret G. Twyman of New York, Director of Community Relations, Motion Picture Association of America, will speak. In the afternoon there will be a Conservation tour to the Azalea Gardens, a Junior tour to MacArthur Memorial, and a Public Affairs tour to the Norfolk Naval Station where the Navy Wives Club will be hostesses at five homes built during the Jamestown Exposition which are now residences of admirals stationed in Norfolk.

Three outstanding women in education in Virginia will speak at the evening session for all clubwomen following the Junior banquet. Their subject: "Education Key to Freedom".

They are Dr. Doris B. Yingling, Dean of the School of Nursing, Medical College of Virginia, Miss Jeanie Brewer, former Supervisor of Special Education, State Department of Education, and Dr. Herta Tausig Freitag, Chairman, Department of Mathematics, Hollins College.

The final luncheon on Thursday will have an international theme: "Education - Hope of Our Two Countries", with Dr. Elizabeth P. Lam, Administrator, U.S.-India College Exchange Program, and Miss Kamala Nair, First Secretary of the Indian Embassy, both of Washington, developing the subject.

COFFEE ROLL

1/2 tsp. salt
4 eggs
3/4 cup sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
3/4 cup pancake mix
1 quart coffee ice cream
Coffee Frosting

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Grease bottom and sides of 10 x 15-inch jelly-roll pan. Line with wax paper. Grease again thoroughly. Add salt to eggs. Beat until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar to eggs, a little at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla and pancake mix. Stir until smooth. Spread evenly in greased wax paper-lined pan. Bake 10 to 12 minutes.

While cake roll is baking, sprinkle a dry towel well with confectioners' sugar. As soon as cake is done, loosen edges and turn out on towel. Peel wax paper carefully from cake. Roll cake in towel. Let stand 20 minutes, then unroll.

Soften ice cream slightly and spread over cake roll. Roll up quickly. Wrap in aluminum foil. Place in freezer several hours. (May be made several days in advance.) Just before serving, spread with Coffee Frosting. Serve immediately or return to freezer until time to serve. Makes eight servings.

COFFEE FROSTING

Cream 1/3 cup butter or margarine. Add 1 1/2 cups confectioners' sugar while continuing to cream. Add 2 tablespoons strong, cold coffee. Add another 1 1/2 cups confectioners' sugar and enough strong, cold coffee to make frosting fluffy and easy to spread on cake.

Student In N. C. Festival

Miss Liz Kouri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kouri of 1144 Crystal Lake Dr., will represent Peace College, Raleigh, N. C., in the Queen's Court of the 20th Annual North Carolina Azalea Festival at Wilmington April 6 through 9.

Miss Kouri, a senior, was elected May Queen by her fellow students. She joins queens from 13 other colleges and universities in North Carolina to form the Queen's Court. Reigning as Queen Azalea XX will be Melody Patterson, star of the ABC television show "F Troop".

Escorted by cadets of the U.S. Coast Guard Academy, the Queen's Court will take part in many of the festival activities. Their itinerary will include visits to the U.S.S. North Carolina, a special Queen's Court Dance at Wilmington College, riding on the Queen's Float in the giant Azalea Festival Parade, a picnic at flower-filled Airle Gardens, and participation in the Queen's Coronation Pageant.

A Word on Cancer

April is Cancer Control Month by presidential proclamation. During the month the American Cancer Society is asking the public to take three important actions.

1. Get a health checkup now. If you have not already had an annual health checkup, have one.

2. Invest in programs of research, education and service through the American Cancer Society.

3. If you do not know cancer's warning signals, learn them.

Support the Society's programs of research, education and service.

The first two are for your protection now; the third for possible protection in the future.

Only 69 per cent of the public can name one of cancer's several warning signals. A better record is urgent. Going to a doctor at a first warning signal usually can lead to early diagnosis if cancer is present, and early diagnosis followed by proper treatment greatly enhances the chance of cure.

Remember that only 10 years ago one-fourth of those who developed cancer were saved; now it is one-third; it could be one-half, without adding an

Surfing by the Book

Publication Due For Hot Doggers

A book of rules and regulations of surfing will be available for surfers this summer. It was reported at the Parks and Recreation Commission meeting last week.

There will be 800 parking spaces available at Sandbridge from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. The Commission is proposing a 25 cent a day charge for parking.

There will be a surfing clinic in mid-May for anyone interested.

Definite surfing times and locations will be announced at the April Commission meeting. Chairman Maury Rignato commented, "There's got to be a book and take, Virginia Beach was developed mostly for swimming. When there's millions invested you've got to take this into consideration."

A grand opening is planned for Redwing Park later this spring. Restrooms are now completed, and six water fountains are being installed. All that is needed is electrical connections to operate the pump. Light poles have also been installed.

Chairman Rignato offered an open invitation to all church and civic groups to hold picnics at the park, which has picnic facilities for large groups now plus recreation equipment. Reservations can be made through the Recreation Dept.

Nature trails are now complete, and bridges have been built across low areas.

Director Harold Whitehurst said that camping would be welcome but they should have clearance first.

Mrs. O. W. Grimes and Mrs. B. D. Clark of the Astors Club at Seaback requested aid in building a swimming pool for the children in the community. The Seaback Volunteer Fire Dept. has agreed to let them have the land, they said.

It was pointed out by the Commission that there are presently no public swimming pools at Virginia Beach. Chairman Rignato appointed a committee to look into the matter. Ap-

The halfway mark in the sale of 1967 Virginia license plates is here. Sales have been brisk, but there are reports that the pace is lagging behind last year in some locations.

Motorists are being urged to purchase the license plates early to avoid the long lines that always develop on the last few days before the April 15 deadline.

The tags are on sale at Kellam-Eaton Insurance Co., offices on Pacific Ave. and at Princess Anne, at First & Merchants National Bank branches on Kellam Rd. and at Robbins Corner and at the Virginia National Bank branch at Little Creek Amphibious Base.

Expo 67 to Provide Best of Entertainment Dome Plans

It is called the World Festival.

And it will live up to its name, providing the greatest program of entertainment ever presented in one city over a six-month period—the world's leading opera, ballet and theater companies, orchestras, popular singers, chamber music ensembles, comedians and athletes, as well as film festivals and mammoth spectacles.

The World Festival will be staged as part of Expo 67, the 1967 World Exhibition, largest in history, to be held in Montreal, Canada April 29 through October 27. It will involve upwards of 25,000 participants.

From April through October, the Ocean Hwy, with headquarters in Virginia Beach, will bring many vacationers from the U. S. to Canada and Expo 67.

Expo 67 and the Montreal International Film Festival organizers will jointly present a gala film festival in the 2000-seat Expo Theatre. The festival will screen more than 20 feature films; many of them world premieres, to be attended by leading film personalities—stars, directors and producers.

The sports program includes a two-day Europe vs. the American track and field meet to be held following the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg, an international soccer tournament, and an all-Indian lacrosse tournament.

Other spectacles to be seen include a 1700-man Canadian searchlight tattoo, largest ever staged; Flying Colors, a show staged by Radio City Music Hall producer Leon Leonidoff; the World Horse Spectacular; The Singling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus; and the Great Western Rodeo.

Visitors will even enjoy lining up to enter a pavilion, for motorized troupe units of singers, dancers, clowns, magicians and puppeteers will perform to queuing crowds. An added attraction, the Expo

Marching Band, will tour the grounds regularly.

States Philippe de Gasse Beaubien, Expo's Operations Director, "For six months, Montreal will offer a package of entertainment unlike anything seen in North America before. Above all, we wish visitors to remember Expo 67 because it was fun."

The World Festival promises to make that wish come true.

Ruritans Sponsor Contest

An essay contest open to all citizens of America and carrying awards of $200 in Savings Bonds has been approved by the Board of Directors of Ruritan National.

The subject of the contest, sponsored by Ruritan's Citizenship and Patriotism Committee, is "What Made America Great?"

A first place award of a $100 Savings Bond will be made to each of the National winners in two age groups—those 18 years of age and under and those over 18 years of age. Certificates of recognition will be presented winners on the district level, and individual districts may also elect to present first place awards of $25 Savings Bonds.

The contest is open to all citizens of America, and should be sent to either B. L. Byers, president of the Kempville Ruritan Club, 5145 Princess Anne Rd., or Frank E. Kellam Jr., president of the Princess Anne Ruritan Club, 1428 Whittier Rd., no later than June 1, 1967.

The essays can be hand written or typed and they must be submitted on standard paper 8 1/2 x 11, double-spaced, with no less than 500 words and no more than 1000 words. Each participant is to include his or her name, address, and age.

The two National winners will be announced on July 4, 1967

Busy Week

Next weekend, April 14-16, the Jehovah's Witnesses will sponsor a bible seminar at the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center. The public is invited to attend the three-day event.

The Dome is closed to the public tonight for a dinner dance for the officers and men of the USS Forrestal.

Tomorrow night the Mid City Democratic Women's Club presents a public fashion show. Admission to the event is $1.00 at the Dome.

The Dick Clark ACTION SHOW will be presented there Sunday, April 9.

Skating will continue as usual on Saturday, April 8, from 1 to 4 p.m., and the regular Cabaret Teen dance featuring the Beachcombers will be held that night from 9 p.m. to midnight.

Promotion Program At Meeting

The 33rd annual meeting of the Ocean Hwy Assoc. is scheduled for April 30-May 2, 1967 at Wrightsville Beach, N. C.

Assoc. Pres. Jeremiah Valiant of Salisbury, Md. announced that the annual meeting will introduce a dynamic 1967-68 promotional program to identify the Ocean Hwy with the assets and attractions of the seven-state coastal vacationland.

Burks L. Hamner of Wrightsville Beach is general chairman of the meeting. Attending will be representatives of the 550-member non-profit Ocean Hwy Association that serves the "See-Way" route and its affiliated areas between New York and Florida.

Italian tax collectors will investigate counterfeiting of death certificates.

Lt. Commands Two

Lt. Donald J. Florwick of 25 Holland Ct. will assume command of the two wire drag ships, the only ones of their kind in the U.S., which were commissioned in Norfolk last week.

They are the Coast and Geodetic Survey ships the Rude and the Heck, built at a cost of $1,744,868.

Lt. Florwick is believed to be the only commissioned officer with a dual command. He is a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., where he received a degree in civil engineering from the University of Pittsburgh in 1960.

The 90 foot, 190 ton ships will operate as a team in locating under-water navigational hazards in American coastal waters, such as sunken wrecks, high rocks and abandoned oil platforms. They locate obstructions by dragging a steel wire between them, suspended from trailing buoys.

New Home for House

What Have You Got to Offer?

"And if you have any old air conditioners just lying around, Captain So-and-So, we could sure use them," he said.

"Of course, I know you can't spare any money," he added, "but we need all the help from all the people you can spare."

"If you happen to find anything on your base, Captain So-and-So that you think we can use, I sure would appreciate it if you'd send it our way."

The man speaking was Algy Cohen, the force behind Virginia Beach's Hospitality House operated for so many summers for servicemen either stationed here or visiting the beach.

Cohen has worked with the Virginia Beach Ministerial Assn. and the Recreation Commission for several years in the hope of finding a permanent home for the facility, which has been held in churches, basements, and last year in the basement of the old General Hospital of Virginia Beach. That is now a hospital again, and the Hospitality House had to move again.

This year the servicemen's retreat will be at 27th and Atlantic, in a small area which has been a gift shop.

The commanders of all military installations in the Tidewater area or their representatives attended a luncheon last week to hear plans for the summer.

mer. That is when they were sought out by Cohen for any help he could get.

Men of the Little Creek Amphibious Base were already busily engaged building a fence in the back yard in their off-duty hours. Other servicemen were building shelves and lockers inside.

The United Fund will withstand most of the $4,000 bill for the operation of the center this year, because, Cohen said, "I just can't keep going back to the same people year after year and asking them for bread, hamburgers and anything we need."

Chaplain G. H. Griffin, who worked with the center last year, read several complimentary letters from men and women who had attended the functions there last year and from their parents.

Events include a place to read, a place to watch television, cook-outs, soft drinks, coffee, doughnuts, a place to shower and change clothes and dances. This year a band concert is expected to be held every Saturday afternoon and live combos are being sought for dances.

Those in attendance voted to seek a permanent home for the hospital house in the future. No one would be happier than Algy Cohen.

The Center will be open this summer seven days a week.

Second Tetanus Shot To Be Given Sunday

It's tetanus shot-taking time in Tidewater again on Sunday, April 16.

On March 12, about 68,000 people in Virginia Beach, Norfolk and Chesapeake received the first of three necessary tetanus shots at clinics set up at public centers and schools in the three cities.

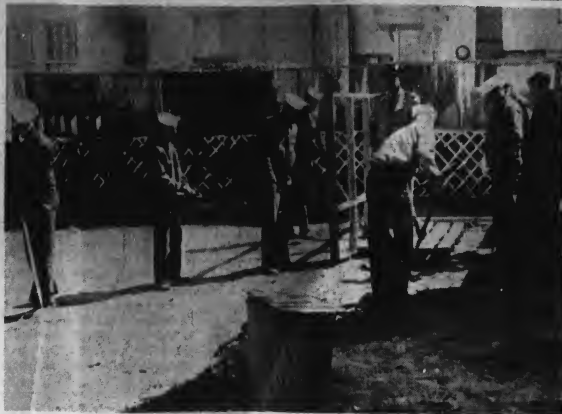

In Virginia Beach the mass immunization program is sponsored by the Virginia Beach Medical Society and the Virginia Beach Sertoma Club.

The second shot will be given at the same locations on April 16. About a year later, a booster shot is necessary to complete the immunization, according to medical authorities.

Tetanus is fatal in three of every four cases, but is considered completely preventable with proper immunization. The present campaign is specifically aimed at the young people in the city of Virginia Beach, but all are invited to take part.

There is no charge for the shots, but those receiving them SEE 'TETANUS', P. 2

Bridge - Tunnel Travel Plan Starts Saturday

Twenty Virginia Beach firms are charter members of the Travel Bonus Plan, being sponsored by the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel Commission. The program will begin operation in ten states and in the District of Columbia on April 15.

The plan is called a "budget-stretcher", and is designed to save a vacationing family of four more than $40 if they use the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel traveling either north or south along the east coast.

A book of discount coupons will be given to all motorists as they pass through the toll booths, which offer discounts amounting to several times the toll charges, according to J. Clyde Morris, executive director of the facility.

In each book will be 35 tickets good for 36 days for discounts on meals, gifts, gasoline, accommodations in motel and hotels.

Deadline Approaches For Tags

The deadline for buying 1967 Virginia license tags will not be extended beyond Saturday, April 15, even though the deadline for filing federal income tax has been extended to the 17th. The 15th falls on Saturday.

License tag buyers have only through this Saturday to purchase and properly display the new black-on-white tags. Otherwise they face arrest and fine.

In Virginia Beach license buyers will be able to buy the tags through noon Saturday at Kellam-Eaton Insurance Co. on Pacific Avenue and at Princess Anne. The other locations in the city at banks will not be open Saturday. Friday at the end of banking hours is the deadline for those locations.

The tags are on sale until then at First & Merchants branches on Kellam Road and at Robbins Corner and at Virginia National Bank on Little Creek Amphibious Base.

And if you haven't filed your income tax, you have a reprieve. That deadline is now Monday.

ten per cent off the regular price when using the coupons.

In each participating facility a window decal and counter card will identify the participating firms. In addition, each motorist will receive a directory listing the participants.

Virginia Beach boasts the largest number of participants in the entire route. The southern terminus of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel is in Virginia Beach, and the city is considered to be a natural stopover point for vacationers or businessmen who are traveling either northward or southward.

Hotels and motels in Virginia Beach participating in the plan are Albemarle Hall, Bow Creek, Cavalier, Dunes Motor Inn, Farrar's, Greenwood Motor, Gulf Stream, La Playa Motor, Marlin Washington Hotel and Apartments, The Marshalls, Old Dominion, Princess Anne and the Sandpiper Motor Apartments.

In addition, service stations participating are Allard's Texaco, Bayside ESSO and C. W. Wade ESSO.

Both locations of Forbes Candy and Gourmet Shop, the Copper Kettle Restaurant and the Washington Club Inn are also Virginia Beach participants.

Along the entire Ocean Highway route as of March 27, 224 participants had signed agreements to take part in the Travel Bonus Plan.

Zoning Approved; Tax Hearing Set

Zoning applications, spiced by a few objections, was the main order of business at the City Council meeting Monday afternoon.

May 8 was set for a public hearing for tax increases included in the new City budget. The hearing will be at 2 p.m. at Princess Anne.

A zoning request for a service station at Independence Blvd. and Smokey La, near Robbins corner was denied. The request had been deferred earlier for further study because Independence Blvd has not been extended to the site yet and because of lack of water lines.

Another zoning request for a service station at the north side of Shore Dr. just east of Greenwell Rd. was also denied because there are already five service stations at the intersection. Councilman Lawrence Marsmalk asked Bayshore Development Corp. to withdraw their application. When they refused, the Council denied approval of it.

The Lynnhaven Inlet Civic League, represented by their president, Homer Brockman, asked council to refer back to the Planning Commission the return of the corner of Cape Henry Dr. and Great Neck Rd. to its original zoning.

A use permit for a gas station at the corner was withdrawn, but the general commercial zoning remains. Robert C. Caverly of the Civic League said there were "undertones and overtones in the original zoning which were in fact illegal. We will go to court if necessary." He said the Civic League is acquiring funds for court or, if not needed for court, to develop a civic project. He said the original zoning entailed spot zoning.

Another application which has drawn considerable interest was approved. This was the application of Holly Inn Corp. for a use permit to build a 100-unit motel at the southeast intersection of Atlantic and 36th St. Plans for the motel, one of the Holiday Inn chain, have already been announced.

The application of John Ray Potter and Dean S. Potter Jr. for a zoning change from Residence Suburban to Multiple Family Residence for doctors' offices on First Colonial Road at Wildwood Dr. was referred back to the Planning Commission for further study for a second time.

The First Colonial Civic League, represented by Edward Cason III, said that there are already enough doctors' offices being built in the area, and that this would constitute spot zoning.

Owen Pickett, representing the Potters, said that his clients would agree to a further study of the area.

Other applications approved included a change of zoning to construct doctors' offices at the southwest intersection of Virginia Beach Blvd. and Seventh St.; an application by Bernard H. Raymond, George Jensen, Doris Duncan and John Gifford for a zoning change to build town house apartments south-east of East Berrie Cr. adjacent to Berrie Gardens.

Also approved was a permit for the Diamond Springs-Gardenwood Park Civic League to build a recreation center for the neighborhood and an application by Peabody's Warehouse, Inc. for a use permit for entertainment and restaurant facilities in the old Coates Motor Co. building at Pacific Ave. and 21st St.

Mrs. Quintin Marlow brought letters from the Little Neck-Lynnhaven Civic League and Kings Grant Community League in support of her request for improvement of Little Neck Rd.

Forrest Fowler requested the dredging and development of the Western Branch of the Lynnhaven River. He appeared before the Council with the same request five months ago.

The Council agreed to look into it immediately.

Dogs Integral Part of Department

BY JOSEPH LOWENTHAL, JR.

The K-9 Corps of the Virginia Beach Police Dept. works mostly at night. The 11 men and 11 highly-trained German shepherd dogs are part of patrolling divisions. Part are used in First Precinct, and part in Second Precinct.

The K-9 Corps is nearly seven years old but has only come into its own in the last couple of years. Captain R. H. Stone, commanding officer of First Precinct is also commander of the K-9 Corps.

But the men and their dogs are not completely tied to any one division. They are also employed by the Civil Disturbance Unit to control traffic in a given emergency.

Sgt. Sparrow is the unit's training officer. He puts the men and dogs through at least a 10-week intensive training program, which also includes fully acquainting the dog with the officer's family.

The field training is accomplished at the old Nike Site on Salem Road. Once the initial training phase is over, the dogs and patrolmen receive two hours additional on-the-job training every second week.

The dogs are taught to obey their policemen masters faithfully without hesitation, no matter what the circumstances. When the highly intelligent shepherds are fully trained, they will move either on voice command or hand signal.

The life expectancy of a police dog is about six to eight years, and the dog may serve several masters during that time. The dogs can be retrained to serve a new master.

The K-9 men keep the dogs at home with them. The dogs are all devoted to their masters and their wives and children. They are extremely gentle with children and at times are even playful, but a stranger would be ill-advised to approach any of the family too quickly. The dogs, after all, are trained to attack, although they are not vicious by nature.

The patrolmen are given a small allowance each month to take care of their dogs and to keep their uniforms clean. The dogs have a habit of making this a little more difficult than for most other policemen, although they are just being friendly.

The men and dogs of the K-9 Corps are used anywhere in the city they are needed, but they ride with their masters in police cars most of the time.

Whenever the officer leaves the car to check a building, he takes the dog with him on foot. This is advantageous to the officer because of the acute senses of the dogs.

"I'd sooner have the dog than a gun in a tight situation," said Capt. Stone.

In a problem area where a rash of incidents take place, the men and dogs are used, and usually serve as a strong deterrent to the potential violator. The dogs are especially advantageous in a concentrated business area.

One of the major uses of the dogs is in pursuit because they are also trained to follow a scent. One Virginia Beach police dog has been known to corner a fugitive in the woods.

J. H. Custer Jr. has one of the dogs. Deen loves to ride in the police car. Custer is devoted to the dog and the dog to him. Custer also says Deen is a wonderful pet and watchdog for his three children and his wife. Deen lives with the Custer family in Aragona Village.

It was possible for us to stay within inches of Deen while Custer walked a considerable distance away, but we did not

School Officials Wait For Response to Plan

All the Virginia Beach School Board can do now is wait. The city's desegregation plan has been sent to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for approval, just short of the April 10 deadline.

The federal department has sought complete and total integration of students, faculties, administrations and facilities by next fall in Virginia Beach.

The city's plan does not meet that guideline, but increases the number of integrated schools and students to more than double what it was in the present school year.

F. W. Cox, superintendent of Virginia Beach Public Schools has said privately that he does not expect HEW to accept the plan sent last week. What will happen in Virginia Beach for next fall is not known if HEW does, in fact, reject the city's plan.

The city's "Freedom-of-choice" plan was tossed out by the U. S. Office of Education a year ago. There are about 3,500 Negroes attending school in Virginia Beach. The total enrollment is in excess of 36,500.

According to guidelines published earlier in the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN, only one major change in pupil assignments was noted. That concerned one part of Aragona Village where white students would be attending the previously all-Negro Bettie F. Williams School.

School officials, however, say that 90 per cent of the students attending that school would be white if the plan is accepted. Then only Union-Kempsville High School, Seaboard and Seatack schools would remain segregated. They have been all-Negro schools in the past.

The summer school sessions in Virginia Beach last summer were totally integrated and are expected to be this summer also.

Cox said he did not know when he would hear from HEW, but noted that response last year was "quite slow".

Directors Elected

Two new members have been elected to the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors to replace members who have left the city.

New directors are Col. Jerome K. Hostetler, chairman of the education committee, and Edward P. Brogan, head of the armed forces committee.

Bank Lists Earnings

Virginia National Bank reports net operating earnings of $1,309,613 or 64¢ per share for the first quarter of 1967, compared with $1,217,013 or 59¢ per share for the same period last year, a gain of 7.6%.

Both deposits and loans were expanded during the period, and resources totaled more than $600 million, according to the bank's quarterly report to its shareholders now being published.

Grants Available For Apprentices

Producers of Wedgewood Dinner Theatre, Williamsburg, have announced the availability of tuition grants for first, second, and third year apprentices for summer academic-practical experience student program.

The summer apprentice program was begun in 1965 with 12 apprentices. Last summer 13 apprentices participated, and in addition to their classroom and back stage activities were showcased in the musical comedy "The Boy Friend".

This summer Wedgewood hopes to have from 15 to 20 students in the 10-week session. Added to the apprentice program will be three student workshop productions in the apprentice lab theatre. The apprentice showcase production will be "Dark of the Moon."

The program is open to both male and female students. The minimum age requirement is 16. Virginia residents are given preference in acceptance into the program.

The tuition fee is $150.00 for first year apprentices, $100 for second year apprentices, and $50.00 for third year apprentices. None of the money is retained by the theatre, but used for books, field trips, and workshop productions. The Wedgewood staff receives no additional salary for classes and workshops conducted.

Lodging and one meal per day is provided by the theatre at no cost to apprentices, and two scholarships are awarded at the close of the 10-week session, applicable to the tuition of the college of the recipient's choice.

may donate any amount they wish.

The time and service of all personnel is strictly on a volunteer basis. Dan Arris, coordinator of the program for the Virginia Beach Seafarers Club says more volunteers are still needed, especially to assure enough personnel in all locations on a shift basis. Arris asks that qualified personnel interested in volunteering their services may reach him at 497-8957.

Clinic locations in Virginia Beach will be at several schools and at the Virginia Beach Health Department center and at the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center (Dome).

Because the crowds were so heavy at some locations and because some persons had to be turned away at one center, a makeup Sunday has been designated in May.

On April 16, therefore, those who were not able to get the first shot in March may get it at the close of the 10-week session in May. The date for the makeup clinic will be announced at a later date.

The schools to be employed are Bayside, Hermitage, Creeds, First Colonial High, Lynnhaven, Pembroke, Princess Anne High, Trantwood, Seacock and Woodstock.

The centers will be open to the general public from noon to 5 p.m.

VISTA Volunteer Eager Despite Lack of Money

David Factor is a VISTA volunteer working in Seacock. He came to Virginia Beach by way of his hometown, University City, Mo., following two years of college at the University of Missouri, where he had a scholarship.

After one, perhaps two years, as a VISTA volunteer, he will return to college a little older and a little richer for having given of himself in the service of others.

David is one of the young men and women who devote a year of their lives to making the feel of poverty less cold, as members of this country's domestic peace corps. VISTA is the volunteer corps of the Office of Economic Opportunity. There are already more than 50,000 volunteers working across the United States in poverty-stricken areas.

The volunteers live in these areas and try to help the people there help themselves and to counsel them for the future.

David spent six weeks in training for his volunteer job in Atlanta, Ga. He was taught basic psychology and the sociological aspects of the poor. He talked with leaders of the anti-poverty movements; he visited several low-income Negro neighborhoods; he studied the Indian problem and he learned the basic problems of the mentally retarded. Then he was sent out for assignment.

His first assignment took him to Norfolk and finally to Virginia Beach and Seacock. He is paid no salary, merely enough money to pay his room and board, and maybe a little more. The rest is up to him.

David Factor has lived on the edge of Seacock since mid-January. His major interest is community development. The things he observed that were needed centered partly around adequate equipment and facilities in the Seacock Community Center. He wants to see more recreational needs being answered.

He bubbles with enthusiasm and wants to take the children on field trips to such places as museums and the Old Light-house at Cape Henry. He wants to see more help for the mentally retarded, although he points out that special education classes are already in operation.

Adult Education is another of David's pet projects, and he says he is encouraged by the number of adults who are attending night classes at Seaboard School now.

By next January David hopes to achieve an attitude of self-help in Seacock. He hopes to play a small role in motivating the people of Seacock to take advantage of the opportunities now existing.

"Without funds, it is difficult to set up programs as quickly as I would like to," says David. "Presently I need supplies or money for art materials and sports equipment, folding tables and the services of any musician who might want to donate a night of their time to entertainment of the people."

One of David's ideas is bearing fruit. His first "coffee house night" was held at the Seacock Community Center last Friday night and was successful. There was music, candlelight and checkered tablecloths.

"I saw a need for an inexpensive entertainment outlet for the teenagers, and this was it," says David.

With some difficulty, David is attempting also to set up book clubs with the help of neighborhood workers, Mrs. Lena Brown and Mrs. Rosa Staton, and he hopes to start a clean-up campaign soon to increase community involvement. He wants new street lights and projects to clean out drainage ditches.

David says he knows Seacock cannot be changed in a day and that all he hopes is that the people will all take part in the projects so that when he has to leave they can go on in the spirit he has started.

"So far, my only donation has been from the Princess Anne Plaza Methodist Church," he said.

And he needs help to help others. He needs materials, ideas and time.

Veteran Realtor Joins Larasan

George R. Hill, formerly president of Myers-Preston-Hill, Inc., Realtors, recently joined the staff of Larasan Realty Corp. in the commercial Dept.

He will specialize in land development sales, as well as farm sales and commercial leasing.

Hill was born in Alexandria, Va., and graduated from Johns Hopkins University. He has been actively engaged in the real estate business since 1943 in the Norfolk-Virginia Beach area.

He was a Charter Member of Multiple Listing Service of Norfolk and served as its first President from 1957-1959. He was a Member of the Norfolk Board of Realtors and served several terms as a director.

Hill is married, has two children and five grandchildren and lives at Great Neck Point.

The cable will be placed along Laskin Rd., Belis Rd. and Oceana Blvd.

Training Session Opens For Jehovah's Witnesses

About 1,000 Jehovah's Witnesses are expected to arrive in family groups Friday for a three-day training session at the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center.

Principal speakers will be Peter D'Mura and Grant S. Keen, both representing the world headquarters of the Watchtower Bible & Tract Society in Brooklyn, N. Y.

D'Mura is supervising minister of a multi-state district of the preaching organization, and Keen is in charge of ministerial activities in eastern Virginia and northeast North Carolina.

The assembly opens at 6:45 p.m. Friday. Sessions will be held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

In addition to Bible instruction, the Witnesses will see demonstrations aimed at improving their person-to-person ministry.

At 1:30 p.m. Saturday they will hold a public baptism and ordination ceremony for new ministers.

At Sunday's principal session, a two-hour documentary film, "God Cannot Lie," will be shown. Its theme is a bird's-eye view of Bible history from Adam to Christ, with actual photographs of locations in Palestine where Bible events took place.

Earl H. Jacobs, presiding minister of the Virginia Beach congregation, said all sessions are open to the public and no collections will be taken.

Dinner Planned By St. Andrews

A fellowship dinner is planned at 4 p.m. Sunday for members of St. Andrew's Methodist Church, weather permitting. The dinner will be held in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Brady Atkins of 4705 Southern Pine Dr., Larkspur.

Rev. Henry Murray, Methodist minister of new church development, will preach at the 11 a.m. service Sunday. The church meets in Kempsville Intermediate School.

The Cost of Littering

The money used to clean up litter comes out of the taxpayers' pockets, and we are the taxpayers. It is money which could be used for far more important projects that would benefit us, the taxpayers.

Beer cans, dirty paper boxes torn candy wrappers, cigarette butts, bags of trash and garbage never make a pretty picture anywhere, and certainly not along our city streets and highways. But look around you. There they are, by the ton.

The State Highway Department spends a half million dollars each year cleaning up litter along state controlled roads. That does not take into consideration streets and roads inside city limits not maintained by the State. On a single one-mile stretch of a secondary road recently, a Highway Department crew collected 1,781 discarded beer cans and liquor bottles. That is disgusting.

That same half million dollars could be put to use building a half-mile of interstate highway, or building a mile of primary arterial highway or in constructing nine miles of secondary highways.

Despite years of pleas from those who would protect the beauty of our historic and scenic state, and despite the fact that littering is against the law everywhere, the litter still piles up.

It piles up because of the careless and unthinking people who deliberately toss debris from cars or into the streets as they walk along.

Virginia Beach is no different from other places. It has a lot of litter, dropped by lawbreakers. The Virginia Beach Beautification Commission, the Council of Garden Clubs, numerous city officials and private groups and citizens have tried to help but are losing the battle. Now the week of April 17 has been set aside to clean up the mess.

Extra trucks will be used, and a concentrated campaign will be held. But it will do no good unless our city is then kept clean and free of litter.

This takes the respect of property and the law by everyone, the enforcement of the laws by police officers and stiff penalties by the courts, not a laughable small fine.

We hope the present campaign helps, but it will take the cooperation of all. We cannot afford litter. It costs us too much.

Make It Safe to Walk

The Traffic Safety Dept. of Virginia Beach recently installed new radar-controlled traffic signals at several difficult intersections.

These new signals not only control the flow of traffic to meet existing needs, but also staggers the flow of east and west or north and south traffic, making it far simpler to make left turns safely.

We praised this new system when it was installed at Laskin Road and Pacific Avenue, but we see now that it has caused an even greater problem. The innocent pedestrian is never certain when to cross, because there is always some traffic bearing down on him or turning into him.

It seems obvious that this particular intersection, used by so many pedestrians in the summer months could prove to be bedlam and extremely dangerous.

We recommend the installation immediately of "walk" and "Don't Walk" signs, as employed now at Laskin Road and Atlantic Ave., or the intersection could be the scene of tragic results soon.

It's a Dog's Life

There should be no such thing as a loose dog running the streets of Virginia Beach. There are laws against it. Every dog should have a license, and should be kept on a rope, or on a leash at all times when it is outside and not in a fenced yard.

There should be no such thing as 100 to 200 dogs a week killed on our roads in Virginia Beach in the summer months, because those dogs should not be loose at all. There should not be so many dog bites by animals running the streets, because they should not be running the streets.

There should not be garbage cans turned over by dogs at night or shrubbery ripped out of the ground by dogs, or lawns messed up by dogs, because they should not be running loose.

But these problems are with us in Virginia Beach for several reasons.

The first is obvious. The owners of the dogs do not obey the laws. In addition, the laws are not enforced by all policemen as they should be. There are too few animal control officers operating in the city. They cannot do it all.

And public apathy is part of it too. An interested citizenry should report violations and violators. They should be punished as any other lawbreakers are.

It is ridiculous to have laws on the books concerning dogs and then have so many problems with dogs. There is no sense in so many of us having to live a dog's life because of dogs.

Exciting Shopping News

The announcement that Thalhimer's would build its first Tidewater department store coupled with the announcement that another giant mall shopping center would be built in Virginia Beach adjacent to an already existing one has generated a tremendous amount of excitement.

We take great pleasure in welcoming Thalhimer's and its excellent reputation to our city and we take great pride in the building of a second large shopping center across Constitution Avenue from Pembroke Mall Shopping Center. This one, to be known as Pembroke East, represents another giant investment by the same owners and exhibits their great faith in the growth of Virginia Beach.

When the 108 specialty store and four department store shopping center complex is completed in the fall of 1969, Virginia Beach will finally have its own "downtown" shopping district, centralized at the crossroads of the city.

The promise for the future is truly exciting.

More Local Option

I am very disappointed in your extreme bias toward liquor-by-the-drink. While you mentioned that "a large number of the 'Yeses' indicated that there were several in the family who wished to vote in favor," you made no mention that some 'no' votes may have indicated more than one vote against, as was definitely the case on our card, which was signed, incidentally.

I would hardly call 232 postcards "a clear vote of confidence in favor of local option liquor-by-the-drink." They are a drop in the bucket as far as the population of our city is concerned, and I am sure I know personally more people than that who are against it. And I should think, after the Virginia Beach Innkeepers voted not to allow the sale of liquor to be extended an extra hour because they already had enough damage incurred by rowdy drinkers, they'll think twice before they support liquor-by-the-drink (unless they are selling it, and gaining the profits from that to cover the damages incurred).

It's been proved over and over again that where local option is allowed to achieve liquor-by-the-drink, it costs the community much more than the community gains—both morally, physically, and financially.

And the ironic thing about this was brought to my mind the other evening while listening to a public service announcement on T.V. It said in effect, that alcoholism is everyone's concern, and everyone should take part in learning more about it, and helping the drunkard (of course they didn't use that term). Yet when Christian people do just this—strike at the heart of the problem, or should I say the source, and try to limit the opportunities for alcoholic consumption, and thereby help alleviate alcoholism, the cry is immediately sent up—"they're trying to be keepers of the public morals!" With one mouth we're told to be, and when we are, we are condemned.

Yet I fail to see anything wrong with being a "keeper of public morals." My life, and that of my loved ones is just as much in danger of being killed by a drunken driver, or raped by an intoxicated maniac, or robbed by someone needing money for "one more drink," as anyone else. And I for one am opposed to allowing any more outlets for the sale of liquor than there are now.

We have a nice city that I enjoy living in, and one reason is the fact that we do not have liquor-by-the-drink. Having lived in areas where they do have it, I can say it's refreshing to live here where there's not a "gin mill" on every other corner.

Sincerely

Ellen T. Richards

Ed Note: The count now stands at 253 "Yeses" and 34 "Nos"—And all multiple "Nos" are definitely included.

Bonanza Awards

Dear Sir:

Well, it's that time of year again when a man's fancy turns to thoughts of baseball... and awards. The purpose of this letter is to announce the first annual presentation of the "Bonanza awards".

Here they are exactly as presented by the chairman of the awards committee. Please reserve your applause until all citations are completed.

To Ronald Reagan for dancing into the political spotlight and then proceeding to conduct the most successful know nothing campaign in the history of California for the governorship. Award: One eight by 10 glossy print of Reagan inscribed with the truthful comment of the campaign: I'm not sure I know what I'm talking about.

To Everett McKinley Dirksen for setting a new record for Holy Rolling and political ploy in the U.S. Senate with his unsuccessful prayer amendment aimed at undoing the Supreme Court decision against official prayers in public schools. Award: A book of hymns.

To George Wallace for unique example of southern gallantry toward womanhood by making his wife governess (make that read honorary governor) so that he can continue to run Alabama along racist lines and to the fulfillment of his fondest hope, to make Lurleen the first lady of the land. Award: An all expense paid evening out with Lester Maddox.

To Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam for valor above and beyond the call of duty for his willingness to confront China in battle with the full power of American military might. Award: Another medal.

To Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the committee of one million for their effort that was instrumental in preventing the United Nations from inviting China to join the family of nations. Award: One Chinese lichee nut to be busted into a million and one pieces.

To George Meany president of the AFL-CIO, and to its executive council for taking foreign policy positions 20 years behind the times and three paces to the right of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Award: A collection of policy speeches of Barry Goldwater.

To Congressman Adam Clayton Powell who was exploiting "black power" when Stokely Carmichael was five years old, a special award for proving how hard it is to catch up with him and clap him in jail for contempt of court. Award:

A pair of roller skates with no skate key.

To all major television networks for their failure to present anything thought-provoking or more controversial even remotely resembling the late Edward R. Murrow's "See it now". Award: A bottle of Geritol for tired blood.

To Richard M. Nixon for long and faithful service in the ready reserve of presidential hopefuls, and for his eagerness to run against Lyndon B. Johnson in what would be the strangest presidential battle ever waged, between a candidate people don't trust and an incumbent no one believes. Award: An assortment of George Romney's sugar-coated platitudes.

That completes the list of "Bonanza Awards" winners. Go right ahead and applaud to your heart's content. Please understand that everyone could not be a winner. The committee put in long hours with no compensation, to be sure they came up with the nominations most deserving. Keep those nominations coming. Who knows? This could be the beginning of something really big.

Road Economy

Dear Editor:

As an interested party to the every day going's on in our city, the following is both a question and thought as to how waste of city and state funds may be curbed.

In the interest of economy and reduction of the high cost of road repair, I think it is about time the City fathers and Director of Public Works got together and realized just how much money is literally wasted by the repair of secondary roads and feeder lanes, with tar and gravel.

It seems to me that the use of black asphalt would be, in the course of time, much cheaper due to the need for less repair. Tar and gravel when applied to a hole in the road appears to be one part tar to two parts gravel, and in this process approximately 50 per cent of the gravel which is not packed down by vehicles is either caught in tire treads, adhered to the under part of the vehicle, and for the most part thrown to the side of the road by passing vehicles thus serving no worthwhile purpose.

To me, this is waste and waste costs money and as we all know this money comes from the multitude of tax payers who expect these funds to be used wisely and effectively.

To add to this, doesn't it seem that the black asphalt road provides much better driving conditions than that of tar and gravel and the many bumps in the road caused by this wasteful practice?

W. E. Parker

By Joseph Lowenthal Jr.

It has been said so many times that behind every successful man there is a good woman. Like so many other well-known axioms, it may or may not be true. All I know is I haven't been too successful. I wonder if the axiom works in reverse. Can I blame my wife?

Last weekend at the Cavalier a new Mrs. Virginia was crowned. It was helpful that the winner was an attractive woman, but as far as the contest was concerned, her vital statistics, her appearance in a bathing suit or her pleasing physiognomy did not count.

In this contest they were judged on table setting, preparation of a salad, flower arranging, sewing or handwork, creative expression, and the usual grooming, poise and personality parts of any contest.

Behind Every Successful Woman...

One of the most interesting parts of the contest was the creative expression event. Advance publicity which reached my office said "they will be wearing 'at home in the morning' attire." That conjured up a horrible picture of the ladies facing the judges with their hair still up in curlers, their faces still greasy from all the gook applied the night before, still wearing a flannel nightgown and horrible looking robe and generally having the appearance of America's image of the housewife in the morning.

I was assured, however, by the promoters of the event that the ladies would not look that way. They would be dressed smartly in smart morning attire and presenting "the lie" to the world.

The salad event was another letdown. The ladies arrived with all the fixings for the salad and went to work. It was only later that I found out who had prepared and washed all that greenery used in the salads.

I discovered it purely by accident when I found the husband of one of the contestants searching for a band-aid. He had mistaken his dishpan hands for a carrot. Then the truth was out.

That little discovery started the old thinking process. Now I won't say this is the way any one of the contestants reached the finals of the contests, but after the salad incident, it might have happened this way.

"Guess what?" she said. "I entered the Mrs. Skinquarter contest today. If I win, I can go to Virginia Beach and compete in the Mrs. Virginia contest. And if I win there I can go to San Diego to compete in the Mrs. America contest."

He did not seem impressed. He looked as nervous as I did. "And will you then come home and take care of your family if you win there?"

She ignored him, as usual, and went right on. "So from now on you'll have to clean the house, take care of the kids, wash the dishes, do the ironing and prepare the meals," she said. "I want to spend all the time I can preparing myself for the contest. I want to look my best."

"Well, if that's all I've got to do around here, it won't be much of a change anyway," he said. "And I'll agree with you on the other part of it. You'll sure need all the time you can find to make yourself look good."

This time she ignored him. "Oh yes," she said. "I'll need your help during the contest too. I can't get my hands dirty or rough. The judges would take off points for that. During the flower arrangement part of the contest, I'll tell you which flowers to put where and you'll do it."

"That's nice of you," he said sarcastically. "Where do I get the flowers?"

"You grow them, silly," she said. "After all you have two months before the contest, and I already ordered a hundred dollars worth of flower seeds, fertilizer and other stuff."

"What other 'stuff'?" he asked.

"Oh, carrots, green peppers, lettuce, for 'oes, onions, celery and radishes," she said innocently enough. "I have to grow that too. After all there's a salad event too."

"Bully," he said. "Is that all I have to do?"

"Yes, that's all. What else do you want?"

"A divorce," he said.

She began to cry.

"You don't love me any more," she sobbed. "All I want to do is be Virginia's best qualified homemaker."

Incidentally she did not win, even in her local contest. It seems her husband went to see his lawyer the next day. And he just wasn't around to be the man behind the successful woman.

What a pity. But the harried husbands of the others were in Virginia Beach last weekend.

Just think, now the winner's husband can get ready to go to San Diego, after he borrows the money to pay his fare. The contest promoters pay his wife.

A Homemaker

A 27-year-old woman with the sing-song name of Francamacaro ("Just remember macaroon", she said) left Virginia Beach Saturday morning with a crown under one arm, her prize-winning choco-train cake in tow, and the wholehearted enthusiasm and support of the six other contestants she'd edged out for the Mrs. Virginia title.

She left behind her sweet symbol of victory: the armful of red roses that traditionally go with the crown. The bouquet is now enhancing the office of the manager of the Ocean Ranch Motel where the Francamacaros stayed while they were here.

Patricia Ann Francamacaro was the unanimous choice of the six other Virginia homemakers who were in town for the annual Mrs. Virginia competition.

Virginia Beach's entry, Mrs. William Lawton, was so impressed with the talented Fairfax mother (there are six little Francamacaros between the ages of 11 years and 11 months), that she opened wide the doors of her Princess Anne Hills home for a late Friday night get-together for the entrants and their husbands. On hand, too, were last year's queen and a few close friends.

It was an easy, casual get-together...a relaxing climax to the tension-filled contest that brought the women together for what appears now to be an annual event for our city.

The two-day pageant was held in the Cavalier.

The Francamacaro family will head for the West Coast in May for a crack at the top homemaker spot in the nation: Mrs. America, 1967.

A High-Style Gala

The Mid-City Women's Democratic Club was democratic indeed when they decided to present styles for men as well as women in their spring fashion show Friday night in the Civic Center.

The undertaking was a mammoth one for the women but they thought big when they planned it and with the cooperation of Rose Hall and Alexander-Beagle, as well as hard work on the part of committee members, it went big. Very few of the tables set up with coffee and cookies were unoccupied.

The breezy commentary was handled by Suzanne Lawton (who dashed out just minutes before she had to appear in the Mrs. Virginia pageant at the Cavalier) and Angie Alexander, with fashion footnotes added by Rose Hall owner C. A. Studds.

A Hoedown

It was a cold day in April for the Carolina June German hoedown.

Business at the barbecue pit was brisk, but so was the weather late Saturday afternoon at Aldo Farm where the group gathered 'round the fire--inside as well as out--for the corn pone party of the season.

It was a capacity crowd that flocked indoors after the sun went down and the indoor fire blazed up. When official cook Garner House scraped the bottom of the Brunswick stew pot, it appeared that some 50 pounds of barbecue, 5 gallons of Brunswick stew, 25 pounds of cole slaw, and 10 pounds of corn meal (for corn pone) had been consumed by the Carolinians.

With the hoedown over, the group is now turning its thoughts to their first annual June German dance, scheduled... appropriately enough... for June 2 in the Cavalier.

A Happy Birthday

"Grandmother" Trant was guest of honor at a birthday celebration Sunday evening.

The 84-year-old wife of the late R.F. Trant, with a corsage on each shoulder, took her place at the head of the huge dining room table in rambling Irlanview Hall, serving dinner to family and close friends as she has been doing for the past 31 years.

With the exception of a daughter, Thirza, who now lives in New England, the entire family was in attendance. Sons Carroll, Reuben F. Jr., John, Thomas, and daughter, Mary, and a few close family friends moved from music room to living room, from den to dining room in the sprawling house that for years was a favorite and lively party place for young and old alike.

The family didn't return for the celebration: they'd never really left. Except for John who now owns an sprawling establishment on the James River, and Thirza, the rest of the family lives on the Trant compound in London Bridge. The very warm and human grandmother is, therefore, still at home in a house more often than not filled with children, grandchildren, and their assorted friends and family.

MRS. REUBEN F. TRANT, SURROUNDED BY FAMILY, CELEBRATES HER 84th. SEATED WITH HER IS JOHN; AT THE ORGAN, CARROLL AND MARY. STANDING ARE THOMAS AND REUBEN F. JR.

Find Your Name Contest Winner: William Hall Sr., 1212 Bluebird Dr., you have just won 2 free tickets to the Janaf Cinema now showing "A Man and a Woman". This film has been nominated for 4 Academy Awards.

"The world's toughest car."

Lylo Engel, Executive Editor, American Road & Travel Magazine

Peugeot cruises off with first place in the East African Safari Rally

Ninety cars started this grueling 3000-mile race. Only nine made it through. Peugeot came in first.

It's very simple. Peugeot is built like a jungle animal: lean and rugged. And graceful. No chromium frills. No excess weight. No needless horsepower. (Take, for example, the wide use of aluminum in the Peugeot engine and rear end housing: less heat, less friction, longer wear.)

On the highway, Peugeot is equally in its element. You can cruise all day at eighty and never see a sign of strain. You'll get better than 25 miles per gallon. With or without automatic transmission. (Safety? Peugeot was engineered for maximum protection 20 years before Detroit got on the kick.)

So add it up, you'll agree that Peugeot is the world's toughest car. (And underneath all that toughness is a lifetime friend.)

Also available in the 403 Sedan, 404 Station Wagon and 404 Convertible.

Admins Open New Branch On Tuesday

The Administration Team is opening a branch office of its campaign headquarters in Lynnhaven Borough.

The new office will be in the Byler Bldg. in the 3700 block of Virginia Beach Blvd. and will serve the needs of citizens and workers in the midsection of the city, according to an Administration spokesman.

The public is invited to the grand opening ceremonies and reception at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the new headquarters Campaign workers will man the office during the day.

The main campaign headquarters of the Administration Team is at 400 Laskin Road in Virginia Beach Borough, and there is a small branch headquarters across from City Hall at Princess Anne.

The Administration Team is composed of candidates seeking the five Constitutional offices in Virginia Beach and the three Virginia Beach seats in both houses of the Virginia General Assembly, subject to the July 11 Democratic primary.

Two Coeds On Program

Barbara Riley, daughter of Cdr. and Mrs. William P. Riley of 5025 Smith Farm Rd., and Susan Elizabeth Sellers, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Duncan Sellers of 2713 Sandy Valley Road participated recently in the Spring Dance Concert at Randolph-Macon Woman's College.

Miss Riley handled the sound for the performance and Miss Sellers danced. Miss Riley and Miss Sellers are both juniors. Miss Riley is a Latin major; Miss Sellers, a history major.

Rulers and Balloons

It was moving day recently for the United ticket. Seems the campaign headquarters in half a house across from Pembroke Mall Shopping Center did not have the impact the braintrust thought it would.

So instead of holing up in a shrubby-laden house with no space to move around and no space to park, they packed up their belongings and moved bag and baggage to a new location at London Bridge where they have both, as well as light and airy surroundings. It ought to be light and airy. It used to be a garden center.

Political Btpourri

And it's a nice place too, with room for morning coffees and space for all the candidates and workers. At first there weren't enough desks or typewriters, but that is to be expected. One candidate, B. R. Middleton, was walking around with a sheaf of papers looking for a place to light to work on them.

It is understood that the Uniteds make certain that at least one candidate is at the headquarters at all times to greet anyone who comes in, even if it happens to be looking for the garden center. Shrubby and such is still sold at the side.

A trip then to the Administration Headquarters revealed a large show case full of balloons, but a worker there assured us they were not blown up by the candidates. On a large table were lots more balloons in red, white and blue, plastic rain bonnets in a red case and seven-inch red, white and blue cardboard rulers, all in great abundance to be passed out as favors at coffees, tea, meetings, rallies and the like. And they all bore the words "Vote the Administration Team".

Over in the corner, however, were large boxes of sample packages of a well-known table and powder headache remedy. We were assured, however that the pills were not for any headaches the candidates were expecting, but to ease the feverish pitch of the last days of the campaign.

The Admins are still waiting for an answer to a registered letter they sent to the Good Government Assn. All the candidates asked GGA to name names of those school personnel who had been allegedly pressured to support the Administration ticket or lose their jobs. They also asked GGA to supply the names of those reportedly doing the intimidating.

The "Watchdogs" of GGA didn't answer.

Next the United candidates for Commonwealth's Attorney got off a blast at Robert Simpson, present Commonwealth's Attorney, who is not seeking re-election, incidentally, and is not the subject of campaign controversies.

Andre Evans said, in effect, that Simpson was running his office inefficiently, and that he also was fully responsible for the office no matter how many assistants he had who did not appear in court on a particular case. Evans referred to the case in which Joseph Canada, Simpson's assistant did not show and the defendant was released. Evans also told reportedly the case he was working on.

Simpson said he was shocked that a member of the bar would even discuss a case still pending. Such as the one that Canada was allegedly working on the morning in question.

Simpson said this was against the canons of professional ethics of lawyers, and accused Evans of resorting to cheap tactics to get votes.

But the biggest blow of all in Simpson's rebuttal was a statement that Evans has only been in Circuit Court a few times and had to be assisted in making even the simple motions for his client.

It was refreshing to note that William Kellam did come up with one issue-type suggestion recently that certainly ought to get him some votes from the folks here. He would like to see all unsightly wires placed underground for the beautification of this and all other areas of Virginia. Sounds like a good idea.

The only action from the Independents lately is the appearance of the yellow and brown "John Marr for City Sergeant" bumper stickers, which have appeared on a few automobiles.

The weather is warming up, but the campaign is cooling down slightly. But that won't last long. It will be real hot by July... both the weather and the campaign.

Spring Trials Begin for Local Bird Dogs

Tri-City Pointer and Setter Club held its first spring trial of 1967 in Virginia Beach April 2.

Judges for the event were C. E. Brock of Norfolk and G. W. Hart of Virginia Beach.

The grounds in Virginia Beach, located on section nine of King's Grant, were outstanding. The cover was excellent with plenty of birdy objectives to test the dogs field coverage. It was the consensus that this was the best grounds for a trial that the club has had to date.

Scenting conditions were good and birds were found on every brace.

Results of the bird hunters stake were: First place "Janie" pointer female owned by W. E. Turner, Franklin; second place "Lou" setter female owned by H. E. Dunlow, Boykins; third place "Prince" setter male owned by H. E. Dunlow, Boykins.

Results of the shooting dog stake were: First place "Rex" setter dog owned by Howard Shotton, Suffolk; second place "Ben" owned by W. E. Turner, Franklin; third place "Dick Sam's Souvenir" pointer dog owned by E. Carr Smith, Norfolk.

The Tri-City Club held another trial Sunday, starting at 10:30 a.m. All dogs of pointing breed are eligible to enter.

Cox High Competes In Meet

The Frank W. Cox track team will face other Group I high school track teams in the Annual Tidewater Meet on Saturday.

This meet, which is held in Williamsburg every year, brings together the best track and field boys in the Tidewater area.

Newport News High School is favored to win the meet, with Mury a close second. Others predicted to place include Wilson, Great Bridge, and Churchland. Last year Cox showed favorably in the Tidewater Meet, though this year's team was hurt because of graduation.

Brian Magoon (two mile), Mike Murphy (discus), and Rick Binder (field events and hurdles) should place among the top 10 in their individual events.

Great Bridge handed Cox its first loss of the season in an 84-47 defeat last week. Binder was high scorer for the Falcons with a 10 point total. Magoon and Murphy were the only winners in their individual events. However, Taylor, Binder and John Austen grabbed second places.

The Falcons next dual meet will be against city rival Kellam. Cox is favored to defeat the Knights at the Kellam Stadium next Wednesday.

Bayside High School Teams Busy in Baseball, Track

The baseball and track seasons at Bayside High School have gone into high gear and will constitute the action for several months. Tennis has been active for some of the past month, and also promises several months of action.

In baseball during the past week, the Marlins took one from the Norview Pilots, 8-4, and dropped one to Great Bridge, 11-0. In the Norview game, at Norview Friday, George Thomas struck out 19 Pilots to take the game. A five-run seventh inning put the winning score on the board. These runs were contributed by Gary Wittig, David Ore and Tom and Ronnie Bryan. The game was also won Friday, overpowering the Norview J. V., 3-0. Butch Gardner

Bowlers Get Awards

With play completed in the third annual NAMTRADETS Winter Bowling League, at Oceana Naval Air Station, Lt. Cmdr. H. W. Colona, the officer in charge, presented 13 trophies to team and individual winners in ceremonies held at the Chief Petty Officers Club.

The team of Dick Strabley, Glenn Pitman, Fred Turley, and Rick Mott won first place honors, beating out the second place club by 11 full games.

Individual honors went to Don Newkirk, who had the high scratch series (599); Jerry Beck, high scratch game (238); John Phillips, high handicap series (659); and Rick Mott, high handicap game (259).

George White took the high average trophy by posting a 171 average for league play.

Lt. Cmdr. Colona also presented perpetual trophies for the NAMTRADETS Winter and Summer Bowling leagues. The names of the winning team members for each league will be inscribed on the trophies each year.

Engineers Go To Short Course

The course is designed for those engaged in traffic engineering functions who have not had the benefit of formal training in the basic concepts, methods, procedures, and standards. Hall is a traffic engineering aide in the Bureau of Safety. Holland is an assistant city engineer. Little is a chief draftsman for the City of Virginia Beach.

C. T. Hall, J. R. Holland and L. David Little of Virginia Beach, were among the 34 men enrolled last week in the annual traffic engineers short course at the Virginia Military Institute.

Basketball Champions Announced at Oceana

Fighter Squadron 11's (VF-11) Red Rippers won the Oceana Naval Air Station intramural volleyball league championship by compiling an amazing 42-0 record. VF-11 then went on to win the station championship by defeating the Naval Air Maintenance Training Department (NAMTD).

The Aviation Maintenance Department (AMD) posted a respectable 35-7 record to finish in the second spot while NAMTD finished third with a record of 31-11. Supply finished fourth in the league action.

In the station championships VF-11 beat Supply, 15-3 7-15 15-7, and AMD beat NAMTD, 13-15 15-8 15-5 in first round action. In the second round of the double elimination tourney NAMTD beat Supply, 15-4 15-12, and VF-11 beat AMD, 15-9 15-13. In the semi-finals NAMTD beat AMD 15-8 15-11 and moved into the finals against VF-11. The Red Rippers, however, were too strong on both offense and defense and won handily, 15-6 15-13.

Boating Co. To Combine Operations

The boating firm of Davis and Lee, Inc., is combining its Norfolk and Virginia Beach operations in Virginia Beach, but not at the old location.

The 13-year-old Norfolk office on Granby St. will be closed as will the newer office and showroom at Hilltop on Laskin Rd. according to the president and operator of the dealership, William H. (Bill) Davis.

The new sales office and showroom will be located at larger headquarters in the 5100 Block of Virginia Beach Blvd., just west of Chinese Corner.

The new location affords space for the showing of all types of craft, including inboards, outboards and sailboats. Other items featured will include canoes, punts and all types of marine supplies.

Davis has been operating the dealership in this area for 21 years. The grand opening is set for May 1, although the new operation will be open for business between April 15 and May 1.

"It's In The Family"

Knowledgeable persons are complimenting the Sun on its recent example of fearless journalism. A few weeks ago the Sun emblazoned on the front page a headline reading - "It's in the Family".

Everybody knows, of course, that in Virginia Beach it is all in the family - the Kellam Family and has been for 36 years.

Public office, highway right-of-way attorneys, insurance, paving, building materials, State and license agency, memberships in public boards and committees - you name it, the Family's got it. "It's in the Family".

Then why these compliments to the Sun?

Well, it's this way, an officer and minor stockholder of the Beach Publishing Corp. which owns the Sun is Sidney Kellam, the political head of Virginia Beach and the actual head of the Family. So the family is in the Virginia Beach Sun.

The time we're talking about, the staff of the Sun showed its fortitude and came right out with the fact that, "It's in the Family". And this won't be the end. Now that it's found the way, the Sun will speak out again sometime.

Etheridge Tops Among Treasurers

Few treasurers in Virginia can claim a record as outstanding as that established by City Treasurer V. Alfred (Jack) Etheridge of Virginia Beach, according to a survey made of all similar offices in the state.

In the three years from 1963 through 1965, Etheridge collected 97.37% of all taxes levied by the City Council. His office also collected enough revenue from the two previous years' taxes to establish a collection record of an astounding 101.23% average of the levy actually assessed each year. By collecting back taxes, Etheridge in fact each year got in more than was levied.

The diligence shown by our Treasurer in collection of revenues has maintained a strong fiscal stability for the City and has resulted in the huge surplus in the City treasury.

Etheridge is running for reelection in the July 11 Democratic primary as a United Candidate.

Record of Caton and Opponent

Edward T. (Ned) Caton III, United Candidate for State Senate from the 3rd Senatorial District, has pointed up an instance in which he and his opponent in the Democratic primary on July 11, were on opposite sides of an important bill passed by the 1966 General Assembly.

"Here's the record", Caton said. "There had been many auto liability policies cancelled in the past without explanation by the issuing companies. Often in such cases the insured motorist had great difficulty procuring another policy and financial hardship often occurred when citizens were faced with assigned risk status at increased premiums or with the unsatisfactory status as an uninsured driver". "With that in mind", Caton continued, "when Senate Bill 81 was introduced in last year's general assembly I supported it and worked for passage. This Bill protected the public from termination of auto liability insurance policies without notice by the company and required the company to furnish, if requested, an explanation of termination". "This important Bill", Caton went on to say, "passed in the House without a dissenting vote. It passed in the Senate, too, but with one dissenting vote. My opponent in this year's primary, William Kellam, voted against the passage of this bill which will save motorists thousands of dollars in insurance premiums". "Bill Kellam", Caton concluded, "is in the insurance business".

Absalom Will Plan For Growth

The Government of Virginia Beach in the past has not kept pace with the mushrooming growth in population, according to Richard R. Absalom, United Candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court. "The United Candidates agree", Absalom went on, "that the duty of an elected official does not stop with those prescribed by the Virginia Code. We feel that we should offer leadership in all phases of the City's government". "In Virginia Beach", Absalom said, "many new departments have been created without proper thought and planning. Such new departments should be aware of approaching problems and should foresee solutions in advance".

Gawrys Condemns Machine

Further shortchanging of the people by the Family controlled machine in Virginia Beach has been cited by Joseph A. Gawrys, United Candidate for election to the House of Delegates. "The citizens of Virginia Beach", Gawrys stated, "have been without representation in Richmond when the chips were down. The dominant organization has never fought all out for the rights of the citizens or for the good of our children". "The machine stands condemned on many counts. To name one," Gawrys said, "the machine has refused to fight to retain impact funds which have been siphoned off from our city without protest. For the current year Virginia Beach is losing more than a million dollars as a result of the machine being unwilling to concern itself with the needs of the common people".

Middleton Reveals Fund Loss

The City of Virginia Beach lost $182,452 in school funds in one year, B. R. Middleton, United Candidate for election to the House of Delegates, told supporters at a coffee given in his honor.

The loss, Middleton said, was caused by inefficiency in the administration of the City, particularly in the School system. Working together for the good of all Virginia Beach, Middleton, continued, the United Candidates would put a stop to such inefficiency.

School Superintendent Frank Cox, Middleton told the meeting, alleged that these figures were "misleading" but failed to explain further.

Evans Calls For Opponent's Comment

Andre Evans, United Candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney, has called upon his organization backed opponent in the Democratic Primary, to state publicly whether or not he approves of the way in which the present Commonwealth's Attorney of Virginia Beach is representing the people of the city. Evans recently charged "ineptitude" of the Commonwealth's Attorney's office after charges against a convicted felon were dismissed in court because there was no prosecutor present. "The only real issue in this entire matter," Evans said, "is how the office of Commonwealth's Attorney should be conducted. When elected I want full time assistants and I will administer the office as the people want it done. This office must be freed from machine politics".

United Ticket Shifts Scene of Operations

CAMPAIGN WORKERS AND CANDIDATES WORK IN THE NEW, SPACIOUS UNITED HEADQUARTERS

If you're hunting for United headquarters, you'll have to look in a new place.

They have moved from temporary headquarters in a house across from Pembroke into a more easily accessible location on Virginia Beach Blvd. next to Kings at London Bridge. The new building will be the party's permanent headquarters.

The old building was not large enough to hold coffees or programs for large groups, according to Dan Arris, United publicity chairman.

The new office is completely staffed daily and is decorated with red, white and blue pennants.

Creeds to Have Spring Carnival

Creeds PTA will have its annual spring carnival Friday and Saturday to raise funds for the school's library.

The hours on Friday will be 4-10 p.m. and from 3-10 p.m. Saturday.

Virginia Beach merchants have donated various items which will be auctioned both nights. The Septors, a six-piece combo, will furnish music for dancing.

Garden Week In Virginia

Come Saturday, April 22, and Tuesday, April 25, the public will have an opportunity to roam the halls and gardens of a number of showplaces in the Virginia Beach area; by doing so, they will also have the opportunity of enriching a fund set aside for restoration projects throughout the state.

Virginia Beach's participation in the annual Historic Garden Week in Virginia homes tour will consist of six residences and one garden on the Princess Anne Tour and six homes on the Virginia Beach tour.

The state-wide tour is an annual endeavor of the Garden Club of Virginia; locally it is sponsored by affiliated clubs.

It focuses on architecture and gardening throughout the state, the new as well as the old. Funds realized are applied to restoration projects in the state.

This year's proceeds are earmarked for landscaping the churchyard and an area to the west of historic Christ Church in Lancaster County. It was built by Col. Robert Carter in 1732. Cost of the entire Virginia Beach tour is $3.00; for the Princess Anne Tour, $2.50. Individual homes may be toured for $1.00.

Luncheon will be prepared by the women of Eastern Shore Chapel and served in the Reed Garden on the Princess Anne Tour.

LUNCHEON ON THE PRINCESS ANNE TOUR WILL BE SERVED IN THE GARDEN OF LYNNCOVE, HOME OF MRS. J. DAVIS REED JR., AT 1930 LYNN COVE LANE. MRS. JOSEPH C. TOTH IS SHOWN IN THE GARDEN WHERE TALL PINES AND NATIVE SHRUBS, HOLLY, SCOTCH BROOM, WILD ROSES, CONFEDERATE JASMINE, DOGWOOD AND WISTERIA ALL PROVIDE A BREATHTAKING BACKGROUND FOR THE MANY SPRING BULBS, AZALEAS AND CAMELLIAS (INCLUDING THEIR OWN SEEDLING, MARTHA ANNE) PLANTED THROUGH THE YEARS BY JUDGE AND MRS. REED.

ONE OF THE FEATURES OF CHANNEL POINT, A COUNTRY RESIDENCE GEARED TO OUTDOOR LIVING, IS THE OYSTER ROASTING HOUSE, OWNED BY MR. AND MRS. W. R. MILLER JR., THE GEORGIAN HOUSE IS LOCATED AT 3193 ADAM KEELING ROAD, ON THE PRINCESS ANNE TOUR.

When It Works,
It Pours

BY JEANNE MAGEE TUCKER
Women's Editor

It takes saint no woman to be mother today.
Friday always like bad day at black rock. Food all gone, money all gone, patience all gone. Today, even water all gone.
Day start off on very dry note. No water for shower. That bad. Almost bad as no water for coffee.
Now in country house, shower never knock you down, but it sprinkle you, nonetheless. But not even light spray today.
Working mother must stay on schedule. Schedule say shower at 6:40 a.m. Boy-child foul up schedule today. He shower at 6:40 also.
I get water at just-right temperature . . . turn handle to shower . . . step in . . . water dribble to a trickle.
I fiddle faucets . . . I hit shower head . . . I think bad things about handy-man husband. This not good. I mad enough to cry . . . I think tears make me more wet than tricle this morning.

Boy child, I discover, taking shower also.
I want intercom . . . oh how I want intercom.
Grab robe . . . make long trip to other bathroom. Make boy child get back on schedule.
Now he mad . . . but not nearly as mad as when he find he have only one clean shirt. Sleeves too long.
Only one pair of pants. They too tight.
(One head, too, and hair too long, I think.)
He say no socks . . . only odd ones. So what, I say. Wear one black, one blue. Start new fad.
So with sleeves too long, pants too tight, one blue sock, one black sock, he come to breakfast. He too late.
First child finish Wheaties. Second child finish Quakes. Both finish orange juice.
I cook waffles . . . toaster-type. Syrup all gone.
By now be fume.
How come, I say, you so grumpy this morning?

What People Think

The Beach: A Growing Happening

The Beach is what's happening today.

Results of a survey conducted recently revealed a bright picture indeed for the Beach—its economy and potential.

Following closely on the heels of the announcement of the survey came yet another announcement: that Thalhimers would construct a new four-story store at Pembroke East.

Reaction to the news that the large Richmond store would locate in the Beach area was not surprising: women are delighted at what the store will bring to them in merchandise, businessmen for what the store will do for the city's economy.

Mrs. James P. Sadler, wife of a Beach businessman, said she wasn't surprised at all that the store included Virginia Beach in its expansion plan.

"The Beach is a natural setting for a fashion store; I'm delighted at the news.

"A new large department store will bring in both dollars and fashion. Every time you add another industry to an area, it is good for the city; actually, it will be good for everyone concerned, and certainly, it will present another new fashion picture to our area."

Pembroke Mall public relations woman Barbara Leitman, who's been a part of the Pembroke picture from the beginning, said it isn't possible to fully express her enthusiasm at the turn of events.

"I'm positively delighted. That's the only way I can describe my feelings.

"I first knew about it just a few hours before the press conference was held and the announcement made that Thalhimers was coming in.

"I can remember when we first moved here, about seven years ago. We'd always lived in town. Seeing now the progress that the Beach has made in just those few years is amazing.

"I'm so thrilled to be a part of it all. I feel very privileged to be working for the Pembroke Mall Merchants Assn."

Arthur Gordon of Dara's, a Pembroke Mall shop, sums up the reaction of the small shop owner this way:

"The average woman shopper is interested in seeing as much of a selection as possible. As a small business owner, I think the large store will bring in a lot of customers I couldn't attract by myself; I'm absolutely delighted.

"I go on the theory the more the merrier.

"My experience has been primarily with shopping centers. We now have four stores in shopping centers.

"People like to shop where they live. They are basically very lazy. The parking lots show how lazy they are. They park as close to the door as possible.

"People have more important things to do today than spend their time walking to where they are going to shop.

"I think it's great. Extremely great."

Seaboard Bank man Harry Gard, whose pair of Pembroke Mall officers has grown with the complex, regards the Thalhimers announcement as one of the "most tremendous things that could have happened to the Pembroke area.

"This is going to make this THE shopping center of the entire area. The store is so well thought of in Richmond and so well-known here.

"This entire center is extremely well planned. Now, with Pembroke East, every bank will be represented with branches here in the center.

Juniors Grow To 20

A party for presidents... some 19 of them... many now graduates who returned to the fold last week for the 20th anniversary meeting of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Junior Women's Club.

White carnation corsages became status symbols identifying the presidents... pink obviously THE color this spring... so many pink coats and suits were there.

The meeting was held in Callee Episcopal Church... Norfolk Councilman Sam Barfield the guest speaker... on an unpleasant but very real problem; the widespread increase in pornography, in ugliness and indecency in our television, movie houses, newspapers.

Shocking was his message, but factual, nonetheless... one aimed at the ugly Americans who not only thrive but prosper on their ugliness.

Mayor Urges Clean Sweep

It's Spring City-Cleaning Time at the Beach

Lake Smith Garden Club held an election at its April meeting. Serving as president for 1967 will be Mrs. F. R. Keyes. Mrs. M. A. Graham and Mrs. R. M. Wilber, vice presidents; Mrs. William Graham Jr. and Mrs. William E. Jocelyn, secretaries; Mrs. H. C. Dailey, treasurer; and Mrs. R. K. Wenzel, historian complete the slate. On the evening's program also was Frank Israel, president of the Orchid Society. He spoke on orchids, illustrating his talk with slides. The meeting was held in Mrs. Jocelyn's home on Madeira Road.

The Mayor has proclaimed the week of April 17 "Clean-Up Week" and will dispatch a truck to pick up the trash that residents, hopefully, will clean out.

Mayor Dusch has requested the cooperation of all residents in making the community beautiful and litter-free. He has urged everyone to clean up their property, attics and garages, as well as all adjacent property.

Sanitation Dept. will cooperate by picking up the cleaned-out litter.

A source of inspiration to property owners should be the project tackled by three area garden clubs.

The Cavalier, Junior Virginia Beach and Whispering Pines Garden Clubs armed with baskets and gunny sacks, will clean up the stretch of Atlantic Ave. from Rudee Inlet to Ft. Story. Some 60 members are expected to participate in the mammoth clean-up job.

Is your child at home every minute before and after school?

Where is he, down the street? On the next block visiting schoolmates? What happens in an emergency?

This is the concern of a group of parents in the Malibu-Birchwood-Kings Way area. Their solution is to organize a group of mothers, one per block, who are willing to offer a haven to the children in time of trouble. They will be trained in what to do in case of injury to a child or what authorities to call if needed.

The idea is not new. Mothers in Arrowhead organized their neighborhood earlier.

The goal of Mrs. Claudette Harshberger of Kings Way is to organize such mothers groups throughout the city.

"All a child in trouble would have to do would be knock on the door of the neighborhood mother, and he would be taken care of," she said.

"Children would be informed of the program by their teachers. We're having signs printed now for the block mothers to put in their windows. And we'll offer them to any group that is interested."

"The block mothers would be a safeguard in every block against child molesters," Mrs. Harshberger said. "Parents are too complacent. Child molesters are not publicized, and parents do not realize the dangers."

Mrs. Harshberger said that block mothers do not have to have children in school in order to serve—"just so they're usually at home before and after school."

She said that volunteers will be investigated.

A special program will be presented at 9 p.m. April 20 at Malibu Elementary School. Lt. George Bryan, head of the police juvenile division, will show a movie on child molesting. Other speakers will be Russell Reid, head of the Bureau of Animal Control, and B. E. Todd, chief of the Princess Anne Plaza Rescue Squad.

Mrs. Harshberger said that any other PTA group is welcome to attend.

She pointed out that one man was picked up by police in the Arrowhead area after a block mother reported him. She said that the man later confessed to four other child molestings.

A group of five women has been organized by Mrs. Harshberger who "are willing to talk at any time to any group."

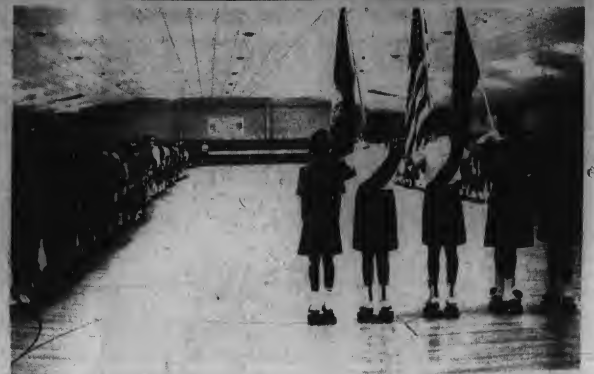

Local Cadet Gets Post

Cadet Stephen A. Strickler of Virginia Beach is one of five cadets at the Virginia Military Institute who have been named to major staff positions on cadet publications for the next academic year.

A second classman (junior), Cadet Strickler has been elected business manager of "The 1968 Bomb," the class annual, by the VMI Publications Board. The Board is a faculty-cadet committee which supervises the editorial and business operations of cadet publications.

Cadet Strickler is a graduate of Virginia Beach High School and majors in history at VMI. He is enrolled in the infantry program of the Army ROTC.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Strickler of 801 Linbay Dr. Strickler is assistant superintendent of Virginia Beach schools.

No Refund? Maybe You Goofed

Some 11,597 federal tax returns without the required W-2 withholding statements have been filed so far this year by Virginia taxpayers and those in the five states comprising the IRS Mid-Atlantic Region.

This means a delay in the processing of refunds until the W-2's can be obtained from taxpayers according to James P. Boyle, IRS District Director for Virginia.

Copy B of the W-2 statement that employers are required to give employees is the one that should be attached to federal tax returns, he said.

When returns are received in IRS offices without a W-2 for all income on which taxes have been withheld, a letter requesting the missing document is sent to the taxpayer. Until the W-2 is received, or an acceptable explanation of why it cannot be supplied, processing of the return cannot be completed.

One of the major reasons for delay in issuing refunds is the failure of taxpayers to include their correct Social Security number on the tax return.

As of last week, the director reported, 8,388 returns had been delayed in Virginia and the other five states of the Mid-Atlantic Region, because of incorrect or missing Social Security numbers.

Boyle reported that to date other refunds are being held up because of a variety of other errors or failures to comply with instructions mailed to each taxpayer with his tax forms.

Tax returns filed up to last week included 15,938 without the signature of the taxpayer or in the case of a joint return without the signature of both the husband and wife. These will have to be sent back to the taxpayers before refunds can be processed.

Returns with errors in arithmetic which are causing delays in sending refunds so far total 11,159 and returns where taxpayers have used the wrong tax table total 27,915.

As of last week, Boyle said, the IRS Service Center in Philadelphia had processed 178,287 refunds of Virginia taxpayers for a total of $24,330,713.28.

Red Cross Celebrates Anniversary

More than 200 Tidewater Red Cross Volunteers and staff members gathered at the Golden Triangle last week to mark the 50th year of Red Cross service to the community.

Red Cross Youth Program Chairman, Mrs. E. G. Middleton, presented an engraved plaque to Sister Ignacio of Holy Trinity School to commemorate her 50 years of Red Cross volunteer service.

Beginning her volunteer service in 1917 making comfort items and rolling bandages, Sister Ignacio now serves as a teacher-sponsor guiding her young pupils along a road of service to others.

The out-going Chapter Chairman William Vaughn, following a unanimous election, introduced the newly elected Chapter Chairman Paul G. Caplan who pledged continued Red Cross service to Tidewater.

To dramatically illustrate the many ways Red Cross serves the cities of Virginia Beach and Norfolk a color slide series, narrated by Lee Lively, closed the meeting.

School Changes Command

In change of command ceremonies held on the morning of April 4th at the U. S. Naval Guided Missiles School at Dam Neck, Capt. A. H. Galvani assumed duties as Commanding Officer of that school.

He relieved Comdr. W. G. Andrews Jr. who resumed his primary duties as Executive Officer. The ceremonies were telecast throughout the school on closed circuit television for viewing by all hands.

Capt. Galvani, a native of Plymouth, Mass., attended Tufts College prior to becoming a member of the Class of 1943 of the United States Naval Academy. He also holds a Master of Science Degree in Chemistry from Lehigh University.

The captain comes to the Guided Missiles School from his most recent duty as commanding officer of the Long Beach-based destroyer tender USS Bryce Canyon (AD-36).

Local Coed Earns Honor

Miss Carolyn Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Richardson, Mayflower Apts. has been elected to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa chapter of Randolph-Macon Woman's College.

Miss Richardson, a senior majoring in biology, won the coveted Phi Beta Kappa key for her consistent academic achievement in college. She will be one of 17 new members, all seniors, to be initiated into the honor society on Phi Beta Kappa Day, April 18.

Randolph-Macon was the first woman's college south of the Potomac to be granted a Phi Beta Kappa charter. Its Delta of Virginia chapter was established in 1916.

Future Collegians To Have Busy Day

Virginia Wesleyan College has scheduled a "College Orientation Day" for Saturday.

The program will be open to high school sophomores and juniors who plan to attend college. The purpose of the program is to acquaint students with procedures for choosing a college, for applying to college and to give students a better foundation for their future college experiences.

Many aspects of college admissions, academic program and social life - will be discussed in the one-day program. The discussion will be geared to colleges in general and not to any specific college.

The "College Orientation Day" will begin at 10:30 a.m. with registration and will conclude at 2:30 p.m. Registered students and counselors will be guests of Virginia Wesleyan College for lunch.

Watch Out Buying Carpets

Charles A. Martak, manager of the Tidewater Better Business Bureau, warned homeowners today to beware of the "room carpeting" scheme which features three rooms of wall-to-wall broadloom carpet, completely installed, at an unbelievably low price.

"Such offers may be used as bait," Martak said, "to lure customers into the store or salesmen into the home for the purpose of selling much more expensive carpet."

"Most carpet dealers do not use such 'bait-and-switch' tactics," insisted Martak.

If you are approached with this scheme, report it to your BBB. Your best assurance of satisfaction is in dealing with an established dealer of known reliability. If in doubt, check with your BBB, phone 627-5653, for a free report on any firm of unknown reputation.

For a limited time, the BBB will send you a free pamphlet on carpeting upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Mail your request to: "Carpet Booklet", Tidewater BBB, 114 W. York St., Norfolk, Va. 23510.

Nursery Benefits From Movie

Oceana Naval Air Station Medical Department's Well Child Nursery staged a benefit performance of the movie "Texas Across the River" on March 25.

Purpose of the showing was to get additional funds for operation of the nursery, a facility organized to prevent exposure of well children to communicable diseases while other members of their families are being treated.

The total amount gathered in the current drive was $400. However, according to a spokesman at the Oceana dispensary, much of that amount was donated by interested individuals.

The showing of "Texas Across the River" marks the second benefit for the well child nursery. The first, held in mid 1966, drew enough capital to support the nursery for seven months.

Popular "Oklahoma" Scheduled to Open

"Oklahoma!" ran for 2248 continuous performances on Broadway. It will be performed four nights on Virginia Beach Blvd. by the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus.

"Oklahoma!" was the first musical ever written by the team of Rodgers and Hammerstein and it has a long list of other firsts. It was the first musical recording of the entire score by the original cast. It was the debut of several stars who were unknown when they stepped into the play, among them Celeste Holm, Shelley Winters, Alfred Drake, Joan McCracken, Howard de Silva and Howard Keel.

Its gross of $7,000,000 broke all known box-office records up to that time. In London it had the longest run of any play in the 287-year history of the Drury Lane Theatre.

Officers Awarded

Two Oceana-based members of Fighter Squadron 32 (VF-32) were recently awarded the distinguished flying cross for their actions during a bombing mission during a strike on the heavily defended Van Dien vehicle depot in North Vietnam on Dec. 14, 1966.

They are Lt. Cmdr. Herbert Leonard Schnell and Lt. (j.g.) Gerald Robert Agresti.

Four Earn Army Grants

Four local high school seniors have been selected to receive four-year scholarships to the 247 colleges and universities offering the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps program.

They are Timothy P. Monahan of 2825 Beaufort Ave., Joel M. Hollis Jr. of 313 East Wood Cr., Daniel H. Ruzic of 1917 Charla

Lee La., and William J. Sakowich Jr. of 416 Granite Tr.

The 800 winners were selected from over 12,000 high school seniors who applied. Each scholarship pays for tuition, textbooks, lab fees and provides a subsistence allowance of $50 a month. During a six-week summer camp between the junior and senior years of college, the student receives $151.95 a month.

Upon graduation from college and successful completion of the Army ROTC program, scholarship students are commissioned as second lieutenants in the Army and serve on active duty for four years.

Local Girl Will Study In India

A Virginia Beach girl is one of 25 carefully selected juniors and seniors from Randolph-Macon Woman's College in Lynchburg who will take part in a five-week study-travel seminar in India this summer.

She is Susan Sellers, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Duncan Sellers of 2713 Sandy Valley Rd.

The students will spend about five weeks studying at Indraprastha College in Delhi and traveling to several major Indian cities. A grant of approximately the rupee equivalent of $40,000, made by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare under a provision of the Fulbright-Hays Act, will finance the trip.

Accompanying the students as director of the seminar will be Dr. Frederick B. Rowe, professor of psychology at Randolph-Macon. Dr. Rowe spent last year at Indraprastha College as a teacher under the U. S.-India Women's College Faculty Exchange program, a cooperative effort of 15 U. S. and six Indian women's colleges.

Farewell Forever

The loss of the Wash Woods precinct of Virginia Beach has caused sentimental sadness in many quarters.

Wash Woods, traditionally the first precinct to report in Virginia Beach, and often in Virginia has only nine voters, who will now vote in the closest neighboring precinct, Sigma.

The precinct was abolished for the next election because of the addition of voting machines in all precincts. Wash Woods could hardly qualify for a voting machine.

The community of Wash Woods is located almost at the North Carolina line, and can only be reached by traveling the beach. The remote precinct, however was considered a political barometer. It was often heard, "So goes Wash Woods, so goes Virginia". That wasn't always true, but was right more often than not.

And now, "So goes Wash Woods...."

Dolphins Here

Virginia Beach Gets Marineland

Imagine the surprise of the first person who dives into the Lake Wright Motor Lodge swimming pool on a warm day and comes face to face with a dolphin—or two or three.

They're there and will be until tanks are ready for them at the proposed Marineland of Virginia which will be built in Virginia Beach, possibly opening on Memorial Day.

Three dolphins arrived Saturday in a U-Haul truck after a 50 hour trip from Stunatchee Fla., close to where they were captured three weeks ago. They were out of water, packed in wooden crates, for the trip and frequent stops were made to hose them down.

The location of the Marineland is still in the negotiating stage, but should be announced in about two weeks. "It will be on the water," Buck Cowling, one of the vice presidents of Marineland of Virginia, Inc., promised.

The site is rumored to be off of Shore Drive at the end of Lesser Bridge where the Seven Seas Restaurant is now located.

Other members of the venture included Michael Shafer, superintendent; Dr. J. S. Zaneveld, director of the Institute of Oceanography at Old Dominion College; Edwin A. Schoen, practicing veterinarian, and John McHone, a senior at OD who will be curator.

Plans call for $265,000 in construction over a three to four year period. Included will be tanks for harbor seals from Maine, giant angel fish, piranhas, eels and other kinds of fish.

"We heard that two buses of school children from North Carolina had to go to Philadelphia to see dolphins," Shafer said. "That's ridiculous."

The group has already been promised the two-headed turtle found recently by a boy in Norfolk.

Dr. Zaneveld said that the Marineland will be geared as an educational rather than a commercial exhibit. "We want a pool for behavior studies in oceanography."

The three dolphins here now have not been trained, but Shafer said they will learn quickly. They are gentle and will take a fish from human hands.

Incidentally, there are 60 varieties of dolphins. These are bottle-nosed. They are believed to be a family group, a cow, a calf and a bull. Shafer said that the bull was very protective of the other two when they were captured by net. They consume 56 pounds of fish a day although the baby has just been weaned. The arrival of the dolphins required a truckload of salt to be dumped in the swimming pool, since they are a salt-water mammal. As mammals, they can only stay beneath the water five or six minutes at a time.

So look before you leap.

E. E. BRICKELL (SEATED) AND E. R. LOBECK LOOK OVER INITIAL PLANS FOR THE NEW VOCATIONAL HIGH SCHOOL PLANNED FOR VIRGINIA BEACH IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

Troops Rally For Fight

With the filing date for candidates in the Democratic Primary past, the campaigns are now moving into high gear.

The major battles are between the Administrative Team, made up mostly of incumbents and the United Ticket. Leaders of both tickets also filed for seats on the City Democratic Committee.

C. Roger Malbon, a former sheriff of Princess Anne County filed candidates for 60 of the 76 available seats as an anti-administration slate.

Malbon noted that he did not wish to get involved personally Administration candidate for the House of Delegates, L. Charles Burlage, noted that Malbon had filed "his" candidates, saying they were not the candidates of the people, as Malbon had indicated.

"In other words, if the United Ticket wins," said Burlage, "Roger Malbon seeks to run the Democratic Party and his brother-in-law (Jack Etheridge) will run the city government."

Burlage went on to say that this would cause disharmony in the government of Virginia Beach, which he said is the one city in Tidewater "really on the move".

"If this should happen, the primary efforts of the government of Virginia Beach will be concentrated on political bickering and factionalism....," said Burlage.

Malbon later denied the Burlage charges.

In other developments the Administration legislative team came out against the calling of a constitutional convention by the federal government aimed at knocking down the one-man, one-vote principle, because under present circumstances they said Virginia Beach would be in line for additional state senators and delegates after 1972 because of growth.

State Sen. William Kellam and his opponent Edward Caton got into a hassle over a bill Caton said Kellam voted against in the 1966 session of the Virginia General Assembly. Kellam said he voted for the bill after an appropriate title change. Caton said it was a matter of courtesy to vote for all the changes.

Kenneth Whitehurst said the efforts of the Administration's legislative team would continue to support the Erosion Commission in Virginia Beach, after telling of the work the commission has done in recent years.

Vocational High School Scheduled by Sept. '69

BY JOSEPH LOWENTHAL JR.

Plans for a vocational high school in Virginia Beach are progressing right on schedule, and the schedule now calls for the opening of the facility in September 1969.

But before the opening day a large amount of work will go into the planning of the curriculum to the needs of the city, then tailor-building the school to fill those needs.

The man who has been charged with the overall responsibility of setting up the vocational high school is Edward E. Brickell, Director of Secondary Education for Virginia Beach Schools. Brickell has called upon the former industrial arts teacher at Kempville High School, W. E. Lobeck, to aid in the planning and organizing stages. On April 1, Lobeck took on the full-time job of helping Brickell bring the school to Virginia Beach.

The first steps in the long and involved process calls for the conducting of two separate surveys, according to Lobeck. He has already begun surveying employers in Virginia Beach and in the Tidewater area to determine their present, future and long-range vocational manpower needs and to determine what machinery or technical equipment students will be required to operate when they finish school.

In addition, Lobeck says he is working with the Virginia State Employment Service and representatives of military installations in the area to determine the apprenticeship needs of the crafts and finding out what credit will be given to vocational school graduates in their chosen field.

Lobeck is also checking with a sampling of the larger industries in the area toward the same goal. He is hopeful of getting credit for the graduates, amounting of one or two years toward becoming a journeyman.

Lobeck expects the surveys to be completed and evaluated by late summer and to turn them over to the architect by September.

The architect for the school is A. Ray Pentecost of the firm, Pentecost, Wade and McLellan. Pentecost is expected to present initial plans to the School Board about the first of next year, according to Brickell.

"Final plans should be approved in five or six months from September," said Brickell. "So construction should start in the spring of 1968 and be finished in about a year-and-a-half."

One of the biggest problems will be equipping the facility, according to Lobeck.

"The delivery date of a lot of machinery is being greatly delayed by the Vietnam conflict," he said. "It is taking up to 18 months to get some of the machines we'll need."

But Lobeck added that the city does have time to order and be ready if the machines can be ordered and all specifications for machinery are fully determined at the same time the start of construction takes place.

The federal government will contribute up to 80 percent of the money needed for construction and equipment, as well as a large part of the salaries of the highly trained specialists needed to staff the school, according to Brickell.

"The cost of the operation of the school after it is built is also very low to Virginia Beach," he said. "The state of Virginia will pay 60 percent."

Brickell said two sites are under active consideration for building the school, but would not reveal their locations because he said real estate prices could soar.

Plans at present call for the school to be used on a three-shift a day basis. Students from part of the high schools will attend the vocational school in the morning and pursue their academic studies in the afternoon at their respective high schools. The other half will attend in the afternoon, and take academics at their own schools in the morning. In addition, evening classes will be provided for adults.

For the most part, the vocational subjects will lead toward a regular high school diploma, except in the case of special education students.

Brickell and Lobeck say the school will probably have almost 1,000 to 1,200 students at the beginning, both day and night. The average size of classes will be about 15 students to provide as much individual attention as is needed in this type of school, according to Lobeck.

Cheesecake Cuts Birthday Cake

It was a warm, windy happy third birthday for the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel. There was a mammoth birthday cake and a lot of cheesecake too.

The cheesecake was provided by New York's Summer Festival Queen Nancy Davison, who cut the birthday cake. Looking on admiringly were bridge-tunnel executives, including the Executive Director, Clyde Morris and the Commission chairman, J. Clyde Morris.

The cake, the first held at the south toll plaza in Virginia Beach as part of the inaugural ion of the Travel Bonus Plan.

Beginning last Saturday, all motorists traveling either north or south through the 17-mile facility are given a discount book of coupons, good for reductions on gasoline, travel attractions, rooms and food along their trips. The program is designed to stimulate traffic on the bridge-tunnel, and to save vacationers and others more money than the cost of the toll on the facility.

Virginia Beach has the largest number of participating firms in the Travel Bonus Plan of any one city.

After Miss Davison, representatives of the bridge-tunnel and newsmen sampled the cake, a piece was given to the first truck driver who drove through the toll gate. He was Page Davis, of Onancock, driving for Turner's Express. He seemed surprised, but gladly accepted the cake.

While Miss Davison and her Navy escort, Robert DeWall, went on to inspect the entire facility, the cake was delivered to the General Hospital of Virginia Beach to be distributed to patients.

Riot Squad Prepared for Anything

There are 46 members of a specialized squad of the Virginia Beach Police Dept. that are highly trained for just about any eventuality.

The proper name for the squad, under the command of Capt. R. C. Davis, is the Civil Disturbance Unit, but to the layman that means the riot squad.

The squad waits in reserve and the citizens of Virginia Beach can rest assured that the men are trained to handle any kind of mass disturbance. Only once since its organization has the squad been needed, Capt. Davis is hopeful it will never be needed again, but he and his executive officer, Lt. C. H. Payne, keep the men ready for all emergencies.

The ranking officer covering any investigation or incident determines the need for the Civil Disturbance Unit. If, in his opinion, the situation cannot be brought entirely under control safely, he calls Davis or Payne. All other units then leave the matter to the specialists and handle other chores, such as traffic in the area in question.

The unit was organized early in 1966 and recognized by the department in May of 1966, since that time there has been continuous training for the squad. Training drills consist of handling all types of weapons, including gas guns, carbines and larger weapons. In addition a special group of the squad is trained specifically in the use of the tear gas guns and are known as the Special Chemical Weapons Unit.

So far the men of the civil disturbance unit have trained on off-duty hours totalling 1,276 hours. Just last fall they fired 600 rounds of ammunition merely in keeping finely tuned and ready.

The squad is equipped well also. Each member has a riot helmet, face guard and gas mask issued to him, and is trained in the use of the riot bat. The men will soon be training on the new outdoor police range.

The men and dogs of the K-9 Corps automatically become members of the Civil Disturbance Unit either in crowd control or merging into the entire group. The dogs can be a great deterrent in keeping spectators from getting close enough to a disturbance to get hurt.

Each member of the squad is furnished a 70-page manual compiled entirely by Capt. Davis and the squad. Every possibility is covered therein, and how to handle nearly any situation.

The incident in which the squad was called to action occurred late last summer when a man shot another man, then barricaded himself inside a home near a major thoroughfare and fired various rifles and pistols at police. Almost immediately the squad was on the scene and had the situation under control quickly. There were some close calls, but there were no casualties of any kind, except the man himself, who allegedly committed suicide.

The Civil Disturbance Squad and its specially trained men were necessary that night. They may never be needed again, but they are always prepared to protect the citizens of Virginia Beach from any major disturbance.

NEXT WEEK: POLICE DIVERS

Radio Links Police

Reeves E. Johnson, Chief of the Traffic Safety Bureau of Virginia Beach had the honor of delivering the first message to be broadcast across the airwaves in the new area-wide police network Monday.

All Tidewater cities are now connected to the police network, and other facilities, such as the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel Commission will soon become part.

Johnson and Norfolk's new police Chief Claude J. Staylor pushed the buttons that cut all the cities into the transmission network at exactly 12 noon, and Johnson's message was heard throughout the system.

The network, which was first suggested by Johnson, is considered to be another step in the direction of area-wide police cooperation.

In the event of an escape or a crime committed anywhere along the network, all other areas can know about it immediately and be on the lookout for fugitives, through use of the new radio facility.

The network would have been particularly useful in Virginia

Beach following bank robberies in the city in the past year, according to Johnson.

Ground

Broken

For Court

Ground was broken Tuesday afternoon for the new Municipal Courts Bldg. at Princess Anne.

The approximately $378,000 building will connect with the School Administration Bldg. behind the Courthouse. It will also add needed office space for the school system.

Two courts will be housed in the two-story, colonial-type building. On the first floor will be the municipal court. The second floor will contain the juvenile and domestic relations court.

The court building was included in the recent $7 1/2 million bond issue.

"Oklahoma" Opens

Spectators attending opening night Friday at Princess Anne High School will see a company of 60 singers and dancers perform "Oklahoma!"

Accompanied by a full orchestra, the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus will present a full production, the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus will present four performances of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, April 21, 22 and 23, 29, two consecutive Friday and Saturday nights. The musical director of the Civic Chorus, Charles Oliver, will preside at the podium.

The principals of the cast include some familiar to Civic Chorus fans and some new-

ers. Back in a leading role is Vi Ragan, whose professional acting background included Broadway, off-Broadway and summer stock.

Reappearing also is Anthony Vickers, who will be remembered for his portrayal of Emile in last year's production, belonging to Belle Landrum, in the leading lady's role, and Scott Kunkel, who plays the famous part of Jud.

The profits from ticket sales for "Oklahoma!" will provide three scholarships offered by the Virginia Beach Rotary Club, who are the sponsors of the show. Tickets are available at the Princess Anne High School box office up to performance time of 8:15 p.m.

A Review Wedgewood Mystery Is Theatre "Must"

The production of THE DESPERATE HOURS currently playing at Wedgewood Dinner Theatre in Toano is a spine-chilling mystery drama in the finest sense of the word, "mystery."

Director Frank Staroba has paced the heavy action nicely and moves his cast expertly through an intricate setting encompassing a number of rooms in a house. Betty Oliver, Virginia Beach native who regrettably is leaving Wedgewood, has designed another outstanding set which adds to the overall production.

The play deals with three dangerous escaped convicts who take over the home of an upper middle class family and hold the husband, wife and two children at bay for two days. The tension mounts beautifully as the danger increases.

LaVerne Watson, as the husband, presents both sides of the man's character... the outward calm and the inner fear. His emotional gamut runs from the cowardly to the fiercely protective, and Watson portrays all nicely.

Claudine Iddings, as the wife, plays a less dimensional character, but is nicely consistent in her role as the frightened woman.

Terrie Watson, as the seemingly fearless daughter, presents a good picture of youth afraid of nothing, but handles well also the fear she feels.

Russell Turnage, as the young son, also handles well the role of the other member of the family threatened by three criminals.

Paul Iddings, in a role quite unfamiliar to himself, plays the psychotic killer, who is the mastermind of the escape, the holding of the family and the plot to kill the policeman who sent him to jail, after breaking his jaw. Iddings is tough, mean and foul, yet gains real audience sympathy as a human being.

Tommy Eaton as his younger brother and also an escapee is the nervous one and the weak link in the trio of escapees. It is Eaton's running away that eventually leads to the downfall of his brother... In every way, Eaton does a nice job with the role, but his extreme nervousness is perhaps too apparent too soon.

Roby Brown, as the animalistic killer in the trio, is outstanding. His portrayal of the murderer who could never be rehabilitated at all, is chilling.

Ron Reid, as the policeman, is obsessed with recapturing the trio, and it is his cool police work that finally leads to the startling conclusion. Reid, although perhaps a shade too young for the demanding role turns in a convincing portrayal.

Nice bits are added by Leroy MacFarland, as the FBI man and Don Downing as Tom Winston, policeman.

Carole Silcox provides additional tension to the plot as the youngster's teacher, who comes into the scene. Chef Coltrane has some nice moments as the daughter's boyfriend, and Mike Pilgrim does a nice job as the old trash man.

Theatre goers are not always receptive to a drama, but this one should be an exception. Wedgewood's production of this one is alive with tension and excitement and should be a "must". HJL.

Keyettes Plan Show

The Kellam High School Keyettes will sponsor a Variety Show at 8 p.m. Friday in the auditorium.

Proceeds from the show will support a Korean orphan "adopted" by the Keyettes during the summer months. Any money will go into a scholarship fund.

Marilyn Morgan, club president, is in charge of the program. Miss Mary Lou Hollowell, Keyettes sponsor, is director.

A Review
Cavalier Production Rates Superlatives

A complete and comprehensive review of A THOUSAND CLOWNS, now playing at Cavalier Dinner Playhouse in Norfolk, would have to be piled high with superlatives. Let it suffice to say that the production is excellent.

Director Tim Jones has put together a cast that complements each other beautifully. No one is better than anyone else, and none can be left out when the accolades are being awarded.

The play itself is a delightful and sometimes poignant comedy, about all of us. If there is a playgoer that can't find himself in one of those characters, something's wrong with the imagination of the playgoer.

William Camp plays the happy-go-lucky Murray with all the contempt for the rest of the world and all the warmth for the people in it that is demanded of him. And the role is extremely demanding. Camp meets the challenge.

Young Virginia Beach resident David Dexter, as Nick Burns, the "middle-aged kid", old beyond his years, is outstanding. His facial reactions contribute greatly to the success of the production.

Ron LeBlanc, as Murray's highly successful brother, adds much to the show with his "bald scene" and gets a highly deserved hand when he exits.

In fact, on opening night it was difficult for anyone to leave the stage at all, even for a couple of minutes, without getting a hand.

J. Booth Doss, as Albert,

Miss Oliver, is a freshman at VPI majoring in home economics. She held offices in her local 4-H club and served as president of the Virginia Beach 4-H Honor Club.

In 1965 she was state home economics achievement winner and attended the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. She was also junior and state regional "Make It Yourself with Wool" winner and participated in the national contest. She is a graduate of Princess Anne High School.

the rattled social worker, is a delight to watch. His role can be so overplayed just for laughs, but Doss handled it with all the finesse necessary.

Michael O. Smith is only on the stage as Leo Herman, or "Chuckles, the Chipmunk", kiddie TV star, for a few minutes, but in that short span of time this young master of characterizations and comedy timing almost steals the show away from all the rest. And that is tough to do.

Terri Reed, another Virginia Beach resident, adds to her credits as Sandra Markowitz, the most mixed up social worker anyone has ever known. She was not terribly successful at being a social worker, but she is terribly successful at being social. Miss Reed's interpretation was a joy to watch, although entirely different from any other we have ever seen. Only her long crying jag some might be controlled a shade more.

Only one scene disturbs this reviewer. A long scene in Murray's brother's office is played at the front of the stage in blinking blue and lavender light. The scene was far too dark and did not attain the mood that Jones was apparently looking for, whatever it was. We found ourselves trying to figure it out. Was it a dream sequence? Was it an imagination scene? Or what the heck was it? It just didn't come off. It is an important scene and deserves better.

Needless to say, A THOUSAND CLOWNS at Cavalier is a hit, and by far, one of the best productions to play the boards there in some time. HJL

Students Win Prizes

Quantity of Work Goes into Meeting

Many Virginia Beach high school students won awards in an art show held in conjunction with the Tidewater Food Service Executives Assn. annual culinary show last weekend at the Admiralty Motel.

Best in the show was won by Mike Jones of Princess Anne who also placed first in Drawing and second in Oils and Synthetic Media.

Most Original was won by Tom Acosta of Virginia Beach Junior High.

Water Color awards went to Maryanne Haynes of Cox, first; Glynn Humphries of Cox, second; Rose Villanueva of Kempesville High School, third.

In Oils and Synthetic Media, Nan Ellison of First Colonial placed first and Donna Williams of Kempesville High School won third prize.

Kelly Whitaker of Kellam won second in Drawing and Doug Jones third.

For Collages, Frances Cabot of Princess Anne won first; Hank Folles of First Colonial, second; Tempers, Mike McDowell, of Virginia Beach Junior High, first; Cliff Eastman of First Colonial, second; Linda Rowans, of Bayside, third.

For Mixed Media, Mark Reynolds of Cox won first; Richard Ogera of First Colonial, second; Wally Wales of Kellam, third; Three Dimensional: Woody Mann of Cox, first; Graphic: Brook Baxter of First Colonial, first; Susan Spence of Kellam, second; and Mary Marquett of Kellam, third; Pastels: Terri Meredith of Princess Anne, first; Allen Benham of Virginia Beach Junior High, second; Martha Sheeley of Princess Anne, third.

British voters say ballot counting is too slow.

Jehovah's Witnesses are usually seen standing at the door, Bible and bookbag in hand.

Friday at the dome, some wielded hammers and saws. Others had screwdrivers and pliers.

Still others donned chef's hats and worked away in the kitchen.

By evening, they had their Bibles in hand again, but this time they were assembled some 800 strong for the opening of a three-day assembly which ended Sunday.

By 6:30 p.m. Friday, the Dome was a large-scale Kingdom Hall, set for three days of Bible teaching and ministerial training.

Peter J. D'Mura keyed the assembly with a talk on "Supplying to Your Faith, Endurance."

The Witnesses then launched into a model "Theocratic Ministry School," a pattern for similar schools held weekly in local Kingdom Halls in 199 countries and principalities throughout the world.

The topic for the night was "Angels."

Saturday's program featured a sermon on baptism.

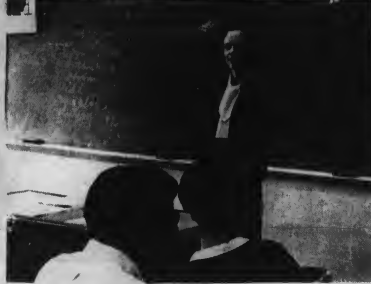

Sunday's program was highlighted by a two-hour Bible documentary film on Bible history from Adam to Christ. Using scenes from modern Palestine, it sought to show the accuracy of the Bible's historical account and the fulfillment of its prophecies.

College Features Student Program

Several hundred sophomores and juniors from Tidewater Virginia area high schools attended a "College Orientation Day" at Virginia Wesleyan College on Saturday.

The one-day general orientation program featured discussions on choosing a college, applying to college, adjusting to college and getting the most out of college experiences.

Mrs. Frances C. Hudgins, guidance counselor at Princess Anne High School discussed "Applying to College".

NORFOLK PORTSMOUTH VIRGINIA BEACH

Summer Nears, Surfers Hot

The public hearing held by the Parks and Recreation Commission on surfing problems may well turn out to be the biggest fiasco of the year. It certainly did nothing to breach the already cavernous gap between surfers and the powers that be.

In fact, the entire three-hour meeting probably did a great deal to step up the whole mess even more than it already was. This was not the fault of either side, but the flaring of tempers on the part of surfers, the flat refusal of some businessmen to deal with the matter and the unswerving animosity of those who ignore the problem still remain.

The problem of the surfers is a real one, and as the city continues to grow even larger, there will be more and more surfers, particularly if we continue to be the home base for the East Coast Surfing Championships and if we continue to draw national publicity to our surfing area.

And as the city grows, more hotels and motels and private homes will take up most of the beachfront areas, making it next to impossible to provide any additional room for the surfers of the future. What the Commission will do then is open only to speculation.

Trash Cans Are Not Beautiful

There is nothing that mars the looks of a neighborhood anymore than an unsightly trash can sitting at the curb the day after the garbage was collected.

There is a law on the books, almost completely ignored by citizens and police alike, that makes it a misdemeanor to have the empty or full can on the street except on the day of collection.

For those who do not rise early enough to have the trash on the curb by the time of collection, perhaps the extent of the law can be stretched a bit to allow the residents to put the cans on the street after dark the night before. Of course, the same residents then leave the cans there as easy prey to the wind and other elements, as well as stray dogs (of which there are also legally supposed to be none in Virginia Beach).

It is a small task for some member of the family to take the cans in a few hours after the collection, even if everyone

We believe the Commission really wants to help but is stymied in what it can do. We also believe the individual surfers will get nowhere without complete organization. Then perhaps a spokesman for a group can do some good.

Even some of the surf shop operators recognize the danger of renting surf boards, especially to novices. Surfing is not easy. Perhaps the abolition of this practice could be a step in the right direction.

We have no sure-fire solution to the problem, but apparently neither does anyone else. But it now seems that surfing and surfers will continue to be with us. Some of their demands and hopes are unreasonable, one-sided and immature. Some are not and deserve to be listened to and to be put into practice. The same goes for the Commission, the police and the City Council.

Virginia Beach is a large, thriving city, continuing to grow at a remarkably rapid pace. It seems unbelievable that the surfing problem cannot be settled to the general satisfaction of nearly everyone.

The time is now to do something about it, before the matter gets any worse.

in the family is gainfully employed outside the home. Surely they will be home sometime in a 24-hour period.

Still we can drive through any neighborhood a full day or more after collection and still see battered and beat old garbage cans sitting exactly where they were deposited after being emptied. Often the lids are even in a different spot, thanks to the collection man in a hurry.

This seems to be mute testimony that the residents who allow this have no civic pride and do not wish, as we do, to see a beautiful Virginia Beach at all times.

It seems ridiculous to say that perhaps the police should crack down on offenders, but after all, it is the law. Maybe a few citations would help.

Keeping the neighborhoods free of trash cans does not seem too difficult. Maybe a little more effort from the residents, garden clubs and civic leagues would also help.

The Road to Redwing

The city of Virginia Beach has a beautiful park just minutes from the resort area, minutes from the City Hall area at Princess Anne and minutes from the centers of population in Lynnhaven Borough.

Redwing Park has picnic tables and places for cook-outs, in the unusually secluded and cool surroundings of many tall trees. It has several recreational areas for children and adults, including kiddie slides, ball fields and nature trails.

It is an asset to the city, and its fast development has been a credit to the city fathers who bought it and made it useable for all of us at any time.

There is only one problem. Access is next to impossible. It is accessible only to motorists traveling north on General Booth Blvd., although the southbound lanes of the boulevard lie only a few feet away, and the intersection with Oceana Boulevard lies only a few yards away. And the pitted dirt road that does go in is too bumpy and narrow.

The problem was created when General Booth Blvd. was opened last January. For the past two months the Parks and Recreation Commission has supposedly been studying the matter. In the hope of determining how better access can be achieved. No answer has been forthcoming.

Meanwhile summer and the park-going season get closer. We are hopeful that a solution is at hand, but just not announced. We are also hopeful that access to such a fine park as Redwing will be simple by the time the picnic, softball and relaxation season begins.

DROP-OUTS

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

There are some modern-day ideas in use in American that have some dangerous potential kinks. It is difficult for good judgement to understand how a "National Crime Commission" can believe that brotherly-love and good behavior can be purchased at a price. These high-bracket human traits carry no price tag and never did carry one.

There are at least two powers known to be capable of defeating crime. These two powers have proven themselves throughout the ages. The one that offers the greater reward is "the love of God in the total life of mankind." This is the one that have never been known to fail when properly nourished from the "well of faith in God."

The second effective enemy of crime is the one that too often has to be used on turbulent characters and dispositions, that through their environmental neglect have developed reckless attitudes toward law and order. These are those who are to be pitied, in that they lost out on training during the one to 10 years of life.

It is far more difficult to correct bad behavior habits after they are well-rooted. It can be done however, if the proper disciplinary measures are used, without the interference of inexperienced, impractical legal obstructions.

As a long-time educator, I have always followed this rule: use persuasion as far as possible; after that, if necessary, use force to get respect and use it with a loving desire to help the patient. Ed L. Applegate

And so, Ninety Days to Go

The day of reckoning is now less than 90 days away. The filing date for candidates has come and gone. A new candidate, Ben Woolston, squeezed into the Democratic primary just under the deadline, making the race for City Sergeant heavier than all the rest.

Everyone has opposition and that, of course, is as it should be. The people should now make up their minds and exercise their right on election day.

Political Potpourri

Only the Administration ticket, however, has a full slate of candidates for Constitutional offices and Virginia General Assembly seats. The United Ticket is shy two of a full slate, lacking candidates for Commissioner of Revenue and City Sergeant.

But Independent Bill Phillips has provided incumbent Commissioner of Revenue Ivan Mapp with opposition. The majority of his early opposition appeared to see how much press mileage he could get out of his "sit-in at City Hall Annex," after Mapp asked for and accepted his resignation, shortly after Phillips announced he was going to run against his boss.

Ben Woolston, an assistant to the City Sergeant, resigned only hours after announcing his candidacy against his boss, John Marr, who is running as an independent. Even Robert Harrington, who worked for a short time in the sanitation department resigned after he announced his candidacy. His reason was never clear, since he was not running against his boss. Some said he needed time to practice his guitar to conduct his pledged "swingin'" campaign.

So Administration candidate Paul Sutton was the only City Sergeant candidate with a real political "home".

Incidentally the winner of that contest already has announced opposition in Joseph Dreano, political newcomer, who plans to run in the November general election.

Obviously the real races lie between the United Ticket and the Administration Team in both the races and for control of the City Democratic Committee. And Sidney Kellam has finally seemed to let the campaign stride in his theme of "let's look at the record".

The Admins can certainly point to a record of progress in all phases of government. Not even the United Ticket can deny that. The low tax rate, the many new schools and high quality of education, the 200 miles of sewer and water lines and the tremendous strides toward maturity, all of which have come about in the past four years under Organization or Administration government cannot be denied.

The United ticket, on the other hand, sees all this. They must, yet they say "it's time for a change". Many ask, "To what?" The Uniteds go right on saying nothing good about the city they live in and have progressed in.

It seems now that the campaign has finally evolved into an "issues" campaign. A record of progress versus the sounds of negativism.

Bumper stickers are back in the news. A few isolated "Bill Phillips for Commissioner of the Revenue" and a few "John Marr for City Sergeant" stickers can be seen occasionally, but there are none so far for any of the other independents.

So it becomes a battle of the Admin bumper sticker and the United bumper stickers. Both are red, white and blue and most attractive, and it seems that the Admins have a decided edge in the number of bumper stickers now on cars. The Admins also have a separate Kellam red, white and blue sticker, since the incumbent state Senator, William P. Kellam must run in three cities. So the Uniteds have followed suit. They now have red, white and blue Caton stickers. There seem to be more Kellam stickers than Caton stickers too on cars these days.

Some rather amusing things have come out of the campaign so far. Ned Caton accused Bill Kellam of voting against an important bill in the last session of the Virginia General Assembly. Kellam presented the Senate Journal to show he was in favor.

Some obvious Admin supporters are having trouble pronouncing the name of their major opposition ticket. Sometimes it comes out "Untied" or "Untried". Both misnomers have interesting connotations.

But the topper came last week when someone spoke up at a briefing concerning the Azalea Festival in Norfolk. It was pointed out that the Azalea Festival has bought 10,000 bumper stickers to be put on trucks and cars in the entire area promoting the festival.

The speaker, who shall remain nameless, confided that he had heard there was a move afoot to paste the festival stickers over all the Administration team stickers in Virginia Beach. The remark got a good laugh, but it set the thought process to work. Maybe there really is a plot, but who would do a thing like that?

Just think, every bumper sticker we see for the Azalea Festival may have an Administration sticker underneath.

I don't care what Price, Waterhouse says, I think somebody peeked in the envelopes and saw to it that "A Man for all Seasons" got six Academy Awards and "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" only got five.

After all, even if the Academy continues to give most of the coveted Oscars away to foreigners, it has to redeem itself somehow. In the case of this year's big winners, it could hardly give the foul-talking, sick-subjected "Virginia Woolf" more than it did to "All Seasons," which is even sponsored by highly regarded religious groups in some cities.

And what a shame the Burtons are miffed. Just because Richard didn't win and Liz did. They had hoped to set another "first". But so what. Liz and Richard created enough interesting "firsts" in the past years. And my wife doesn't like Richard Burton anyway. She says he's always trying to create a tense emotional scene by staring off into space.

Who's

A afraid of

Academy

Awards?

But Richard shouldn't feel too badly about it. After all a countryman of his, Paul Scofield, did take Oscar home to England for him. The Redgrave girls didn't make it for jolly old England either, though.

Did you see where those girls were sitting during the awards ... one right behind the other? Suppose one had won. You know some sadistic cameraman would have done a close-up of the loser hating her sister.

The only saving grace of the entire boring two-hour Academy Awards show is the real man for all seasons, Bob Hope. His blazing wit which knows no sacred cows is always a joy. And I wonder when they are going to start a new category for the best performance by a governor. Ronald Reagan would win hands down for his reruns of "Death Valley Days". My kids think he's a clown.

If the Academy continues to let foreigners win, they are going to have to provide interpreters. I still don't have the slightest idea what Anne Maguire said when she won a few years ago. And this year it was worse. A Frenchman, who won for the so-called recommended adult entertainment "A Man and a Woman" stepped to the podium and said in studied English, "Thank you, I don't speak English." The audience laughed. They thought he was kidding. But he wasn't. That was all the English he knew. Then he launched into a long speech in his native tongue.

I was told the next day that the applause he got was not deserved. It seemed he said that DeGaulle would pull out of the Academy Awards and get all American moviemakers off French soil.

And how about those poised stars who went all to pieces when the teleprompter didn't work. It would have been hilarious if Donald Duck had been announced as the winner of the Best Cinematography award.

But the funniest and perhaps the most embarrassing moment of the recent awards was no doubt suffered by the young lady, whoever she was, who began running toward the stage to pick up the award for someone else. And she looked extremely elated. The only trouble was the fellow she was picking it up for did not win. His foreign name sounded so much like the foreign name that won, that she misunderstood.

Halfway down the aisle with the TV cameras watching her every loping movement, she looked up at the stage, only to see to her horror that the real winner was accepting the award in fluent Czechoslovakian.

Poor thing. She tried to hide but the ever-searching camera followed her all the way back to her seat. She explained later that she really was not trying to pick up an award, just get to the ladies' room.

Someone came up with a great idea which we heartily endorse and support. Next year the Awards will be given out in New York at the United Nations Building. That way there will be an interpreter for virtually anyone who wins, even the Swahili Cinema Syndicate.

And then too if the Oscars continue to reduce the gold reserve of this country and travel overseas, maybe Hollywood will finally catch on. Maybe old celluloid city will finally remember what it's job is. Maybe some good pictures will come from there again. After all it was a big improvement this year. The good old U. S. of A. won three of the top four acting awards. It's almost like getting the Davis cup out from Australia.

Demos Rally

Democrats in two boroughs of Virginia Beach have turned out in force at rallies for the Administration team recently.

Nearly 500 persons were at the Lake Wright Motel at a party sponsored by the Bayside Boosters Club. Jim Donnelly and Hugh Barnes, who laid most of the groundwork for the get-together, said the Bayside Boosters are "100 percent behind the Administration Team".

All eight candidates for Virginia Beach Constitutional Offices and seats in the Virginia General Assembly, subject to the July 11 Democratic primary, spoke briefly, but left the major address up to Democratic National Committeeman, Sidney S. Kellam.

Kellam noted that the opposition to the Administration Team is fighting a campaign that he called "negative".

"Not once have they said anything good about their city," he said.

Kellam urged the election of the entire Administration Team, saying the city could not afford to have a divided government. He promised an affirmative campaign, not based on half-truths and rumors.

In addition Kellam also told of numerous accomplishments of progress under the government of the present Administration.

The following Thursday about 250 supporters of the Administration Team attended a luncheon at the Kempsville Golf and Country Club, sponsored by members of the Young Democrats Club. Another luncheon is scheduled at the same location on April 27 under the same sponsorship for another 250 persons.

All the Administration candidates and Kellam also attended the Kempsville luncheon, and plan to be there again on the 27th.

Patrick R. Test, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine T. Test, Route 2, 2393 Princess Anne Station, was promoted to Army private pay grade E-2 upon completion of basic combat training at Ft. Bragg, N. C. The promotion was awarded two months earlier than is customary under an Army policy providing incentive for outstanding trainees.

by W. E. Turner, Franklin.

Engraved trophies were awarded to the owners of winning dogs.

The next field trial competition will be in the fall prior to the opening of hunting season.

Bayside Record Mixed

Bayside's record continued to be a mixed one last week, as the baseball, track, tennis, and golf seasons neared the halfway mark.

In Baseball, the varsity won one and lost one, while the J.V. added to their impressive record with two more wins. The Knights of Kellam defeated the Marlins in an 11-inning game Tuesday, 6-4. Two unearned runs in the eleventh made the difference.

On Friday, the Marlins made up for that by drubbing First Colonial, 15-7. It was seven runs in the bottom of the sixth that made this win for the Marlins, now sporting a 2-3 league record. The J.V. defeated the Kellam J.V., 5-0, and the First Colonial J.V., 10-0.

On the tennis courts, Cox defeated the Marlins, 7-2, on Tuesday, and rolled to an 8-1 victory over Kellam on Friday. Next week includes a trip to Churchland on Tuesday and to Cradock on Friday.

The Marlins lost a close one to the Cradock track team on Wednesday, 68-63. For Bayside, Platz won the Triple Jump, David took first and Gregory came in second in the Mile. Domina and Cooper took the 440 in that order. Gregory won the 880. Leavitt won the 2-mile with Rogers coming in second, and the Bayside team of Cooper, Hasking, Arth, and Domina, won the Mile Relay with a time of 3:41.2. After journeying to the Tidewater Meet in Williamsburg on Saturday, the Marlins

Local Dog Wins Top Honors

Fifty dogs competed last week at the Tri-City Pointer and Setter Club spring trial held in King's Grant.

The weather was ideal and trial grounds outstanding as an estimated 200 people watched some of the best bird dogs in Tidewater.

Tri-City Club President J. Ely Newsome, Norfolk, commented that he was very pleased with the turn out, and competition was the closest that he had seen in a long time.

ASA Changes Rules, Advantage to Virginia

The Amateur Softball Assoc. of America, due to the rapid growth of slow pitch competition, has created 30 regions this year in this category.

The winners or top teams in regional playoffs, plus the defending champions and host team will make up the 32 teams in the national open tournament on Sept. 1-4 at Parma, Ohio.

This new system has helped Virginia Amateur Softball Assoc., an ASA affiliate, in this manner:

Virginia, fourth in 1966 ASA team registration, has been awarded regions No. 5 and No. 6 and will be allowed to qualify the winner and runner-up in the Aug. 12 playoffs here to the 1967 tourney at Parma, Ohio.

In previous years, only one team represented the Old Dominion in the major ASA slow pitch event. There were 62 teams in the national tourney last year. This caused a bulky situation and ASA officials voted in favor of regional playoffs.

Virginia ASA will hold its modified speed tourney on May 13 at Richmond and, as a bonus, the winner will advance to the Aug. 12 tourney.

Softballers interested in the May 13 event should write immediately to State Softball Commissioner Hank Wolfe, 118 Seneca Rd., Richmond, Va., 23226 for tournament rules.

Marine Reserve Pvt. Joseph J. Nicolay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley S. Nicolay of 1500 Wakefield Dr., has graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C.

Results of the bird hunters stake were: First place, Wonder Boy, pointer male owned by Frank Peebles, Virginia Beach; second place, Chris, setter female owned by M. A. Simmons, Norfolk; third place, Prince, setter male owned by H. E. Dunlow, Boykins.

Results of the shooting dog stake were: First place, Whitley, pointer male owned by J. D. Baker, Norfolk; second place, Janie pointer female owned by W. E. Turner of Franklin; third place, Ben, pointer male owned track team is scheduled to travel to Churchland on Wednesday.

In golf, the Bayside Golf Team last week defeated Princess Anne, 10-2, and Churchland, 6-4.

Top Teams To Meet Tomorrow

The Cox High baseball team faces Kellam tomorrow in what should prove to be a battle of city rivals.

Cox narrowly defeated Great Bridge 3-1 on a two run scoring rally in the eighth inning. The teams were dead-locked through the sixth inning in a duel of pitchers. Cox's Jim Cherwa, now 3-0, is the Falcon's leading pitcher. Up until the sixth inning, he had allowed only two hits.

Mike Futrell is Kellam's top pitcher, and may be facing Cox tomorrow. The Kellam offense is sparked by hitters Alan Clements, David Pace, and Tommy Loftus.

Second baseman John Knight leads Cox in the hitting department. He is ably backed up by team mates David Tew, Bob Chellis, and Denny Hill.

The Falcon runners were defeated in a home track meet last week by Granby. Mike Taylor (880) and Brian Magoon (two mile) were the only winners in their events for Cox. John Austen was high point man with 9, and Taylor was second with 8 points.

School

"The majority of teachers will come from industry, and may have teaching experience, hopefully," said Lobeck.

Courses under consideration for the school include auto mechanics and diesel mechanics, machine shop, welding, air conditioning, refrigeration, plumbing and heating, building trades, basic electronics, vocational agriculture and horticulture, drafting, housekeeping and any other special needs.

Brickell and Lobeck stress the fact that the vocational school should not be expected to accomplish more than its objectives, and emphasize that it will not be the "panacea for dropouts".

Vocational schools are either open, being built or considered in several places in Virginia, notably Richmond and Chesapeake.

In the fall of 1969, Virginia Beach will join the ranks, with the hard work of Brickell and Lobeck still ahead.

Etheridge Promises Best Govt. At Lowest Cost

The United Candidates are pledged to give Virginia Beach the best possible government at the lowest possible cost, according to V. Alfred (Jack) Etheridge, City Treasurer and candidate for re-election in the July 11 primaries.

"There are a number of ways in which this can be accomplished," Etheridge told a meeting of United supporters. "Our children must be given quality education and there is a growing need for vocational training for those children who will never go to college. We will develop, as the campaign progresses, the United Plan for a better Virginia Beach".

"The pressing need now, however, in government," Etheridge continued, "is for the introduction of business-like methods of controlling the expenditure of municipal funds. Our budget has soared to a record breaking $28 million but so far ordinary, commonsense methods of doing business are not being used to control the city's costs in Virginia Beach".

"The City can save thousands and thousands of dollars," Etheridge pointed out, "by such simple business expedients as central purchasing for every city department, by letting all purchase contracts on competitive bidding and by tightening the belt on unnecessary expenditures".

"The United Candidates", Etheridge concluded, "are determined to start procedures under which the City will get a full dollar's worth of value for each dollar spent".

Gawrys Proposes Debate

Joseph A. Gawrys, running with B. R. Middleton for the House of Delegates as United Candidates, has invited the Organization opponents for the two seats to meet in any impartial forum at various places throughout Virginia Beach and debate the issues of the campaign.

"The voters have a right to hear us," Gawrys said in giving the invitation, "and they have a right to question us. I hope our opponents can get permission to join in this debate. The voters should have an opportunity to make an intelligent choice".

"The Organization," Gawrys went on, "is making many promises as it always has in the past. But as always, when the campaign is over, these promises will be forgotten. This is the record of the Organization".

"In the past," Gawrys concluded, "our Delegates have not represented our best interests when proposed laws conflict with the desires of Political Power. The people need Delegates with stamina and backbone if our voices are to be heard. The Organization men would rather switch than fight".

Absalom Urges Help For Nature

"Nature has made Virginia Beach first in recreational facilities," Richard R. Absalom, United Candidates for Clerk of the Circuit Court, told supporters, "but it's time that we help our natural resources develop to their full potential".

"Our geographical location should be expanded with the future of our youth in mind," Absalom said.

"The strength of America is in our youth," Absalom stated, "and our state and local government, through proper planning, should do everything possible to channel the energies of the young into the right direction".

"A great deterrent to juvenile delinquency," Absalom continued, "is to keep our youth constructively occupied. Recreational facilities for all age levels can do an invaluable service in lowering delinquency and in providing leadership training for our youth".

"In Virginia Beach," Absalom concluded, "Nature has done its part in providing such facilities but Nature needs help. My fellow United Candidates and I have a plan under which Nature will be helped in this highly important area".

Middleton Says City's Slipping

B. R. Middleton, United Candidate for the House of Delegates, said that it's time for a change to real progress in Virginia Beach. "If we keep on with the type of progress we've had during the past years," Middleton remarked, "we'll be at the bottom of everything".

"For instance," Middleton went on to say, "ten years ago Virginia Beach ranked sixth out of nine Hampton Roads communities in local expenditure for education. Now we rank ninth out of nine. Is that progress?"

"As to a vocational school," Middleton said, "money has been available for this purpose since 1963 but it wasn't until 1 raised the issue that the School Board announced that the matter is being studied. Unless there's a change, this study may go on until funds will no longer be available".

"The United Candidates," Middleton emphasized, "will not procrastinate in this manner. We will bring real progress to our City".

No Politics For Police Evans Says

"The practice of requiring Virginia Beach policemen to attend Organization or Administration political meetings must be stopped," Andre Evans, United Candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney told a Civic League meeting.

"Our police department," Evans said, "is less than 5% of the National average and Virginia Beach is a large city to patrol by our understaffed force without having the men take time off to attend meetings called by the machine. Crime is on the move to the suburbs and we need every man on the force to be on active duty rather than on political duty".

"While attending the National Conference on Crime Control in Washington," Evans continued, "my fellow delegates from around the Country asked why no one was there officially from Virginia Beach. I couldn't answer the question, only being there in the private capacity as Legal Counsel to the Virginia State Jaycees. The delegates did have an opportunity to discuss matters with officials from all other Tidewater cities".

Caton Wants Clarification From His Opponent

At the start of this campaign Edward T. (Ned) Caton III, United Candidate for the Senate from the 3rd Senatorial District, came out flatly for complete implementation of the One-Man-One-Vote doctrine as promulgated by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Later, his opponent in Virginia Beach said that the Organization slate in the July primaries was for the same thing. Voters know where Caton stands on this issue but questions are being asked about what Bill Kellam means when he speaks of the One-Man-One-Vote rule.

Virginia Beach, under Boss rule for 36 years, has had a kind of One-Man-One-Vote set up. However, the Boss has been the one man and has been the one vote. The wishes of the people have, in the past, had little to do with decisions in City government.

Nothing was decided at City Hall until they found out what "the Man at 3111 Pacific" wanted. So, it's obvious why Caton asked his opponent for a definition of what he meant when he backed "One-Man-One-Vote". It's time that government is returned to the people.

Building Is Slack?
 Anyone who claims that building is off is crazy—at least if applications before the City Planning Commission are any indication.
 Applications for four motels came before the Commission last week, including one at Radee Inlet. The City plans to develop the inlet as a major recreation area.
 Elliffe Corp. has an option of property on the northeast corner of Atlantic Ave. and Third St. and plans on constructing a five-story, 97-unit motel complex. Parking would be under the motel.
 Another motel-hotel zoning was requested by Hado Development Corp. to construct 38 motel efficiency units in a three-story building on the northeast corner of 9th St. and Pacific Ave.
 Two other motels are planned near Interstate 64 on the corner of Indian River Rd. and Centerville Turnpike. Both applications were submitted by I.S.I. Investment Corp.
 Both are for motels belonging to chains: one a 50-unit Horne's and the other a 125-unit Dutch Inn. They will be operated separately.
 Surprisingly, objections were raised to plans of the Diocese of Southern Virginia Episcopal Church to erect a chapel at Sandbridge on Sandbridge Rd. near Sanddickler Rd. North Bay Development Corp. asked postponement of a decision on the application because it plans to develop the area across the street commercially.
 William B. Meredith, who describes himself as a stockholder and interested party, also asked a postponement until the "Planning Commission and City Council approve our master plan, or until changes in land use are made we are going by the master plan. This should be taken up after the present plan is amended, approved or disapproved."
 They will discuss their views of a watershed on the upper James River and its effect on the residents of the Tidewater area.
 Members of all civic leagues and any other interested persons are invited to attend. Reservations, which must be made by April 24, may be made by calling Mrs. R. E. Dugro at 497-1214.
 "We know we're in a commercial development," Rev. Joseph W. Pinder replied. He said that the land was given to the church with the stipulation that the church must be in operation within three years. "The three years are up next spring," he said, adding that plans call for the chapel to be completed by June 15.
 Another application which drew objections from all directions was one by Ernest Price for a use permit to construct a unique drive-in movie with two screens so that two different features could be shown at the same time. It would be built between Davis and Chinese Corners at Nelms Lane.
 Old Dominion Tobacco Co., Harrison's Nursery, three churches and the Davis Corner Civic League are all opposed, mainly because of the increased traffic they claim the drive-in will cause.
 Carl Peterson of the Civic League said, "There's too much traffic there already. The feeder roads are dangerous, and the headlights are blinding at night. Three churches hold evening meetings. The Davis Corner Volunteer Fire Dept. would be handicapped since it uses the same feeder road."

Vepco applied for a use permit to build two substations. One of these, at Atlantic Ave. and 61st St., would be of a special unit-type construction which would "best satisfy the needs of the neighborhood and preserve the esthetic beauty of the community." It will include a park open to the public.

For City-Wide Beautification

Beach Among Hands' Finalists

Efforts of Virginia Beach garden clubbers to beautify their city have been acclaimed as among the most outstanding throughout the Southern region, it was learned here last week.

Word that Virginia Beach has been selected as a finalist in the Sears, Roebuck Hands Project and thereby eligible for one of three top regional awards was received here recently by the Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach, Inc.

The announcement was made to representatives of the 44 members clubs that make up the Council at their regular meeting last week in Pembroke Manor Civic Center.

Hands (Home and Neighborhood Development) is a country-wide Sears project to beautify the nation. The chain each year provides funds to garden clubs throughout the nation for area beautification.

The clubs' various beautification projects are compiled in a report to be submitted to the sponsors for evaluation. From these reports, the judges then determine which cities have displayed the greatest beautification efforts.

Mrs. Gallagher's report, furnished to Hands headquarters in Atlanta, was judged along with hundreds of others representing 13 states in the Southern region.

Word that Virginia Beach attained finalist status came to Mrs. Gallagher early last week.

It puts Virginia Beach in the running for one of the top three cash awards: $2,000, $1,500, and $1,000. Final winners will be announced May 19 in Raleigh.

This is the first year members of the Virginia Beach Council of Garden Clubs has participated in the program.

On the local level, the beautification of the area surrounding the Seapines Post Office brought to the Cavalier Garden Club, who attacked the post office vicinity with trowel and shovel, the top beautification honors among Virginia Beach garden clubs.

Thoroughgood claimed second prize spot for beautification efforts at the entrance to the Thoroughgood area.

Number three prize went to the Elizabeth River Shores Garden Club who tackled the median strip in the Elizabeth River Shores area.

Honorable mention went to Carolanne Farms and Bay Colony Garden Clubs.

Awards in a second category -- anti-litter -- went to Chesapeake Colony Garden Club and Virginia Beach Garden Club.

Council Winds Up Year

In other matters, the Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach, Inc., at its recent meeting elected officers, heard end of the year reports and sent representatives back to their individual clubs with a list of proposed by-laws that will come up for vote at a May 31 luncheon meeting, the final Council meeting of the club year.

Traditionally called the June meeting, the May 31 meeting will be held in the Ocean Heath Restaurant.

Council meetings are held five times a year: September, November, January, March and April, with the annual luncheon meeting winding up the club year.

Some 44 Virginia Beach garden clubs comprise Council membership.

Vice president Mrs. C. L. Hersberger will move into the president's position, assuming the gavel from Mrs. August H. Culpepper, who's led the group for the past four years. The new slate will serve two-year terms.

Serving with her will be Mrs. Arthur H. Gallagher, vice-president; Mrs. M. J. Schwartz, recording secretary; Mrs. L. O. Clark, corresponding secretary and Mrs. August H. Culpepper, treasurer.

Their installation will highlight the June luncheon.

Among the year-end reports were:

CIVIC BEAUTIFICATION: Charlotte Tilbrook, committee chairman, expressed her committee's appreciation to the clubs, especially to the many small clubs whose treasuries are, indeed, as small as their membership, for their financial contribution to civic beautification. At the General Hospital, she said, the planned basic planting has been completed; much is yet to be done, but much already has been accomplished. She also spoke on the Atlantic Avenue project begun in 1950, and on plans now working for a similar project for First Colonial Road.

(See Council Page 2B)

Council Moves To Move

The Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach, Inc. will move from its present meeting site to new quarters, it was announced at the recent Council meeting.

Pembroke Manor Civic Center, where their meetings have been held, has become much in demand for area activities, making it, at times, unavailable for Council meetings. In addition, the Council is expanding rapidly, requiring quarters large enough to accommodate the group.

Beginning with their fall meeting, the women will meet in Thalia Methodist Church Assembly Hall. The church has donated the building free of charge to the women for their use.

"They said they are delighted to have us," Mrs. Hersberger said.

The 'Now' Things

BY JEANNE MAGEE TUCKER
Women's Editor

I worry, as I wonder, about the events that have soared the Sixties into sensationalism.

I guess the Twenties were just as sensational to those reading and recording the news then, but that's a fact I'm sorry to say I can't stow about now. I have too many other things that have reached the hard-boiled stage.

I'm still experiencing mixed emotions over the great invention of the century: the idol box that occasionally lifts the scale in favor of the now inventions, but only occasionally. With a stretch of the imagination, and being very generous at that, I think I can count these occasions on two hands... maybe.

Like all things great, to me it looms as a monster, a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde monster that, controlled, reflects no limits of greatness.

Uncontrolled as it most often is.... it takes on the image of a duncel sitting in the corner. I'm almost tempted to turn it over to the children to haul outdoors to trim and shave and whittle into the shape of a roly-poly, much as they shape and mold a snowman.

We could then add the duncel cap, bring it back into the house and I would have the satisfaction of knowing that for a short period of time at least, they were doing something constructive. (If even if a little destructive also).

It would then become an amusing piece of furniture. Educational, no... at least not in the home; but a funny and amusing duncel.... yes.

But from the 21-inch monster to the pinky-finger sized Marvel known as the Pifi... truly as great and beneficial to the world... I shrink in total and overwhelming fear.

Controlled, who can deny its stupendous impact and blessed relief to the half-starved and bulging world whose desperate plight should keep us all awake nights?

Uncontrolled, as, of course, it must be, its status saddens me beyond measure.

Looking back to my young married existence and to the seven one-after-the-other unplanned pregnancies, I can readily recall my exhaustion, my concern over their education, my baby-sitting expenses and my mending mound of diapers.

What would I have done had such a Marvel been accessible at every corner drugstore... and eventually, I guess, at every supermarket?

I'd no doubt have done exactly what I expect young marrieds are doing today.

They'll plan... they'll anticipate the ideal circumstances.... they'll see their dollars disappear so fast that they'll think there'll never be enough money.

Looking In On a Luncheon

Beach clubwomen heeded the call to convention last week, joining the throngs of clubwomen in Norfolk for the 60th annual state-wide convention of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs.

One from the Beach walked off with a first prize in the arts and crafts exhibit: Mrs. Earle DuVal, Princess Anne Woman's Club of Virginia Beach, took first place honors in the non-professional light verse category. Her entry was called Unhealthy Desire.

Mrs. J. T. Strayhorn, Ocean Park Woman's Club, was named winner of an Artist Merit Award.

Cape Henry Woman's Club took three crafts awards. For embroidery and cross-stitch miscellaneous, Mrs. Sevestia Nichols placed second; for embroidery and cross-stitch table covering, she placed first. Another first went to Mrs. T. H. Falwell for cutwork and applique table covering.

The convention was in session April 11 through 13 in the Golden Triangle.

HOMES AND GARDEN SHOW: Mrs. Gallagher reported that the number of homes tours already scheduled for spring has led the committee to cancel plans for a homes and gardens tour at this time. Hopefully, she said, one will be scheduled for fall.

ANTI-LITTER: Spokesman Jane Tucker said that unless arrests are made and fines imposed for littering, little, unfortunately, can be accomplished.

"We committee members get more discouraged as we look around. We will never get anywhere unless we can arrest violators."

Reference was made to soliciting the cooperation and help of high school students and school-age children.

Seeking the assistance of the Boy Scouts of America, Mrs. Tucker said, met with little success: the Boy Scout organization, she was told, is a character-building organization, not a clean-up body.

What, asked Mrs. Culpepper, is more character building than bending your back to improve and beautify your country?

BEAUTIFICATION: Mrs. Arthur Winder expressed the opinion that individual garden clubs should send representatives to the city's Beautification Commission meetings. Instead of the present Council representation of one or two members, she congratulated garden club delegates on their city-wide beautification efforts.

They'll spend their great young carefree days of marriage enjoying the cocktail circuit...free of night feedings and baby-sitter fees, rich with the knowledge that the Marvel will take care of everything.

How great and logical and right their thinking! They will be so beautifully organized when their babies arrive...timed perfectly...spaced beautifully... Now family raising a Tomorrow generation.

But along with the ignorant and impoverished, though, I see the educated and the affluent succumbing to the Marvel and its built-in family plan, short-changing themselves and the world, of the offspring that can contribute their inherited intelligence and greatness...so desperately needed...to society and to the world.

I hope my fears are needless...that today's young marrieds are one step ahead of us (as they usually are) and will use the great Marvel intelligently and with kid gloves, as it should be handled.

My great big family that keeps my pantry bare and my clothes closet available only for leftover Christmas boxes and tennis racquets represents the "unexpected" that I "could never afford to educate."

They represent stacks and stacks of diapers and pediatricians' fees that would shoot any family budget as full of holes as a pogo board.

But they also represent a fortune...the greatest in the world. And it was a fortune that came to me like pennies from heaven...one after the other...while I was young enough to grow up with them.

Had the Marvel been for sale, I'd surely have bought it. But in doing so, I surely wouldn't have amassed the fortune I have today.

Mrs. Culpepper also praised the clubwomen for their efforts saying that "this summer when all the craps myrtles, trees and other plantings the women have put in bloom, we'll really see what we've contributed to the appearance of the city."

Cape Henry Project

Safety Resolution Passes

Delegates to the Virginia Federation of Women's Club convention voted to accept the safety resolution introduced by Cape Henry Woman's Club. It will now be Cape Henry's big project for the coming year.

dorse improved and more rigid licensing standards and procedures, including periodic visual and hearing tests, which will permit on our roads only those who are competent drivers; and BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that driver education be entails. The feathers were dispatched to the clubwomen from Germany by the brother of a late member of the Chesapeake club.

Clubwomen hostesses were saris which they'd been taught to make by faculty wives at Old Dominion College.

Convention Report

The resolution reads: WHEREAS, loss of life and property from accidents involving drivers on our streets and highways have reached alarming heights, WHEREAS, 4 million new drivers are expected annually by 1970; BE IT RESOLVED, that the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs encourage as a prerequisite for a driver's license.

On a lighter note, Kempsville Women's Club rocked the boat with a little fun after a hard day's work Wednesday.

Dressed in sailors' suits they rolled out the barrels of punch at a shipwreck dinner in Lake Wright Motor Lodge.

Chesapeake Beach Women's Club chose India as their theme for a luncheon Thursday, an event reported to have been one of the most impressive socials on the convention schedule.

The women went all out on decorations. Peacocks, made from styrofoam, had an added touch of authenticity, proudly sporting real peacock feather

VFWC in New Quarters

Mrs. E. Parker Brown, president of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs, has announced that the state headquarters of the Federation has moved into new and larger quarters in the Hotel Jefferson, Richmond.

After approximately 30 years in Room 7 at the Jefferson, headquarters has moved into Suite 242, giving larger working space and more pleasant surroundings for Federation leaders and visitors.

Alisbee On N.Y. Panel

WVAB radio personality Alice Brewer White recently returned from New York where she participated in the Modeling Association of America convention at the Waldorf Astoria. Mrs. White was moderator of a fashion panel consisting of American designers Oleg Cassini, Anne Fogarty, Lilly Dache and Mr. John.

Home Demo Meet Held in Onancock

Some 526 women representing Accomack, Northampton, Surry, Sussex, Isle of Wight, Nanamond and Southampton Counties and the cities of Chesapeake and Virginia Beach met recently in Onancock for the annual meeting of District I, Virginia Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs. Mrs. Thomas P. White of Southampton, president of District I, conducted the meeting.

The women donated $416.05 to "Pennies for Friendship and International Understanding", a fund used to promote work in other countries and to help finance the "International Farm Youth Exchange Program".

Dr. Ann E. Thompson, State Leader of Home Economics Cooperative Extension Service of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, guest speaker, chose for her topic "Learning to Live". She congratulated members on their aims and accomplishments.

Mrs. John M.G. Reth, Junior State President, brought greetings from the Federation praising the work done by members and encouraging the young people in their desire for a better education, which will make these 4-H members better able to cope with the future.

The Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs provides funds each year for two girls to attend the National 4-H Conference in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Thomas C. Hunter of Virginia Beach presented a report on current publications pertaining to Home Demonstration events.

They've a Corner on Charm

The posh facade with its interesting vertical window treatment and imposing center door reflect very subtly what goes on inside 9A Pembroke Mall.

It's a business that deals in charm...a little business that carries with it a great big name: John Robert Powers...a name that to most women bespeaks elegance and good looks, both of which are for sale in the shop. Under the general name of charm, To the personnel who staff the school, charm is, today, a way of life as necessary as the second car in the driveway.

For sale in the new John Robert Powers Charm School are all the elements of good grooming: lessons in posture, carriage, voice figure control. The founders overlooked few of the attributes necessary to the woman of today.

The interior, a far cry indeed from the busy, bustling Mall outside, was designed by William H. Slaughter Jr., in shades of pale, cool green and toned-down white. The reception room reflects a school's hushed and subdued atmosphere; colors are inviting yet calming, portraying the finishing school's emphasis on playing down rather than up.

The reception room looks down a length of thickly carpeted hall from which open intimate consultation rooms.

MARY COUNSELMAN, ASSISTANT TO SCHOOL DIRECTOR ARTHUR BOOTHE JR., TALKS WITH PROSPECTIVE STUDENT PAULA COLE.

Larger rooms, lined with large, clear mirrors, are furnished with small black directors' chairs with the name "Powers" emblazoned in line green on white canvas. Somewhat smaller rooms with theatrical lights outlining the mirrors are reserved for detailed instruction in the art of applying makeup.

A staff of eight already is at work, though the myriad of small decorative objects have to be put in place.

A dining room adjoins the reception room. A table with place settings courtesy of Spertner's, provides the necessary background for students learning the art of gracious entertaining.

From room to room students will move, learning in minute detail the fine points of being charming.

And if they'll observe their surroundings, they'll learn a bit more than they bargained for: the know how of converting an oversized empty four-walled plaster enclosure into a sophisticated, intimate and charming setting.

TOPS Tag Area Queen

The local TOPS (Taking Off Pounds Sensibly) organization got a head start on the state TOPS convention by having their awards night Thursday.

Mrs. Marlene Bartholemew was named queen of the group. She is within five pounds of making her weight goal.

The local club, which will celebrate its first birthday in May, has grown from 12 to 29 members. Thursday night's program included dinner with husbands as guests.

The club meets weekly in Bow Creek Presbyterian Church.

Investment Firm Has New Listing Service

Anderson and Strudwick has installed a new service for customers at its Virginia Beach office at 3110 Pacific Avenue.

A new board listing Virginia securities has been put up and is maintained in the office for the convenience of Virginia Beach residents. Previously there was no immediate listing of these securities anywhere in Virginia Beach.

William Lennox, account executive with Anderson and Strudwick, said, "The use of this new exhibit reflects the increasing interest of Virginia Beach people in Virginia securities. There was a demand for the board and we met it."

Many of the securities listed on the new exhibit are of local interest, including several local banks.

Another account executive, James E. Taylor said, "There is also an increasing interest in investment in Virginia Beach."

Taylor says more people and more discretionary money are the reasons for more investing in the city.

BBB Elects Directors

G. William Dettmerman, Jr., Bayshore Pharmacy, and Clyde L. Neisler, Neisler Auto Service, were recently elected to the Board of Directors of the Tidewater Better Business Bureau.

Election results were announced at the BBB's annual meeting held at the Golden Triangle Motor Hotel in Norfolk. Other Virginia Beach representatives currently serving on the Board are: Rhea W. Adams; A. B. Crews; Floyd E. Kellam, Jr.; Lawrence A. Sancio and William T. Saunders.

Bank Elects Vice Pres.

Directors of First and Merchants National Bank have elected Clyde H. Jacob, Jr. a senior vice president. He will be in charge of the bank's Norfolk offices.

He was formerly a vice president of Virginia National Bank in Norfolk. Jacob, a Norfolk native, joined the National Bank of Commerce (now Virginia National Bank) in 1949. He has served in the trust, investment, branch, and commercial areas of the bank.

Local Student Panel Discusses "Touchy" Topic At Model U. N.

Representatives from 34 colleges and universities traveled to East Carolina College last week for the 1967 meeting of the Middle South Model United National General Assembly.

Approximately 275 delegates registered to represent 74 countries which are members of the United Nations. The agenda included meetings of the Security Council and the General Assembly, but most of the time was spent in sessions of committees on political, social, cultural and economic affairs.

Stephen R. Harman, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Harman of 402 Dauphin La., represented Malaysia.

Question: "What is the minister's view as to the legality of inter-racial marriage?"

This and other such type questions were raised on a panel discussion made up of Virginia Beach Ministerial Association members held at Dam Neck last week.

The discussion theme was centered on "Trends in the Ecumenical Movement", which is the working together of various religions in an area of common agreement.

The panel consisted of practically every religion - one Quaker, and African Methodist Episcopal, a Jewish rabbi, a Baptist, a Catholic priest and a retired psychiatrist.

The basis of the panel discussion, which was telecast throughout the Guided Missiles School on closed circuit television, was to inform the viewing audience of the possibility of all religions working together and gaining insight into the present ecumenical movement.

On the question of inter-racial marriage, the general view of panel members was that it was morally accepted but not socially acceptable in the world we live in. It was further pointed out that Virginia law does not permit the marrying of Caucasians and Negroes.

Participating in the panel discussion was Mrs. Robert Wilson of the Friends Meeting House, Reverend D. P. Felton of the St. Mark's AME, Rabbi P. Pincus of Temple Emmanuel, Dam Neck Chaplain G. H. Griffin Easier Driving Ahead for Blvd.

The blue and white sign, which is situated in the middle of what will soon be a new lane of traffic at Princess Anne Plaza Shopping Center, reads, "Another Project for Progress - City of Virginia Beach."

The sign is the first one of many to come that will be placed on road, sewer, water and other special projects financed by the city to let the taxpayer see where his taxes are being used.

In this case the sign marks the new left-turn lane and new entrance to the shopping center, which are now being completed. Most of the paving work and landscaping work is finished. Only the placing of the poles and wiring of a new traffic signal need be accomplished and the project is finished.

Reeves Johnson, Chief of the Virginia Beach Traffic Bureau, says the project will be completed within a few days. The new lanes and signal are designed to draw traffic into the shopping center through the new signal, and traffic into the housing development through the old signal at Plaza Trail.

Johnson says he believes the new signal and new entrance will ease many traffic problems at Plaza Trail. That intersection is called the worst intersection in the city and more accidents have taken place there than at any other intersection in the city.

This is only one phase of the work Johnson's department is planning in the near future in the area. The next project is to the addition of a left-turn lane from Virginia Beach Blvd. to the north on Plaza Trail of Miller's Discount Dept. Store have had to drive down the feeder road from Malibu Dr. to reach the store.

This too should alleviate much of the traffic problems at Plaza Trail also, according to Johnson. It should also take some traffic away from the left turns at Malibu Dr., Johnson said.

Next in the facelift and safety process of Virginia Beach Blvd. will be left-turn lanes in both directions at Rosemont Road and a traffic signal there. This will be finished sometime before December and the opening of the Virginia Beach - Norfolk Expressway. Rosemont Road will provide one of the mid-city interchanges.

Johnson said the lights at Rosemont Road and at Plaza Trail should do away with the need for another light at Malibu Dr.

When the toll road is opened, Johnson hinted, speed limits on Virginia Beach Blvd. will be lowered, and high speed traffic will use the toll facility.

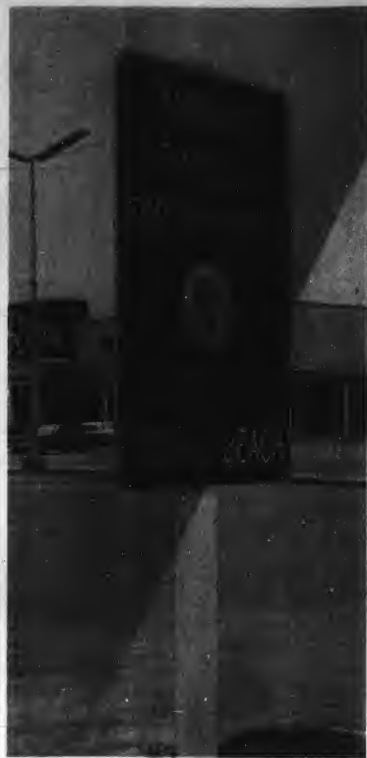

Lions Sell Brooms

The Lions of District 24-D will have their 16th annual door to door Broom Sale May 2-5.

The slogan for the sale is "Help the Blind, Buy a Broom From a Lion."

According to the Lions two purposes are served by the sale: It helps blind workers in the Virginia Workshops make a living; and 2. It enables Lions Clubs to carry on extensive sight conservation, their primary project, and to do other welfare work.

The brooms are manufactured by blind workers in Workshops for the Blind at Richmond and Charlottesville which are under the Jurisdiction of the Virginia Commission for the Visually Handicapped.

THIS SIGN AND OTHERS LIKE IT WILL MAKE IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE IN THE CITY BY THE CITY OF VIRGINIA BEACH. THIS ONE MAKES THE NEW ENTRANCE TO THE PRINCESS ANNE PLAZA SHOPPING CENTER, SCHEDULED TO BE COMPLETED SOON.

City May Have Safety Council

Through the efforts of the Virginia Beach Jaycees and the Virginia Beach Medical Society, a new organization, to be known as the Virginia Beach Safety Council, is almost a reality.

An organization meeting was held Tuesday night at the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center in Virginia Beach, with representatives of the National and Virginia Safety Councils present, along with local interested citizens.

Thus far only the groundwork has been laid. Dr. Robert W. Waddell, who was one of the initiators of the idea for the council has been instrumental in gaining City approval.

"I have felt a Virginia Beach Safety Council was needed for a long time," he said. "Fortunately others have agreed with me, and the idea is moving ahead."

Dr. Waddell and his group met last week with Traffic Safety Bureau Chief, Reeves Johnson, and City Manager, W. Russell Hatchett. Both Dr. Waddell and the city officials said they considered the meeting a lucrative one.

Under present plans the new Virginia Beach Safety Council would promote highway safety, home safety, water safety and safeguards against accidental poisoning.

Safety materials will be distributed by the council through the schools and to any organization wishing a program on safety. The council will make available materials, films and probably speakers for civic club programs on safety of any kind.

Initially participation in the council will be strictly on a voluntary basis, but Dr. Waddell is hopeful of maintaining a small full-time staff in the near future to promote all types of safety in Virginia Beach.

The Virginia Beach organization will become a member of the Virginia and National Safety Councils, and will be able to call upon the parent organizations for help and materials.

Oil No Threat To City Coast

The Virginia Beach coastline at least has no oil worries, according to an Erosion Commission spokesman.

England, and more recently New Jersey, have been plagued by oil on their beaches. According to the Erosion Commission, the last oil on this coastline was two or three years ago from ships pumping out their bilges.

Buildings Presented For Council Viewing

Amidst complimentary statements and large smiles, two architects presented preliminary plans for two new municipal buildings to City Council on Monday.

Money for the construction of both buildings, the new city administration building and the new welfare building, is to come mostly from the seven-and-a-half million dollar bond issue overwhelmingly approved by the voters at the polls last November.

Architect John Waller presented the plans for the expandable two-story Colonial design administration building and said all drawings should be finished about May 15. Bids for construction should be put out shortly thereafter, and Waller said it should take another 14 months to finish the building after construction begins.

The faces of Councilmen lit up when a spacious 150-seat Council chamber was pointed out on the second floor of the new building to be constructed between Courthouse Road and the proposed extension of Independence Boulevard in the city hall complex at Princess Anne.

The Planning commission and Public Works will occupy most of the first floor. The Purchasing Agent, Law Dept., City Manager and Mayor, Finance Dept. and a small canteen will occupy space on the second floor.

The spire of the building is reminiscent of the Governor's Palace in Williamsburg. Waller noted that he had done quite a bit of research on Colonial design in Williamsburg. The new municipal building has about 45,000 square feet of space.

Architect Evan McCorkle presented the plans for the square two-story welfare building to be built on Princess Anne Road, next to the new Princess Anne Fire Department building.

The building is so designed, according to McCorkle, that the public will utilize the first floor and administration of the department will take place on the second floor. That building has 32,000 square feet of useable space.

Drawings are expected to be complete in about a week, with bids to follow closely.

Council then approved the sale of another million dollars in bonds for sewer construction of the future. No time was set for the bond issue to be approved by voters. The move was necessitated by the issuance of the last available funds for sewers from previous issues. The new sewers and pumping station will serve the Eastern Park area.

A new ordinance was passed on first reading by Council requiring all utility companies to maintain emergency personnel at all times for the convenience of customers. The ordinance was brought about as the result of a reported stoppage of a pumping station for sewage in a section of Princess Anne Plaza over the weekend, causing considerable inconvenience when no repair crew or supervisory personnel were reportedly available. Several residents of the area were in Council Chambers to discuss the situation.

Surfboards, not surfing, also were acted on by Council. It was voted to set licence fees

Two Speak To Board

Robert C. Lloyd, president of the Virginia Real Estate Assn., and William Hobson, executive vice president were guest speakers at the Virginia Beach Board of Realtors meeting last week at the Cavalier.

Lloyd's topic was "Education in Real Estate". He pointed out the changes in the state laws concerning licensing of real estate agents and brokers. State Sen. William P. Kellam was greatly responsible for the strengthening of the law.

Hobson invited the Virginia Beach Realtors to the annual real estate institute to be held in Charlottesville in July. The institute is the second oldest in the country and one of the largest in the United States.

Robert Coulting, discussed Realtor Week with the members. The observance this year has the theme "Spring Parade of Homes."

During the week the Red Cross Bloodmobile will be stationed at the headquarters of the real estate board.

for rental surfboards and to have them identified as rental boards.

Taxi rates were raised slightly in Virginia Beach and the taxi companies were also allowed to add new vehicles to their fleets.

The City of Virginia Beach will operate the uncompleted marina on Long Creek this summer, it was decided by Council, since the facility is not finished enough to lease it. A scale of charges will be set up comparable to those of other marinas in the area.

Cox Thinks H.E.W. Will Approve Plan

"I really have no idea when we'll hear from them," said School Supt. Frank Cox of the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare which must approve Virginia Beach's desegregation plan.

"It's like any government agency," Cox said. "The plan could lay on their desks for weeks."

He said, though, that he did not think the failure of the school administration to include a zoning map would delay the City plan's approval or disapproval. Cox said that as soon as it was brought to the school administration's attention, a map was mailed--a delay of only a few days.

Cox also commented that he expected the Beach plan to be approved. "The federal government doesn't want to go to court any more than we do, and they're reasonable people."

The federal government had called for total desegregation of all City schools by September.

Under the plan submitted by the City, all of the elementary schools would not be desegregated.

At the April School Board meeting it was reported that Brookwood Elementary is "out of the ground," and that additions to Bayside and Kellam High Schools are progressing on schedule and that they, along with Holland Elementary, should "meet their schedule."

In other business Edward E. Brickell, secondary administration director, presented results of a recent patriotism survey conducted in secondary schools. A report on elementary schools will be made separately. More than 40 patriotic practices were listed.

Bill Carr of Princess Anne Plaza complained to the board that his children were "pressured" into returning federal forms annually. Cox replied that the school board is currently protesting the distribution of federal funds to the General Assembly.

RICK ALLEN, PROGRAM MANAGER OF WYAB RADIO AND CHAIRMAN OF THE CEREBRAL PALSY DRIVE IN VIRGINIA BEACH, RECEIVES A PROCLAMATION FROM MAYOR FRANK DUSCH SETTING APRIL 15 THROUGH MAY 15 AS UNITED CEREBRAL PALSY MONTH. TAG DAY WILL BE MAY 13.

Danger Familiar to Divers

BY JOSEPH LOWENTHAL, JR.

The divers of the Virginia Beach Police Dept. have saved the city thousands of dollars in the recovery of lost equipment and have also been used in gathering evidence, in demolition work and in recovering bodies.

The divers now number 10, although a maximum of 12 is allowed. New members will be taken into the squad shortly. The commanding officer of the divers is Capt. R. K. Halstead and the training officer is Lt. Henry Capps. There are also two sergeants among the divers, Norman Morse and W.F. Currie.

The men who make up the highly specialized divers come from all police divisions, including the animal control bureau. One member is employed in the City Engineer's office.

Constant training is the byword of the divers. During the summer months the squad trains from an old converted Coast Guard boat in the rivers of Virginia Beach and in Chesapeake Bay. Sometimes they train in the murky sand pits and in the dark waters of Rudee Inlet, so they can be ready for any emergency. During the winter months, the divers train every other week in the swimming pool of the Cavalier.

The original squad was trained by Underwater Demolition Teams at Little Creek Amphibious Base in 1963, and the men who still are part of the squad smile and confide that they'll "never forget that training." New members now receive intensive courses for 12 weeks before becoming active members of the squad.

The divers may be called in any emergency and have been. Recently they were called to recover a body and a car from Rudee Inlet at the new bridge construction site. The water that day was about 38 degrees.

The divers were once instrumental in convicting two men of murder because they were able to recover a pistol from a sand pit. The gun had been in the water for five months.

In many instances the divers have been called upon by other cities and other law enforcement agencies. At anytime they are deemed necessary at least two divers are dispatched. The divers never dive alone for safety's sake.

They train mostly on off-duty hours and receive no extra pay for this hazardous and often extremely cold duty. They have even broken ice to dive in an emergency, wearing their "wet suits."

The diving equipment weighs about 90 pounds and its operation is quite sensitive. Diving is not easy and can be very dangerous except to the expert.

The divers of Virginia Beach Police Dept. are all experts. NEXT WEEK: Detective Division

POLICE DIVERS BRAZIER AND MALESKY ASSUME THE PROPER DIVING ATTITUDE AND STEP OFF THE EDGE OF THE POOL OF THE CAVALIER DURING AN INTENSIVE TRAINING SESSION. THAT FIRST STEP IS A "LULU."

500 Bulbs Beautify

Approximately 500 gladioli bulbs were planted last week by the City on city property just north of the Cavalier, where Atlantic and Pacific Avenues come together.

Steve Rose, general manager of the fair, was on hand for the planting.

Girl Scouts Take Plaza

If you think Princess Anne Plaza has been invaded this Saturday it has -- by assorted sizes of Brownie, Girl and Cadet Scouts.

All troops in Virginia Beach have been invited to participate in the Jamboree which will take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the parking lot. The public is invited to view the exhibits.

The bulbs were presented to the city by an organization known as the Garden of the Patriots, who had a flower exhibit at the Greater Tidewater Fair in Virginia Beach last fall.

It was at that time that the Cape Coral Gladioli bulbs were accepted by City Manager W. Russell Hatchett. The bulbs were then shipped last week for spring planting. The organization sent the bulbs to help in the beautification efforts of Virginia Beach.

Rep. Downing to Speak

First District Congressman Thomas N. Downing will be the guest speaker at a luncheon tomorrow at the Ocean Heath Restaurant.

He will address the Virginia Beach Women's Democratic Club during their annual observance of Jefferson Day.

All members of the club are invited to attend, according to Mrs. Francis Geiger, president.

WINSTON G. SNIDER AND CONSTANTINE A. SPANOULIS, VIRGINIA BEACH ATTORNEYS AND CO-CHAIRMEN OF LAW DAY OBSERVANCES HERE, DISCUSS PLANS FOR THE MAY 1 CELEBRATION.

Law Day to Be May 1

"No man is above the law, and no man is below it."

That is the theme of the 10th annual observance of Law Day USA, celebrated May 1.

Each year May 1 is set aside by Congress and the President of the United States for all Americans to reflect on the heritage of individual liberty under law and to focus attention on the responsibilities of citizenship. An additional purpose of the observance is to show that American citizenship entails obligations as well as benefits.

Law day is set the same day as the Communist May Day as a rebuttal and reminder of the rights and freedoms which Americans accept as their birthright, but which are only made possible by unswerving public acceptance of and obedience to the rule of law, according to Presidential proclamation.

Virginia Beach Mayor Frank A. Dusch has also proclaimed May 1 as Law Day in Virginia Beach. He has called upon all citizens, organizations, churches and schools to recognize the special day with appropriate programs.

In Virginia Beach the observance is sponsored by the Virginia Beach Bar Assn. One of the events scheduled will be held at Kellam High School Friday, April 28. Students, and probably a Virginia Beach judge, will participate in a mock trial to demonstrate the importance of respect for constituted authority and the principles of law.

The Virginia Beach Bar Assn. has also sent letters to ministers requesting that they preach sermons in connection with Law Day. Each was sent a document prepared by the Virginia Bar Assn. discussing the history of religion and law.

Virginia Beach attorneys, Winston G. Snider and Constantine A. Spanoulis are in charge of the observance of Law Day here.

Sportsmen Have Show At Mall

So successful was the imported car show at Pembroke Mall Shopping Center last month, that another major show is planned in the same place this one concerning itself with boating and camping.

The show will open Sunday, May 7, at noon and exhibits will remain on display through Saturday, May 13. The hours on Sunday will end at 5 p.m., but during the week the hours will be from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Exhibits will include all camping needs, including tents, stoves, trailers, the large campers and all accessories necessary to the camper. Expected to be on display also are all types of inboard and outboard boats, motors and boating accessories.

In addition, there will be a Smokey Bear animated display, sponsored by the Division of Forestry, according to Mrs. Barbara Leitman, promotion director for the shopping center.

During the same week, in conjunction with the forthcoming celebration of Mother's Day, a fashion show will be held in the center of the mall on the evening of May 9. Mother's Day is May 14.

A number of Virginia Beach boating, camper and camping, trailer and accessory firms are expected to participate in the large show.

School To Open

Mayor Frank B. Dusch will officiate at ribbon-cutting ceremonies opening the John Robert Powers Filmmaking School, 9-A Pembroke Mall at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

In addition to civic officials and representatives of area women's organizations, Richard S. Robie Jr., president, and Mrs. Julie Richmond, vice president in charge of administration of the Powers chain, both of Powers School headquarters, in Boston, are expected to attend the opening.

The public is invited to an open house from 3 to 9 p.m. the same day.

Swimmers Set Water Show

"Hands Across the Sea" will be the theme of the Synchronized Swimming Water Show presented by the YWCA at the Cavalier Pool tonight and tomorrow at 8 p.m.

The show will depict world understanding. Hostesses will be dressed in native costumes, among them being Indian, Hungarian, Spanish and Vietnamese.

P.A. Teacher Honored

Mrs. Verna Frey was named by the Virginia Beach Jaycees as their first Outstanding Young Educator at an awards banquet Tuesday night at the Black Angus.

Mrs. Frey, head of the Business Education Dept. at Princess Anne High School, was selected by a committee composed of Lawrence A. Sancio, president of Larasans Realty Corp. and Tidewater Assn. of Home Builders; E. E. Brickell, director of secondary education for the City schools; and Earl V. Statum, vice-president of Virginia National Bank. She was chosen from about 30 nominees.

Although the Outstanding Young Educator award is a national Jaycee project, this is the first year the local Jaycees have selected one. Mrs. Frey will be entered in the state contest to be held at the state Jaycee convention in May. State winners then are entered in national competition.

According to her principal, J. Warren Littleton, "Mrs.

"The world's toughest car."

Peugeot cruises off with first place in the East African Safari Rally. Ninety cars started this grueling 3000-mile race. Only nine made it through. Peugeot came in first. It's very simple. Peugeot is built like a jungle animal: lean and rugged. And graceful. No chromium frills. No excess weight. No needless horsepower. (Take, for example, the wide use of aluminum in the Peugeot engine and rear end housing: less heat, less friction, longer wear.) On the highway, Peugeot is equally in its element. You can cruise all day at eighty and never see a sign of strain. You'll get better than 25 miles per gallon. With or without automatic transmission. (Safety? Peugeot was engineered for maximum protection 20 years before Detroit got on the kick.)

So add it up, you'll agree that Peugeot is the world's toughest car. (And underneath all that toughness is a lifetime friend.)

Also available in the 403 Sedan, 404 Station Wagon and 404 Convertible.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER:

"What would you do if you had a boyfriend that lived in Indiana and you lived in Kentucky, 350 miles away, and he came to see you every other weekend? He says he loves me, but I don't know if he does or not. I am very jealous of him even though I don't show it. Do you think he goes with another girl when he goes back to Indiana? Do you think he loves me? We have been going together six months but he has never asked me to go steady. He only says someday he will not have to leave me. Do you think he means it? Do you think he should say something about going steady? Should we be engaged? Do you think I should let him make love to me? What is love? How do you act when you are in love? What do you think?"

OUR REPLY:

If you have not discussed going steady, if the boyfriend has expressed no other intentions other than the vague promise that one day he will not have to leave you, it is quite foolish for you to pin your hopes and dreams on a boy you see only every other week for six months. No two people act the same when they are in love, nor probably feel the same. But the kind of love upon which marriage and happiness is built is dependant upon a certain amount of mutual respect. Courting is one thing; "making love" on the part of a couple as yet unmarried decreases the possibility they will ever walk down the aisle together.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SURVIVAL PRESS SERVICE, FARMINGTON, CT. 06030.

Air Age and the WLRC

By COL. J. H. REINBURG

With spring already upon us and summer just around the corner, the business people of the World's Largest Resort City (WLRC) are getting ready for another profitable season hopefully.

The two road routes, which are not entirely adequate into the WLRC will be jammed with traffic and too many accidents. Parking facilities will again demonstrate their inadequacies at the resort area. Many permanent residents will experience anguish because of illegal parking on their private property. The police department will again be harassed beyond its capabilities to control the traffic and parking problems.

Then, just after Labor Day, there will be many sighs of relief as the crowds disappear, as if by magic. Only a few weeks later, however, many businesses in the WLRC will unfortunately begin to deal again in red ink, and there will be a new struggle to stay solvent in the winter. Some will lose the battle.

Business ledgers in the WLRC can remain in the black 12 months of every year if only the city will join the aviation boom. Aviation is revolutionizing the world. The railroads and ocean liners have conceded their passenger business to aircraft and great strides are being made in air freight.

But the air route trunk lines along the eastern seaboard do not include the Tidewater area. The transcontinental air routes and transoceanic terminals are already overtaxed and must be expanded to the south, especially for safety reasons.

The WLRC is the closest metropolitan complex on the American mainland to Bermuda and is in the best bargaining position to be the terminus for a supplemental transoceanic route, as well as for transcontinental routes.

Some city south of New York is destined to become the next large international air terminal. It could be Virginia Beach, the WLRC.

A Virginia Beach airport could help relieve traffic congestion, as well as provide new revenue.

Many corporations have their own air fleets. Convention cities are often those with close airports. There are increased number of private aircraft owners every year who seek out resorts with close airports.

Whoever heard of a WLRC without an airport in this air age?

A Canal Through Virginia Beach

Much has been said recently about the proposed routes for a canal which would connect Rudee Inlet and North Bay. Long reports have been completed. Drainage, navigation, salinity of the bay and security and sewage at Dam Neck have all entered the picture.

It would seem that the canal would be a wonderful thing for boaters in our area and from other areas seeking to reach the Intercoastal Waterway. But there is still a major stumbling block. When a boater would reach North Bay, he is still nowhere. A decision would have to be made by Virginia Beach and North Carolina authorities toward extending the dredging into the Inland Waterway. This does not appear to be in the works at all.

What would seem to be more interesting and even more lucrative would be a canal from the eastern branch of the Lynnhaven River through the various already existing drainage canals and creeks winding southward to the North Landing River, already a part of the Inland Waterway.

A boater from Virginia Beach must now leave Lynnhaven Inlet and sail through Chesapeake Bay into the Elizabeth River and travel around Norfolk, Portsmouth and Chesapeake to get into the North Landing River in Virginia Beach. And boaters from the north and south now bypass Virginia Beach entirely because of the lack of access. The canal, already proposed for many years would certainly seem to be the right decision toward making Virginia Beach a boat haven and a major stop-over on the heavily traveled Intercoastal Waterway.

From Rudee Inlet to North Bay and south or through the Lynnhaven River, we hope something is decided soon on this matter. Virginia Beach should be on the Intercoastal Waterway somehow, and it should be soon.

Along Our Main Street

Now that the completion of the long-awaited Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway is in sight, it would seem to be time to take a critical look at Virginia Beach Blvd. and its traffic problems.

The boulevard is no longer a highway, although a high speed limit still exists on part of it. It is, in fact, our main city street, and is destined to become more of a city thoroughfare in the near future.

We cannot look to the new toll road, opening in December, as the salvation of the traffic problems. The new road will merely reduce the congestion.

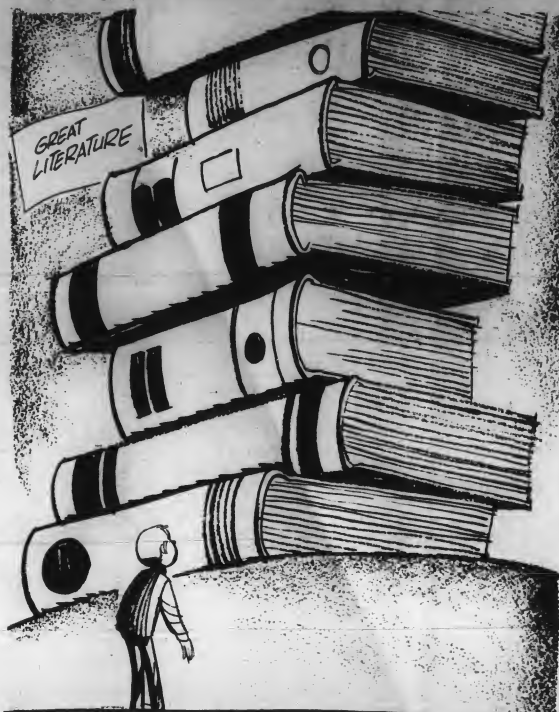

What must be done now, however, is a complete crackdown on drivers who do not know how to drive Virginia Beach Blvd. now, and obviously won't know how to drive it in the future.

New left turn lanes have been added, and new turnouts to feeder roads have been constructed. Both have helped. Most of the problems now lie with the drivers.

They stay in the left lane when they should not. They speed in the wrong places and change lanes recklessly and too often. Many drive too slowly in the wrong places. These problems need to be corrected. The only way that can be done is through arrests of violators, and lots of them. Maybe then we'll be ready for the toll road to make Virginia Beach Blvd. a safe city street.

Surfers Say

Dear Editor:

In the past few years I have become more and more interested in the youth of our city through the sport of surfing.

When I heard a meeting had been called by the Recreation Dept. to distribute the new surfing rules and to exchange ideas, I really felt the City was making its first effort to get to the heart of the problem. There is a problem and a serious one, this is one thing that everyone should realize.

The City doesn't want to infringe upon anyone's rights, especially the residents of North Virginia Beach. I know between 40th St. and Ft. Story, that there is room to incorporate swimmers, sunbathers, fishermen and surfers. This problem can and must be solved for the safety of all using our beaches.

At the present time there is one surfing area in the Borough of Virginia Beach, and this is far from adequate. The persons present at the meeting were interested in more area in North Virginia Beach, not Little Island or anywhere else.

I do hope all of the ideas that were given to the committee will be presented to City Council at the earliest possible date. Action on this situation is long overdue—there is no doubt in anyone's mind—more surfing area is needed.

This group of young people is the finest anywhere; they have proven themselves time and time again in the short period that surfing has become overwhelmingly popular in our community—now let's see the City prove themselves to the youth—the future leaders of our community.

It's a Dog's Life

Dear Editor:

Thank you for your splendid editorial, "It's a Dog's Life".

You made a good point when you wrote the first obvious reason was that the owners of the dogs do not obey the laws. How can parents say they love their children when they do not teach them a respect for the laws which we have for our protection. There are some large families in my neighborhood whom I have must love their children, the fathers companion the boys with ball playing, hiking and other recreations but the pets are turned loose while they do these things. I see the doors opened by the owners and the animal allowed to go out even when the animal returns he has to wander around the neighborhood waiting for someone to return to allow him in the house. The boys who enjoy this companionship with their Dads are very well aware of the animal being loose in the neighborhood while they are off playing basketball, baseball etc. they know it is against the law to allow the dog to run loose as I have called our Dog Control man and he says he has notified the enclosed pamphlet and left it in the mail boxes so there is no excuse as to the knowledge of the law.

Well, thank you again and I hope you keep driving home the point until the reason for juvenile delinquency is finally brought home to where it belongs. The parents do not set the example for obedience of the laws.

Sincerely,

Jessie D. Kuhlmann (Mrs. Louis)

Blind to Progress?

Dear Editor:

I notice that Mr. Etheridge has failed to jump on the great-grandmother of Sidney Kellam why not??

As a native of Norfolk who has lived in most large cities of Virginia and being a close observer of all local politicians in Virginia, I have come to see clearly that the "quality leaders" of Tidewater are Sidney Kellam and ex-mayor of Norfolk, Fred Duckworth.

Mr. Etheridge appears to be "Blind to Progress" in Virginia Beach.

Any high school student who would visit and closely examine the cities of Norfolk, Portsmouth, Chesapeake and Virginia Beach would quickly discover that Virginia Beach is "five years ahead" of all the other three cities of "progressive" thanks to "all Kellams."

Personally I would like to see Sidney Kellam run for governor of Virginia in 1969 with Leroy Belinheim of Alexandria as his Lt. governor, as this would give the citizens of the state of Virginia "wisdom, honesty and progress" on the "throne" of our state capitol in Richmond.

A Little Bit of Humor...

It's nice to see that the morning paper in Norfolk has not lost its sense of humor during the current Democratic primary race in Virginia Beach. Or at least one headline writer has not lost his sense of humor.

Into the thick of charges and countercharges and counter-countercharges, etc. all about money, came the one headline... "Ticket Answers Pickett". It reduced the entire business to something less than spectacular.

Political Potpourri

The current financial fracas started when United Ticket leader, V. A. Etheridge said again that firms headed by political leader Sidney S. Kellam had benefitted to the tune of better than a half million dollars in payments from the city of Virginia Beach during a four-year period.

Most of that figure was paid in premiums for insurance and bonds written by Kellam-Eaton Insurance Co. The figure, however, represents only the premiums, not the amount of commissions actually paid to the company. The commissions, it has already been stated earlier in the campaign are relatively small, when the overall figure is looked at.

The rest of the money charged by Etheridge to have benefitted Kellam was paid to the Beach Publishing Corp for printing and legal notices. The legal notices are required to be run in the city, and by running them in the VIRGINIA BEACH SUN, the city was able to save a healthy amount of money over advertisement in the papers in Norfolk. And the printing also had to be done. After expenses, the profit to the company was small. None of this, however, was mentioned by Etheridge.

Then Etheridge attacked Kellam's representing the city of Virginia Beach on a number of boards and commissions aimed at improving Virginia Beach. His willingness to serve for the betterment of Virginia Beach was not cited by Etheridge.

Then Owen Pickett, Administration candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney, got into the fray with an answer to Etheridge.

Pickett cited the United Ticket's "code of ethics", which they said they believed in and followed and which was to keep the campaign on a high plain.

SEE "POTPOURRI", P. 5

Wanted: A green thumb desperately.

It seems rather impossible that I could buy a dozen perfectly healthy rose bushes with sprouts all over them, follow the nurseryman's explicit instructions concerning planting and care and feeding, water them only as instructed and practically break my back finding a home for them in the near-concrete soil of my backyard, and still come up with utter disaster.

Roses

Are

Sometimes

But it's true. The whole thing was done rather scientifically, if I do say so myself. First I planned carefully exactly where the rose bed would be. The site chosen with love is between two large trees that will provide just the balanced amounts of shade and sunlight at the right times of day.

Next came the real challenge. I cannot get grass to grow successfully anywhere in the yard, but in my proposed rose bed, it looked like it grew the thickest. I almost cried as I dug up the nice grassy patches that had taken a year to grow a quarter of an inch.

The bed itself is about 10 feet long at the back, and about three feet long on either end running perpendicular to the long part. In fact, from the upstairs window, the thing looks like the letter "E" without the middle prong.

The things I dug up in that space were unbelievable. Brick bats, and pieces of cinder block and concrete have long since ceased to amaze me when I dig them up. After all, the contractor had to do something with all his garbage, and it costs money to cart it away. But the old lunch pail, the still partly full beer can, the win bottle, the impossible to read old comic book and the remains of a partly burned boot give the digger all kinds of things to think about.

The fact that I was lunched over like the fellow from Notre Dame, (the cathedral, that is) for several days; the fact that my blisters had blisters; the fact that something bit me all over my legs and arms and they itched for a week; and the fact that the grass came back in the bed so quickly, are all unimportant. What stands out is that the rose bed was dug, mostly because I just dig roses.

The planting took no time at all. Just had to dig a deep enough hole in the already loose dirt, add a little rose food and water, and one rose bush and stir till done.

How beautiful they looked, all lined up there in two separate rows, each bush equidistant from the other, and the colors symmetrical from both ends to the two-tone rose in the middle. I watered the entire creation with loving care.

The blisters, rash, aches, pains and all the hard work were forgotten. I had a rose bed, with 11 bushes in it, their fledgling branches reaching timidly outward and their tiny leaves portending toward the sun. I fancied myself a rosarian of the first order and a creator of beauty.

The other bush, incidentally, was hastily planted at the most unlikely spot on the side of the house, amidst the grass, chickweed and other assorted problems. This one was planted separately because my four-year old wanted a rose bush all her own to water and watch grow.

Would the reader care at this point to venture a guess as to how many of the rose bushes are growing and thriving? The answer is quite obvious.

In the beautiful bed of 11 carefully planted rose bushes, there are exactly 11 dead rose bushes, the stupid little branches bent toward the ground and the tiny leaves withered and are about to fall off. All that remains are 11 thorny sticks in a beautiful and scientifically-planned rose bed. To add insult to injury, I even pricked my finger on a thorn the other day when I was examining the things with a magnifying glass to see if there were any signs of life. There weren't.

My four-year old has never yet even watered her bush. The weeds and grass are growing rapidly around it. But she goes out each day to look at it and to love "her rose bush", which has nearly doubled in size and stands straight and tall above the crabgrass and weeds. The yellow roses it is bound to bear will surely be the only monument to my weekend of misery.

But I'll not take the credit for her rose bush. Her love for it surely is the answer to its success.

Meanwhile I'm considering planting tomatoes in the rose bed. And when they fail, I think I'll just give up and plant grass there. It seems to come up so well there now, I have a sneaking suspicion, however, that even the grass will thwart me when I want it to grow.

I thought my thumb was green, but there is a distinct ting of black that won't come off. With my luck, my thumb may wither and drop off.

Oklahoma

They Did It Again

The Virginia Beach Civic Chorus has done it again.

Their presentation of the almost unbeatable "Oklahoma" is a pleasure to see and hear. Two more performances are scheduled for tomorrow and Saturday at Princess Anne High School with curtain time at 8:15 p.m. for the benefit of the Rotary Club's scholarship fund.

Belle Landrum, a music teacher who has previously performed the part, is delightful as Laurey.

A very manly Curley, as the role requires, is portrayed by Anthony Vickers who seemed to thoroughly enjoy his part.

It isn't often that a rogue is popular with the audience, but Scott Kunkel won their hearts with his characterization of the rascally Jud.

Aunt Eller is played by Vi Ragan, another talented member of the cast.

Others worthy of praise include Bruce Montgomery as Will Parker and Sam Hakim as the peddler.

Much of the success of the Rogers and Hammerstein musical is due to the excellent scenery designed by Oscar Northern and the costumes which were the responsibility of Lee Richards and Karla Beasley.

An added mention should be made of the lively dances.

Chalk up another hit for the Civic Chorus which has already successfully put on "Show Boat" and "Carousel" for the Rotary Club.

LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORDS BY LANA MORRIS

Lou Rawls starts the new year off with "Carryin' On," a rhythm and blues album that contains the vocalist's latest single, "You Can Bring Me All Your Heartaches," as well as 11 other tunes. In the LP, Lou turns to a small group (piano, bass, drum and guitar) for backing. The songs: "The Devil in Your Eyes, Somethin' Stirrin' in My Soul, Find Out What's Happening, On Broadway, Yesterday, A Woman Who's Woman, The Life That I Lead, Trouble Down Here Below, Mean Black Snake, Walking Proud and You're Gonna Hear from Me. In Nancy-Naturally, Nancy Wilson offers a collection of blues classics from the 30's (in the Dark) and from the famed Count Basie/Joe Williams collaborations (Smack Dab in the Middle and Alright; Okay, You Win). In addition to such other former blues hits as 10 Years of Tears, Since I Fell For You, You Ain't Had the Blues, Willow Weep for Me, My Babe, Just for a Thrill, I Wish I Didn't Love You So, What Happens and Ain't That Lovin' You. The album was arranged and conducted by Billy May.

The Letterman offer a combination of old classics and some new material in their new album, Warm, containing romantic love songs arranged and conducted by Perry Botkin Jr. Besides the title song, others included in the album are: "Winter Love, Symphony for Susan, Don't Blame It On Me, Song from 'Sleep Walk', She Drove Me Crazy, Now, For One, Smoke Gets in Your Eyes, Here, There and Everywhere, A Place for the Winter and Chanson d'Amour.

Caton Points Up Credibility Gap

A credibility gap now exists in Virginia Beach between the political Organization and the people, according to Delegate Edward T. (Ned) Caton III, United Candidate for the Senate from the 3rd District. "The people in our City are entitled to the truth," Caton said, "but so far in this campaign neither the Boss nor his handpicked candidates for office in the July 11 primaries have come up with it. Instead of truthfully discussing the issues, the Boss and his henchmen brag about how many bumper stickers they have supposedly hidden under those to promote a civic affair in Norfolk."

"To point up this credibility gap," Caton continued, "let's look at the Record on Senate Bill 81, the act to prohibit insurance Companies, such as those represented by my opponent, Bill Kellam from terminating automobile insurance without showing cause. I said that Bill Kellam cast the only vote against this important Bill. He denied this."

"But the Virginian-Pilot correspondent in Richmond," Caton went on to say, "reported that the Senate Journal proved me to be correct and that Bill Kellam WAS the only senator to vote against this Bill."

"Who are we to believe," Caton concluded, "the Virginian-Pilot or the Boss's brother who made a bad mistake and won't own up to it. The people deserve the truth. I challenge my opponent to give it to them."

Auditor Compliments Etheridge

The latest auditor's report on the operation of the office of City Treasurer, V. Alfred (Jack) Etheridge, states that he has maintained a most complete and accurate accounting of the City's funds. Etheridge is running for reelection as a United Candidate in the July primaries.

The report goes on to say that "in the opinion of the Auditor all receipts of record have been accounted for, all disbursements were properly authorized and a full settlement of the Treasurer's account was made."

The report further records that as Treasurer Etheridge collected in taxes $756,022 more than had been estimated for the last fiscal year which ended June 30, 1966. In the City's general fund alone revenues exceeded estimates by $1,139,025. More than $30 million in City receipts was handled last year by Etheridge's office.

Evans Says Are Needed More Police

Andre Evans, United Candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney, Virginia Beach, never passes up an opportunity to call for more police and better department conditions in the City. "I like to think of Virginia Beach as an above average City," Evans said, "but it certainly falls far below par in this important public service."

"Government at all levels is steadily encroaching upon the lives of our citizens," Evans repeated, "but in areas of public necessity, such as schools, highways and police protection, we are woefully lacking. Our policemen begin at a salary which is second lowest in the entire area. This must be changed."

"Steps must be taken, as well," Evans pointed out, "to eliminate the political atmosphere under which our policemen work. A civil service commission, including them, must be established so that our policemen need not have to accept invitations to the political headquarters of the Organization."

Honesty and Integrity Are Issues Says Gawrys

"Honesty, integrity and trustworthiness are the real issues in this campaign," said Joseph A. Gawrys, United Candidate for the House of Delegates from Virginia Beach. "I have proposed the creation of a Civil Service Commission for our City," Gawrys continued, "and this is an important plank in Your United Platform. The spoils system which now controls the City's employment practices must be brought to an end and a man should be hired by the City on the basis of what he knows, rather than on whom he knows."

"Our City employees," Gawrys emphasized, "must be protected from intimidation and harassment. They should not be ordered to work for the political Organization as a condition of employment. Such practices constitute an improper interference with constitutional liberty."

"One of the Organization Candidates and my opponent now," Gawrys said, "was against the Kellams two years ago. Two years ago this man claimed he wanted to get Virginia Beach 'Free from Bossism'. The power machine controlled by one man—the Boss—who now runs Virginia Beach. The little man, he said two years ago, 'must be freed from the tyranny of absolute bossism.'"

"Why," Gawrys went on, "does this man not support the creation of a civil service commission. Why has he now enlisted in the service of, to use his words, 'the Political Boss'?" "Is this right-about-face change in position by my opponent consistent with honesty, integrity and trustworthiness," Gawrys concluded, "How can the voters believe the promises of this man and his Organization associates. The voters will answer the question on July 11."

Absalom Says People Will Speak

Richard R. Absalom, United Candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court, believes the people of Virginia Beach are tired of being buried by "a cloud of ancestral dust". They want, says Absalom, a voice in Government, a vote in selecting representatives and they take self pride in knowing what an important part they vote play in selecting the best men available.

"I am confident," Absalom remarked, "that the wave of change that came out of Virginia Beach in the last primary will sweep Virginia in July. The Tide of change is rising throughout the state and Virginia Beach."

"To paraphrase Senator Spong," Absalom concluded, "Opportunity Knocks. The forthcoming election is unique in the history of Virginia Beach. This is due primarily because the people of this City have proved a desire to be in the mainstream of Virginia; rather than to be just a small back drip to be turned on and off by the controlling hand of a Boss."

Middleton Cites Need In Schools

"This is the third time my family has attempted to get our School Board to require a Tuberculosis and Health Certificate from all employed personnel in the School Department," B. R. Middleton, United Candidate for the House of Delegates told supporters.

"My mother worked for this important innovation 20 years ago," Middleton continued, "and my wife worked for it 10 years ago. Both at that time were members of the Board of Directors of the TB and Health Society. However, nothing was done."

"The Superintendent of Schools," Middleton said, has announced that a Certificate is now required. However, during the past few days I have talked to a number of teachers in the Virginia Beach Schools and they tell me that they have not been required to take the standard TB tests."

"Somebody," Middleton said, "is not telling the truth. I believe the teachers."

TERRIE WATSON OF VIRGINIA BEACH AND PAUL IDDINGS IN THE JOSEPH HAYES TAUNT THRILLER, "THE DESPERATE HOURS," AT WEDGEWOOD DINNER THEATRE, WILLIAMSBURG, THROUGH MAY 6TH.

Taut Drama Plays At Wedgewood

"As slam-bang melodrama, with a glowing figure behind every door and a nervous finger on every trigger, 'The Desperate Hours' is a beaut." That's how New York critic Walter Kerr described the suspense-packed hit currently chilling and thrilling audiences at Wedgewood Dinner Theatre in Williamsburg.

The story of the play revolves around the reactions of a typical American family threatened in their own home by three desperate and conscienceless escaped criminals. Held at gun point and faced with the possibility of sudden and violent death for any or all of them, the family goes through two days of terror before the convicts are finally out of the house through a series of tension building incidents guaranteed to keep the audiences on the edge of their seats almost from the first word to the last.

Paul Iddings, popular actor last seen as the misguided intellectual of "The Owl and the Pussycat," plays Glenn Griffin, the deranged leader of the convicts and LaVerne Watson, well known Tidewater television personality makes his third Wedgewood appearance as Dan Hilliard, the average American father who becomes a hero in his own right when his family is threatened.

Claudine Iddings is seen as Hilliard's wife, Eleanor, Terrie Watson as daughter Cindy and Russell Turnage as son Ralph. Tommy Eaton, former apprentice making his first appearance as a member of the resident company, plays Hank Griffin, and veteran actor Roby Brown plays Robish, the loathsome third member of the convicts.

"The Desperate Hours" plays Wednesday through Saturday through May 6th. The famous Wedgewood buffet begins at 7 and the play at 8:30 p.m. in the air-conditioned theatre adjoining the dining room. For reservations phone Toano 564-3236 or write P.O. Box 242, Williamsburg.

Potpourri

He said "before the ink was dry" the Uniteds were distributing information to mislead the public. Pickett also suggested that Etheridge, his family and his associates on the United Ticket had certainly benefitted from living and working in Virginia Beach, and in essence asked, "So what?"

Pickett noted that United Campaign manager, Rhae Adams, of Emrhue Ford, Inc., saw his company paid nearly a half million dollars in the same four-year period by the city. Other incidents included the sale of delinquent tax property paid by a check of the man now Etheridge's chief deputy and then delinquent tax collector; more than $64 thousand paid to United Candidate Middleton for work done here; city salaries paid to Etheridge's family in excess of a quarter million dollars; campaign worker Reid Irvin's company contracting nearly a quarter million dollar city job; and a few others.

Pickett continued to ask if there was anything wrong with Etheridge and his associates benefitting in excess of one million dollars from the city of Virginia Beach in the past few years. He never suggested that there was.

His speech added that perhaps Etheridge wants to keep the spotlight off himself and that he ought to run on his record, which he "seems to be trying to avoid."

That's when the ticket answered Pickett. Adams said he won the city contracts by competitive bid. Irvin said the same. Middleton said most of the work his firm did was also on competitive bid.

And so it ended, again at a standoff. And all it proved was that a lot of businessmen and others had made some money in Virginia Beach. Honesty and integrity were not the issues at hand, merely a smokescreen to hide or cloud the true issues.

Meanwhile L. Charles Burlage had no sooner gotten the words out of his mouth that he was sure the Uniteds would publish remarks he had made in his unsuccessful bid for the State Senator against William Kellam, then a paid political advertisement appeared in a Norfolk newspaper with excerpts of Burlage's 1965 speeches.

Burlage noted that he had run after Etheridge had asked him "with tears in his eyes" to run, and then on election day was working for Kellam. Burlage then branded Etheridge as a "double agent."

Burlage also told of his attacks on the leadership of Sidney Kellam and his two-to-one defeat at the polls. He added that many of the tenets he supported then are now part of the Administration policy. Burlage too called upon Etheridge to start conducting an affirmative campaign and "stop conducting a campaign of hate."

And so it goes. The only amusing thing was the headline, "Ticket answers Pickett."

Today's Investor

Q. We have had some pretty warm discussions in our investment club over when a stock should be sold. Some of us think we should take advantage of a good profit and reinvest our money in something else. But we haven't been able to convince some of the others. What do you think?

A. You can always make money if you sell a stock when it's price has gone up a few dollars, - but you'll never make a fortune.

Would you say that because a stock has increased 40-plus percent in price that is a good reason to sell it? I have a friend who took that 40 percent profit about three years ago and he has been kicking himself ever since. Why? Well, the stock was Xerox, which he bought at 90. He sold at 130. After splitting four for one, it went above 250.

Of course there are times, a club, or an individual should take the profit on a stock. But you should have a better reason than simply because the profit is there.

Here are some things to look at when you are considering the sale of a stock whose price has gone up:

1. Has the growth in sales and earnings that brought about your profit leveled off or stopped? If it has, you might seriously consider selling.

2. Have the company's profits and earnings per share kept pace with production and sales? If they haven't, you might be wise to sell, even though there is no indication that the price of its stock is about to break.

3. Do you have a better stock in mind, one that appears to be reasonably priced and about ready to "take off" in growth?

When I see an investor keeping the telephone wires hot with buy and sell orders to his broker, I'm certain the broker is fond of him, but I doubt if he's really making money.

Q. What sources of information can you recommend for ferreting out growth companies?

A. You might start out by asking your broker. Next read the financial publications and the financial section of your newspaper. In addition, some of the investor's services have lists that might help guide you.

Some investors make a practice of going through the Standard & Poor's report sheet on corporations, checking sales and growth for the last five years. If earnings are up 50 to 100 percent, they investigate further, on the very logical assumption that they have found a growing company. You do have to be careful to be sure the change in sales results in real growth in the company's business and is not just a benefit of our current booming production.

Q. Would you discuss Brunswick Corp.? Has its failure to keep pace been because it was too late in getting into other lines besides bowling alley equipment, or because of mismanagement? Is it still a diversified company?

A. Poor Brunswick! It will probably be used for many a year as the horrible example of a stock investment gone sour. I think most investors and analysts will agree that Brunswick fell upon hard times because its market became saturated. When the automatic bowling alleys market became saturated, profits plummeted and the price of the stock went down with its profits. Brunswick did diversify, but it was difficult to diversify enough quickly. Or perhaps it was a matter of the firm failing to hit on a new product that sold so well and so profitably as automatic bowling alleys.

Altogether, it could be that the management did well to come through a difficult situation as well as it did. But if you bought at 70 or 75, you're likely to have a long wait before you realize a profit on your investment.

Have you a question about investing? Mr. O'Hara, editor of the monthly magazine, "Better Investing," and one of the nation's recognized authorities, will answer as many as possible in his column or by personal mail, but must limit questions to those of more general interest. Correspondents will receive a free copy of "Better Investing." Write to T. E. O'Hara, National Association of Investment Clubs, Dept. S, Box 1056, Detroit, Michigan 48231.

Fair Plans Promised

A press party will be held Friday night, April 28, at the Golden Triangle Hotel in Norfolk by promoters of the Greater Tidewater Fair Assoc. according to Steve Rose, general manager.

Plans will be unveiled for the 1967 edition of the fair, to be held at Hilltop in Virginia Beach this fall.

Last year's fair was not entirely successful, because of bad weather, but an even bigger show and midway are promised this year by Rose.

CITY OF VIRGINIA BEACH, VIRGINIA
Budget for the Fiscal Year
Commencing July 1, 1967

This budget synopsis is prepared and published for informative and fiscal planning purposes only. The inclusion in the budget of any item or items does not constitute an obligation or commitment on the part of the Council of the City of Virginia Beach to appropriate any funds for that item or purpose. The budget has been prepared on the basis of the estimates and requests submitted to the City Manager by the several officers and department heads of this City. There is no allocation or designation of any funds of this City for any purpose until there has been an appropriation for that purpose by the City Council. A hearing will be held by the City Council on the budget for informative purposes at City Hall on the 8th day of May, 1967, at 2:00 o'clock p.m., at which time any citizen of this City shall have the right to attend and state his views.

JACK ETHERIDGE A DOUBLE AGENT?

Since Charlie Burlage has been politically active in Virginia Beach there have been three attempts to take over the administration of our government.

YEAR OF CAMPAIGN

1955.....Supporting the administration
1959.....Supporting the administration

WHERE WAS CHARLIE BURLAGE?

Charlie Burlage has never advocated that Jack Etheridge Roger Malbon and Ned Caton run our government; he didn't advocate it in 1965 nor does he advocate it in 1967. The issue in 1965 was to awaken Virginia to its responsibilities and to improve our government. What Jack Etheridge said to me in private in 1965 when, with tears in his eyes, he asked me to run for the Senate and then on Election Day was working at the polls for Senator William Keilam, was inconsistent. In my eyes this brands him as a double agent. In 1967 the issue is whether Jack Etheridge, Roger Malbon and Ned Caton should be our political leaders: on this issue I support the administration as I always have on the same issue in the past. However, I reserve my right to reasonably disagree in the future should that become important.

Now, Mr. Etheridge if you are interested in old headlines, I suggest you read these concerning your current political partner and brother-in-law and yourself.

ROGER MALBON

'ETHERIDGE BLASTS MALBON'

The State Inspector made this report, Etheridge said. "One colored woman who was a prisoner was not seen. She was reported to be working at the home of the sheriff."

WHAT J. WILCOX DUNN SAID IN 1951 OF ETHERIDGE...

In view of V. A. (Jack) Etheridge's treatment of the truth these last few months he has forfeited the right to be believed. If he wished clarification - anytime. (W.W. Johnson, Lawrence Lockwood, J. W. Dunn, Clayton Davis, Capt. T. J. Barnes.)

Signs of Spring...

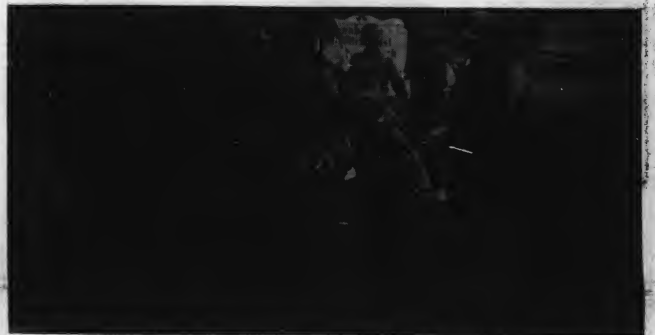

A Country Carnival

THE REV. ARTHUR H. HASTINGS ASSISTS MRS. E.C. SHOLAR WITH PLANTINGS FOR THE FESTIVAL.

KING AND QUEEN OF THE FESTIVAL: LANCE LARGE AND LINDA SHOLAR.

CHILDREN REHEARSE AROUND A TREE THE STAND-IN FOR THE MAYPOLE.

... complete with maypole, cake walk and yo-yo contest ... all day Saturday on the lawn at Lynnhaven Methodist Church, Little Neck Road.

The small church community with a congregation of some 85 families and no plans to expand or put up a steel and glass structure, is having a spring festival, its first, so far as committee members know, despite the fact that the present site has been a place of worship since 1873.

Methodist men will cook hot dogs and hamburgers, wives and children will stock, then man the booths.

Races, miniature golf, food, plant and needlework booths, children dressed as clowns, a reigning king and queen are among the features church circles have planned for the event.

Festival hours are from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. The maypole dance is scheduled for 3 p.m.

....An Air Station Happening

..... a day-long fund-raising carnival with Mrs. James C. Rittenhouse of Southern Points overall chairman.

Sponsored for the second year by the Naval Air Station Officers' Wives Club, the carnival's proceeds are earmarked for Tidewater agencies. It is open to the public and will feature, in addition to booths for refreshments, gift items, toys and bazaar-type articles, appearances of guest stars, including Miss Norfolk, Miss Chesapeake, radio and television personalities, baton twirlers and music including go-go-type bands.

Scheduled for 10 a.m., the event will be held in Hanger S 26 at the Norfolk Naval Air Station.

The Way He Was

Women's Editor

Editor's Note: Sgt. Leon A. Hickey's family, who live at 711 13th Street, will leave Sunday to join him for a three-year tour of duty in Germany. One son, Sp. 4 Marvin B. Smith Jr., 19, will not be with them. He died Jan. 11, 1966, a leader in action. Mrs. Hickey last week was presented the Military Merit Medal and the Gallantry Cross with Palm, awarded her son posthumously. She had earlier received the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart. Mrs. Hickey has lived with her grief for a year; today she shares it with us.

Junie Smith's leadership ability was recognized by his Army superiors very early in his military career.

JUNIE SMITH

It was at Ft. Bragg, after he'd completed jump school at Ft. Benning, that he was selected to attend leadership school at West Point.

"His grades were up real high," his mother, Mrs. Leon A. Hickey recalled. "He excelled in everything. Even his uniforms were always kept immaculate. Sometimes he'd change two or three times a day."

The Army family was in France when Sp. 4 Marvin B. Smith Jr. ("everyone at the Beach called him Junie, everyone except his Army buddies. They called him Smitty.") got his first 30-day leave after finishing the leadership course at West Point.

"He came to France to be with us for those 30 days. He was so proud of the Army and his uniform. He was the greatest son a mother could have. He always used to say his Mom was the greatest. He danced with me all the time when he was on leave."

Parish Book Store

A Big Business in Books

MRS. A. C. JOHNSON JR. (RIGHT), BOOK STORE MANAGER, AND MRS. WILLIAM D. FRIERSON LOOK OVER ONE OF THE BOOK STORE'S COLLECTOR'S ITEMS: A GWEN FROSTIC BOOK, CARRIED HERE EXCLUSIVELY AT THE PARISH BOOK STORE.

Eastern Shore Chapel's Book Store is three years old, and to celebrate the occasion, Book Store committee members have planned a May 1 to 13 birthday celebration.

Book Store manager Mrs. A. C. Johnson Jr. has announced that the committee has supplemented its stock of religious books and gift items with a complete new supply of sale items. In addition, committee members will serve refreshments to customers daily during the birthday event. The store is open daily, except Sunday, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Proceeds from the chapel's store, founded by Mrs. Lewis Cobb, are contributed to a theological education fund for students here and in Colombia, South America. Some 14 to 20 women are involved in its operation.

Started with a loan of $200, from the vestry, a loan which was repaid during the first year of operations, figures now show that during the past year, $1,000 was sent to Bishop Reed in Colombia for the education of a Colombian attending his last year in the Seminary of the Caribbean. In addition, a total of $550, to be applied toward their book accounts, was distributed among seminarians in diocese of Virginia.

The public is invited to come and browse at the store.

Beach Turns In Hearty Amount

Tidewater Heart Association will be some $18,000-plus richer, thanks to the Virginia Beach Heart fund workers.

James R. McKenry, Beach

unit chairman, has announced the total amount and breakdown as follows: $1,114.42, profits from the Heart Fund fashion show held in the Civic Center; $332.38, the sum raised by Mrs.

Roy Prangle's high school balloon sale; Heart Sunday, $14,796.09. The balance represents a Memorial fund, special gifts, small business and corporation donations.

The annual Tidewater Heart Fund dinner is set for April 28 in the Golden Triangle, Norfolk.

The sum Mrs. Roy Prangle turned into the Tidewater Heart Assoc. has ballooned to $332.38, raised by students from Virginia Beach high schools. Of that amount, some $121.55 was amassed by Princess Anne High School, the committee headed by Shelly Stevenson. Princess Anne will be presented with a trophy.

The schools participated in the drive for funds by selling balloons at area shopping centers. In addition to Princess Anne, Cox, Kellam, First Colonial, Union Kempsville and Bayside participated in the sale.

It's a Boy!

It's a son for AIC and Mrs. Ronald G. Whitehurst Jr. who are living in Honolulu, Hawaii. The baby, John Sheppard, the Whitehursts' second child, was born April 11. Mrs. Whitehurst is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Brown of Wolfens Drive.

Paul's Teachings Applicable Now, Librarian Says

Mrs. Harold T. Goranson, Wesleyan College librarian and member of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd here, last week spoke to some 100 women at Galilee Episcopal Church on the teachings of Paul as related to present-day life.

"St. Paul's letters are just as applicable to 1967 as when they were written many years ago," said Mrs. Goranson.

"He went into the Arabian desert and prayed for guidance in carrying his message to the Gentiles. Before he began to teach, he brooded; he was quiet; he was alone. He stayed three years before he humbly received the inspiration to become a Christian.

"When we pray, let it be for others' happiness, rather than for our own," suggested Mrs. Goranson.

Continuing, she said that Jesus was not always the gentle, meek personality with whom we associate our childhood teachings.

"He was driven, as we are today, by too little time. He stood for liberty and steadfastness of Christian purpose. Often He stood alone, but He stood steadfast," Mrs. Goranson said.

A buffet luncheon with circles Bishop Gunn, St. Mary's, Bishop Brown and All Saints as hosts, followed the talk.

The Women of Galilee will meet May 23 to install new officers.

Buy Now to Save

The slightly higher interest rates now in effect for home loans aren't likely to decrease in the near future, say financial authorities polled by a leading national magazine. However, building costs will continue to rise, so families ready to buy a home should do so now.

Reporting back to the States and to Ft. Campbell, Ky., he found that he lucked out...with another 15-day leave. These 15 days he spent with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Spence, here at the Beach.

Then Junie Smith went to Vietnam; he was then just a little over 17.

"He was there just two months and a day, but he wrote to me every day."

She, too, wrote to him daily...telling him about all the things he loved back here; his family, his brothers and sisters, his Army Sergeant father whom he admired and hoped to emulate, news of his friends and news of his school... Virginia Beach High.

"His last letter was the sweetest I ever received. It was filled with his final thoughts...of her, his father, his brothers and sisters. But with it came also very wise thoughts of a soldier."

"He told me he knew he wasn't going to make it back, so when the captain of the Army post where he was stationed in France looked at me that morning, I said you don't have to tell me. I know my son is dead."

"Junie's buddy wrote to me and told me the story."

"He told me how proud of Smitty I should always be. He (the group leader) was hit by enemy fire. Junie went to assist him and the leader turned over his command to Junie."

Shortly after that, Junie, as the leader, volunteered, along with five others, to go through a smoke screen to attack a snipers' nest. The six of them stood up and fired at the snipers and the snipers fired back. All six were hit and all six died.

"Junie's body was shipped back to me and I saw him. It was the only way I could be sure he was mine. He was...and he was so beautiful."

"He's in Oak Grove Cemetery. His is the prettiest grave out there. His grandmother has promised me she'll look after him while I'm gone."

"All Junie's things are going with me to Germany. My house will be boarded up while we're away but his things will be with me so I can look at them every day. Suppose someone broke into the house? I'll never let them get Junie's things."

"I have everything of his except his wallet and his boots. Those boots! He was so proud of them he kept them polished like glass. You could see your face in them. We always laughed because the only thing he ever asked for were Birdseye baby diapers. He said they were the only things that would keep his boots spit-polish shiny."

"That's just the way he was."

John Robert Powers FINISHING SCHOOL

What is the question that is most often asked by those who visit the Powers Finishing Schools?

"Can Powers training help ME?"

Yes, the teenager, mature woman, career girl or housewife deserves to reach her full potential as a woman.

An important part of the training must deal with the side of us that other people see. The visual impression that we create in others must be pleasing.

Even more important, however, is the self-confidence that Powers training builds. The result in poise, both mentally and visually.

We know by many years of experience, that the Powers program can help practically every woman to achieve them.

SHERRILL SMITH, EDITOR OF KELLAM HIGH SCHOOL'S ROUNDTABLE, AND REGGIE LEWIS, SENIOR CLASS PRESIDENT, GAVE AN EXCLUSIVE: THE ONLY INTERVIEW QUEEN AZALEA XIV GAVE TO HIGH SCHOOL REPORTERS. (FRED BECKER PHOTO)

"She chatted away like she was one of us," said Sherrill Smith, editor of Kellam High School's Roundtable of her interview with Queen Azalea XIV, Monique Van den Boeynants.

Sherrill, accompanied by senior class president Reggie Lewis, held the only interview the queen granted to high school reporters.

"We were most impressed at how nice she was," said Sherrill, who plans on a career in journalism. "She spoke English well, but she couldn't always understand us. I guess it was our slang."

Her skin was very pretty, according to Sherrill. "She was so natural looking—she didn't look like she wore any make-up."

"I was petrified with fright before I met her," Sherrill admitted, "but she put everybody at ease."

Queen Monique told Sherrill and Reggie that everything in the United States was just like the traffic and number of cars impressed her most.

Reggie found that he had something in common with Queen Monique: they are both studying German and knew some of the same songs. Queen Monique is a student at the University of Heidelberg.

After the brief interview (Monique had to hurry to a luncheon), Reggie commented, "She's beautiful and intelligent, and nice to talk to—she's just perfect."

Coquina Chowder

From Toy To Tureen

Oceanside Circle of The King's Daughters will sponsor its annual Coquina Ball Saturday night in the Cavalier. The black tie event is scheduled to get underway at 9 p.m. In the hotel's main ballroom, Al Cates will provide music for dancing. Mrs. J. Crockett Henry is general chairman.

A favorite beach plaything has become for the Allen family a favorite on the dinner table as well.

It's the coquina whose colorful shell provided hours and hours of oceanside fun for the family and whose flavor contributes to a Coquina Chowder that has, for years, been an Allen family favorite.

As Mrs. James W. Allen Jr. tells it, it was during World War II that the coquina came into its own with the family.

"I was a neighbor of a doctor stationed at Fort Story. Both families had children the same age, so his wife and I spent numerous hours together on the beach with our children. They loved to dig up the little butterfly-shaped coquina shells at the water's edge. The colorful stripes and hues appealed to them.

"As the summer progressed, the little coquinas grew larger, and by the time August had rolled around, they had almost doubled in size.

"When I was discussing this with my friend, she asked me if I knew how to make a delicious broth by boiling the coquinas. As a child she went with her family to Florida and her mother made coquina chowder.

"My daughter is now married. She and her husband now gather the coquinas for the chowder."

Here is Mrs. Allen's recipe:

- 1 quart coquinas
- 3 slices bacon
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 2 large potatoes, diced
- 1 cup milk
- 1 tsp. chopped parsley
- 2 T. butter
- Salt and pepper to taste.

Rinse coquinas in a colander until all sand is removed. Place in saucepan and cover with water. Simmer until shells open (usually about 20 minutes). Strain off liquid, then add sufficient water to this liquid to make 4 cups. Reserve liquid only.

In large kettle, fry bacon until crisp. Remove and drain on paper towels. Sauté onions in bacon fat for five minutes. Add liquid, potatoes, seasonings and simmer until potatoes are tender. Add milk and butter. Reheat, but do not boil. Top with crushed, crisp bacon.

Trash Is Big Business to Company

"As the saying goes, if you want to know if a business is successful, ask your trash man," said Howard Kayton, president of Tidewater Disposal-All Corp.

Judging by that, Pembroke Mall must be very successful. Approximately 200 cubic yards of trash are hauled away daily by Kayton's company, whose home office is in Norfolk.

The City does not dispose of trash from businesses accumulating over a certain volume. That's where the private collector comes in. Garbage is strictly segregated. Virginia Beach trash stays in Virginia Beach and we don't get imports.

The volume of trash at Pembroke Mall has made special demands for service from Kayton's company. Highly specialized equipment has been designed and developed for the operation.

Dempster Dumpsters of Knoxville, Tenn. manufacture the equipment. The Dumpsters handle from two to 40 cubic yards of trash at a time.

Giant "dinosaurs" automatically load huge containers and haul them to the city dumping areas. Other "dump masters" smaller in size, pick up containers in a lift-fork type operation and turn them upside down into the truck. There are three dinosaurs and 10 dumpmasters using 21 employees just in the Pembroke operation, Kayton said. S. W. Zeagler is superintendent of maintenance and security.

One of the special operations is required by a cafeteria in the Mall. Trash is brought downstairs on an elevator, then carried away by dumpster.

"Each piece of equipment has a special operation--from wet trash to dry trash," Kayton said. "Each piece has to be sprayed with disinfectant and sprinkled with odor neutralizing crystals daily."

"Tidewater Disposal works closely with Cecil Land, superintendent of sanitation, to meet all City trash ordinances," said John Shand, Virginia Beach operations manager for the firm.

"This is very important since we service the entire Virginia Beach area, especially during the tourist season. And being a seasonal area our problem comes from fish, crabs, etc., and our special spraying equipment helps to keep odors down to sanitation requirements."

Kayton said that the biggest problem during the tourist season is traffic with the size equipment his company uses. He said special equipment is necessary for the restaurants and motels with small alleys.

"We anticipate ordering more specially-designed equipment for the resort area," Kayton said. "With the closing of the City incinerator, it's a longer distance to the dumping areas, and we need equipment for long hauls."

He said the company is continually working with architects designing hotels and motels to incorporate special trash areas in the construction for special equipment such as his.

The business began with rented telephone parking space at the R. S. Tire Co. in Norfolk. Now it has its own plant housing offices and garage with additional adjacent property for the storage of containers and the parking of trucks. More than 300 containers are used in Virginia Beach alone.

There's more to the trash business that meets the eye--or the nose.

Young Demos Appoint 5

Five Virginia Beach residents were appointed to posts within the Virginia Young Democrats at the organization's recent meeting at the Golden Triangle in Norfolk.

Oral Lambert was appointed director of publicity, and as such, is editor of the state YDC newspaper.

Coast Guard Has Openings

An increase of approximately 40 openings in the enlistment quota of the regular Coast Guard for the months of April and May within the Fifth Coast Guard District has been announced by R/Adm. O. C. Rohke, Commander of the Fifth Coast Guard District.

Openings are presently available in the electronics, aviation, oceanography, and clerical fields to qualifying applicants. Young men interested in obtaining more information in these programs and serving in the nation's oldest sea-going service are urged to contact their nearest Coast Guard Recruiter or write to: Commander (p), Fifth Coast Guard District, 431 Crawford St., Portsmouth, Va. 23705.

Swimming Knows No Season

Summer is the traditional time to swim.

But a large group of Virginia Beach youngsters wouldn't believe it. They don their suits twice a week for Red Cross and YWCA sponsored classes held in the Cavalier pool.

The main requirement for the classes (besides the desire to swim) is height. There is no really shallow water in the pool, so children must be tall enough to stand in the water before they are accepted.

For the shorter and younger children classes will be held in outdoor pools at private homes this summer. There are no public pools at Virginia Beach.

New Hat Replaces Old

On May 1, Mrs. Anna Cotton takes off one of her hats and adjusts the remaining one as she prepares for a full-time job.

Mrs. Cotton will no longer be a part-time registrar and part-time secretary in the personnel department. She will be working 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. six days a week as Virginia Beach's General Registrar.

She will be working under the auspices of the Electoral Board and will have at least one permanent assistant, according to John B. James, chairman of the Electoral Board.

In the past the precinct registrars have been confined to registering persons only in their own precinct. On May 1 they will be able to register anyone in any precinct of the city, according to James.

In addition Virginia Beach also has precinct registrars to assist Mrs. Cotton. On May 1, some changes may be announced in the precinct registrars, according to James, in order to make it even easier for all interested persons in Virginia Beach to register.

Members of both the Administration team and the United candidates praised the action taken by the Electoral Board.

Midshipman Is On Dean's List

Midshipman First Class Ashley J. Beavers, son of Cmdr. and Mrs. Oscar J. Beavers of 8502 Ocean Front, was one of 488 men from a 4,000-man brigade of Midshipmen at the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., named to the Dean's List for the second semester.

In order to be eligible for the list, a midshipman must attain a 3.4 (B plus) quality point rating and have no failure in any academic area including aptitude, conduct and physical education.

Atomic Energy Comes to School

A demonstration lecture sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission on atomic energy and its uses will be presented at Union-Kempsville High School tomorrow.

The program, titled "This Atomic World," is designed to acquaint students with the basic principles of nuclear energy, its sources and role in industry, agriculture and medicine.

William W. Miller, III, will present the assembly program which breaks down into student terms topics including the structure of atoms, radiation, reactors, and fusion. Miller has completed extensive training at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., facilities of the Atomic Energy Commission. He is a graduate of the University of Miami and holds a bachelor of arts degree.

The "This Atomic World" program scheduled here is one of 11 similar units appearing daily at high schools throughout the country. They are part of the AEC's extensive traveling exhibit program designed to bring the public a greater understanding of atomic energy and its uses.

A PLASTIC BALL "TAGGED" WITH HARMLESS "TRACER" ATOMS IS PART OF THE DEMONSTRATION EQUIPMENT USED IN PRESENTATIONS OF "THIS ATOMIC WORLD." THE U. S. A. F. Wing Sets Record

A U.S. Air Force aircraft mechanic from Virginia Beach is a member of an airlift wing cited for setting an unofficial world's record for low-altitude airdrops by C-141 Lockheed Starlifter aircraft.

Airman Third Class Robert A. Blenis, son of Mrs. Pauline F. Blenis of 2221 Scallop Rd., supported the 437th Military Airlift Wing at Charleston AFB, S. C., in its recent test airdrop of 34 tons of cargo.

The payload, a string of 28 loaded pallets connected by cables, was paratropped from a 500-foot altitude at 160 miles per hour. The cargo hit a 120-foot square bullseye on the Starlifter's initial flight over the target zone.

Airman Blenis' wing was the first unit on the East Coast to fly the C-141 on operational missions.

The airman is a graduate of Frank W. Cox High School.

Artists Selected

The works of three Virginia Beach artists will be among the 153 Virginia artists who will go on display at the Virginia Museum May 1 in the 21st biennial Virginia Artists Exhibition in Richmond.

A three-man jury selected a total of 165 objects for the show and also awarded 20 certificates of distinction to artists whose works they considered outstanding.

One of the certificate of distinction winners was Margaret Braswell daughter of Mr. & Mrs. C. W. Braswell of 534 Carolina Ave., a student at Richmond Professional Institute.

Works by two other Virginia Beach artists, Harriet Goldberg and Marilyn Tannahill, were also accepted. Entries by 10 artists from Norfolk and three from Chesapeake were accepted in the Biennial.

Local Student Joins Honorary

Alex Kalasinski of Virginia Beach was among 26 students at the University of Wyoming who were elected to membership in Phi Epsilon Phi, national men's service honorary society.

Members are selected on the basis of scholastic ability and interest in extracurricular activities.

Agency Termed "Outstanding"

American National Insurance Co.'s most outstanding new branch office in the Southern region of the U. S. for 1967 is that of General Agent John A. Farrer, located at 3707 Virginia Beach Blvd.

Deadline Is May 10

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Jr. has announced May 10 as the deadline for applications for appointment to the United States service academies in 1968.

Sen. Byrd will make his academy appointments after competitive Civil Service examination of the applicants. Each U. S. Senator and Representative has a limited number of appointments each year.

Only young men whose parents are bona fide residents of Virginia and who will not have reached their 22nd birthday by July 1, 1967, are eligible to take the exam.

Application forms for the Military, Naval, Air Force, Merchant Marine, and Coast Guard academies may be obtained by writing Senator Byrd, 417 Senate Office Bldg., Washington, D. C.

Early application for the class beginning 1968 is urged.

Make it Safe to Walk

Drive with a dirty windshield? Of course not. But don't overlook those headlights either, advises the Institute for Safer Living. Dirty headlights can cut your vision as much as 25 per cent on the road at night. Keep them clean!

Driving is different day and night. Fatal accidents increase with darkness even though there are fewer cars on the road at night. Night driving is more dangerous, therefore the driver should be doubly alert when he gets behind the wheel.

Modest speed is the key when driving through well-lighted business districts at night, advises the Institute for Safer Living. Many times signal lights blend in with flashing neon signs so even though the area is brilliantly lighted, caution is necessary.

Avoid the glare from the driver who is getting a glare from his mirror when you drive too closely to the car behind you with your high beams on. The Institute for Safer Living reports that low beams should always be used when overtaking or meeting another car. Switch low beams early enough to Seashore Leads April's warm weather has lured Virginians to their state parks by thousands—and Seashore State Park is leading the others in attendance.

More than 14,000 persons visited that park through mid-April. About 10,000 went on Saturdays and Sundays.

In an attendance survey covering the first half of the month, more than 51,000 visitors were counted in six of Virginia's state parks and in one recreational area.

Young men who are juniors in high school are reminded now is the time to apply.

Play Opens Wednesday

Not just any Wednesday, but Wednesday, May 3, is the date to remember. And 8:30 p.m. is the hour... when "Any Wednesday" begins its four-day run on the stage of the Newport News High School auditorium.

The witty, Muriel Resnik comedy, a runaway hit on Broadway for several seasons, will be presented by the Peninsula Community Theatre in replacement of "Barefoot in the Park", the previously scheduled play.

"Any Wednesday" will formally close the 66-67 season of the Community Theatre.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

The Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries at a meeting held in Richmond, Virginia, on March 31, 1967, ordered the following proposed changes in its regulations pursuant to Sections 29-125, 29-126 and 29-127 of the Code of Virginia. A public hearing for the purpose of adopting such changes will be held at Room 100, 7 North Second Street, Richmond, Virginia, at 9:30 a.m., May 5, 1967.

CHAPTER 2. (Game) In General.

Adopt a new regulation to be numbered R2-11 as follows:

The use of body-gripping ten-inch-by-ten-inch traps shall be prohibited except for use in trapping beaver or other such traps shall be set only when covered by water.

CHAPTER 3. Bear.

Amend Regulation R3-1 to read as follows:

Except as provided by local legislation, it shall be lawful to hunt bear from the third Monday in November through January 5, both dates inclusive, in the counties east of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

LEGAL NOTICES

Amend Regulation R3-8 to read as follows:

It shall be unlawful to use dogs for the hunting of bear during the open season for hunting deer in the counties west of the Blue Ridge Mountains and in the Counties of Amherst (west of U.S. Route 29), Bedford, Campbell (west of Southern Railroad), Nelson (west of Route 151) and Pittsylvania (west of Southern Railroad) and within the boundaries of the National forests.

CHAPTER 4. Beaver

Amend Regulation R4-1 to read as follows:

Except as otherwise specifically provided by the regulations appearing in this chapter, it shall be lawful to trap beaver from January 1 through February 15, both dates inclusive.

CHAPTER 6. Deer.

Amend Regulation R6-2 to read as follows:

It shall be lawful to hunt deer on the third Monday in November and for eleven consecutive hunting days following in the counties west of the Blue Ridge Mountains and in the counties of Amherst (west of U.S. Route 29), Bedford, Campbell (west of Southern Railroad), Franklin, Henry, Nelson (west of Route 151), Patrick and Pittsylvania (west of Southern Railroad).

Amend Regulation R6-5 to read as follows:

The bag limit for deer shall be one a license year, either sex the first day only, but bucks only after the first day, in the counties of Albemarle, Alleghenry, Amherst (west of U.S. Route 29), Augusta, Bath, Bedford, Bottetourt, Carroll, Clarke, Craig, Culpeper, Fairfax, Fauquier, Floyd, Franklin, Frederick, Giles, Grayson, Greene, Henry, Highland, Loudoun, Louisa, Madison, Nelson (west of Route 151), Orange, Page, Patrick, Prince William, Rappahannock, Roanoke, Rockbridge, Rockingham, Shenandoah, Spotsylvania, Stafford and Warren.

CHAPTER 10. Mink.

Amend Regulation R10-1 to read as follows:

There shall be a continuous closed season for hunting mink.

CHAPTER 13. Otter.

Amend Regulation R13-1 to read as follows:

It shall be lawful to trap otter from January 1 through February 15, both dates inclusive.

CHAPTER 23. Fishing Generally.

Amend Regulation 23-3 to read as follows:

Except as provided in this regulation, there shall be no size limit on any species of fish. There shall, however, be a twenty-six-inch minimum size limit on muskellunge and northern pike. Also there shall be a twelve-inch minimum size limit on striped bass (rockfish), wherever taken, and on largemouth, smallmouth and spotted bass in the North Fork of Pound Reservoir and in the Roanoke (Staunton) and Dan Rivers and their tributaries downstream from Niagara Dam on the Roanoke River and the Brantly Steam Plant Dam on the Dan River and the Shenandoah River including the North and South Forks downstream from Route 42 bridge in Timberville on the North Fork and from the confluence of North and South rivers on the South Fork below Port Republic. It shall be unlawful to have any bass less than twelve inches in length in one's possession while on any of the waters mentioned in the preceding sentence.

Horse Show to Be Annual Event

So successful was the first Princess Anne Lions Horse Show last year that Club members decided to make it an annual event.

The 1967 show is scheduled for Saturday, May 6th at 8:30 a.m. and Sunday, May 7th at 12:30 p.m.

Not only will the show be extended to two days, it is going to be a recognized and rated show with the Virginia Horse Show Assn., Inc., and will be operated in accordance with their rules and regulations.

The two-day benefit will be held at Hillcrest Farms, located on Indian River Rd., approximately eight miles from Military Highway.

James A. Cantwell, Jr., a member of the Princess Anne Lions Club, and a local veteran equestrian, is manager of the Horse Show.

Cantwell is co-owner of Hillcrest Farms and the School of Horsemanship, and it is his fondest hope and desire along with other members of the Princess Anne Lions Club to make this year's show an even bigger success than the 1966 Show.

"WE SERVE" is the motto of the Lions Clubs throughout the world and it is the sincere desire of the Lions to combine a very worthwhile sport and pleasure with a very worthwhile civic club benefit.

AT A RECENT MEETING INITIATING PLANS FOR THE SECOND ANNUAL PRINCESS ANNE LIONS CLUB HORSE SHOW AT HILLCREST FARMS WERE JOE CANADA, 1st VICE PRESIDENT; LION J. DALE BILSON, PRES, BEN WROTON, AND ED KOSTER, CHAIRMAN OF THE HORSE SHOW COMMITTEE, WITH JOHN BLANCHARD.

Princess Anne Lions, sponsors of the Horse Show, will use all profits for their civic projects. The main project at this time is Aid to the Blind, and Conservation of Sight, which provides free examination and eye glasses for school children.

They are also very active in endorsement and securing of eye wills for the Old Dominion Eye Bank and Research Center of Richmond, Va. This is a state wide non-profit organization for the purpose of obtaining, preserving and transporting eyes, and making them available to eye surgeons who perform the miraculous transplant operations.

If further information is desired in regard to the Princess Anne Lions Horse Show or Eye Bank, please contact Ed Koster, Horse Show Chairman at 497-1146.

Last Play Progresses

Rehearsals for the Virginia Beach Little Theatre's final production of the season, Norman Krasna's comedy "Kind Sir," have begun at the Court-yard Playhouse.

Those selected by play director Chi Chi Lively for roles in the show are Gwen Kiser, George Williams, Angela Walker, Mac MacManus, Floss Lawson and Bob Furniss.

Producer Britton's backstage staff includes Shirley Fentress, Wendy Bruskin, Jean Washburn, Spencer Bruskin, Jackie Warren and Phil Uhler.

Designer Neal Thomas is directing the construction of the set and invites all interested painters, carpenters, artists and coffee pourers to join the working sessions at 8 p.m. on Monday nights at the Playhouse on 17th St. between Atlantic and Pacific.

Performances are scheduled for May 19, 20, 21, 26 and 27. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Reservations may be made by contacting the Box Office chairman, Mrs. Jesse B. Drew on Lighthorn Dr., or by phoning 428-8500 (daytime). Tickets are $2.50.

Watch the Crab Pots Sue Lawler Appointed

During every crabbing season the District Engineer has received numerous complaints from motorboat operators concerning crab pots or traps illegally placed in Chesapeake Bay and its navigable tributaries, and waters in the Lynnhaven area, including Lynnhaven Inlet, Lynnhaven Bay, Broad Bay, Lighthorn Bay, and Eastern and Western Branches of Lynnhaven River.

Many boats have been damaged or disabled by contact with crab pots or their floats and lines and have required costly repairs.

Definite limit lines have long been established in Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries, and these limits are shown on charts published by the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey. The placing of crab pots or traps outside of these limits is prohibited.

Regulations governing the placing of crab pots or traps in waters where no fishing structure limits have been established provide that crab pots or traps shall not be placed in dredged or natural channels or other lanes used by watercraft, or within 200 feet of the edge of any dredged channel; that a clear fairway at least 200 feet wide shall be maintained from navigable channels to established boat landings; that such crab pots or traps shall not be placed within 500 feet of any aid to navigation other than fishing structure buoys; that the approach to the mouth of any navigable tributary or to the mouth of any navigable branch of any tributary shall be left free and unobstructed; that this free and unobstructed approach shall lie along the channel usually followed by boats and shall have width of not less than one-third of the width of the mouth of the tributary; that within the navigable tributaries where fishing structure limits are not established, a channel in deep water of at least one-third of the total width of the waterway shall be left free and unobstructed.

The River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, provides that those convicted of violations of these regulations "shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $2500, nor less than $500," or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both such punishments. Crab pots set in violation of the regulations are in violation of the River and Harbor Act of March 3, 1899, and are subject to the penalties set forth therein.

Further, the pots are subject to summary removal by the District Engineer and in such cases the owner will be liable for the cost of their removal.

Employers Must File Tax Reports

Employers have an important tax deadline on May 1, 1967, according to James P. Boyle, district director of Internal Revenue Service in Virginia.

This is the due date for reporting and paying withheld income tax and social security taxes for the calendar quarter ended March 31, 1967.

Employers who receive a preaddressed Form 941 should use this form to report their tax liability and should attach to the return the validated depositary receipt previously received for the months of January and February.

Boyle pointed out that employers who made timely deposits in Federal Reserve Banks or authorized commercial banks sufficient to pay their full tax liability for the quarter ended March 31, 1967, including those required to make semi-monthly deposits, have until May 10, 1967, to file their returns.

"Employer's Tax Guide" (Publication No. 15) commonly called Circular E, which furnishes detailed information on this subject, may be obtained by dropping a card to your District Director, Internal Revenue Service, 400 North 8th Street Richmond, Virginia 23240.

Advertisers Are Winners
Certified TV & Appliances and Wilner's, Inc., both SUN advertisers, were awarded Certificates of Distinction at the Brand Names Foundation's 13th Annual Awards Banquet in Chicago last week.

Jules Steinberg, executive vice president of NARDA, and Stan Wilner, president of Wilner's, Inc., accepted the awards.

Sue Lawler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Webster R. Lawler of 6902 Atlantic Ave., has been appointed chairman of the Social Committee at Randolph-Macon Woman's College for the 1967-68 academic year.

Miss Lawler, a junior, is a Spanish major. She served as assistant chairman of the Social Committee this year. She is a graduate of Virginia Beach High School.
